BIG DEMAND FOR NEW BOND ISSUE AUGURS UPTURN

Subscriptions Total 9 Billion Dollars.

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—Hope that the end of the economic depression is at last in sight was held by Washington officials tonight as they viewed developments of the last two days, which included a huge oversubscription of the 800 million dollar 3½ per cent bond issue offered Monday and sharp upswings of the stock market.

While neither White House nor cabinet officials would comment for quotation, it was said that the last few days have produced several straws indicating improved prospects for a continued advancement in general business conditions. Better crop prospects, a maintained improvement in employment and a larger volume of construction were mentioned as factors which have helped to dispel some of the depression clouds.

Eight Times Oversubscribed.

When the cabinet meets tomorrow to discuss the general business situation and the state of the nation, Secretary Mellon will report that the 800 million dollar bond issue has been oversubscribed nearly eight times, a new record for the United States treasury. He will also be in a position to report that the ease with which the new government loan was floated makes it certain that the government's plan of handling the deficit through borrowing and adding to the national debt rather than through an appeal for higher taxes will be successful.

Preliminary reports received from the federal reserve banks at the time Treasury books were closed last night showed total subscriptions aggregating more than six billions of dollars. To officials, who had not anticipated an oversubscription of more than three or four times the offer, the overwhelming response came as a welcome surprise. Treasury officials said that even Secretary Mellon evinced astonishment at the tremendous demand for government securities.

Demand Largest on Record.

Treasury officials interpreted the huge public demand for government bonds partly as an indication of a superabundance of idle cash in the country. It was also felt that the oversubscription reflected a big demand for long term government securities on the part of conservative investors.

Treasury experts said that the oversubscription was the largest on record. The allocation will be approximately 800 million dollars offered. Not to exceed 330 millions will be allotted as exchanges for the maturing $589,314,000 in 3¾ and 1¾ certificates on June 15, the remainder to be allotted for cash. The proceeds of the issue in cash and other cash received from income taxes and foreign debt interest payments June 15 will be used to take up the remainder of the maturing certificates and for other general purposes of the government for the remainder of the month.

Improvement Since March.

In March, when the last bond issue of 800 million dollars bearing 3¾ per cent interest was offered subscriptions amounted to $2,111,000,000 or a little over four times the offering. At that time the oversubscription of four times was considered remarkable in view of the fact that during March $1,382,067,000 in securities of various kinds were publicly offered and a large volume of so-called "new money" was being sold to get the market to provide funds to meet government expenditures over ordinary receipts including payments to veterans on their adjusted service certificates.

STOCKS CONTINUE RALLY

The New York stock market surged forward again yesterday and at the close the Chicago grain market moved upward, reversing its decline of the previous day. The bond and foreign markets also improved.

In the stock market the railroad shares led the advance and made also some large gains as on Wednesday. The industrial issues also were strong, though advancing less buoyantly, according to The Tribune's averages. The combined railroad and industrial list showed an advance of 4.32 points, following the upturn of 7.82 points on Wednesday. Individual gains in the railroad shares ran as high as 10 points, while some of the industrials moved 6 or 8 points.

Wheat prices in Chicago recovered more than 2 cents a bushel, with buying influenced by reports of drought in Canada and damage in some of the southern wheat states. Corn and oats were carried up in sympathy with wheat.

HELP WANTED

WOMAN FINDS $17,150 IN BONDS BURIED ON FARM

Mrs. Roy Cool, a farmer's wife living at Lake Village, Ind., twenty miles southeast of Crown Point, appeared in the latter city yesterday and turned over to the authorities $17,150 worth of government bonds which she had found buried, along with a quantity of dynamite, on her husband's farm.

The bonds, which officials believe are the loot of some bank robbery, evidently had been buried for a number of years, for some of them had matured in 1923 and others bore interest coupons which had never been detached. Most of them were registered in the names of Thomas Downey and Virginia Potter.

The bonds were in three fruit jars. A fourth jar contained several sticks of dynamite, with detonators and fuse, and a box of .38 caliber revolver ammunition was found near by. Mrs. Cool discovered the top of one of the jars sticking out of the sand near her kitchen garden.

Mrs. Cool reported her find to her brother, Thomas Platt, fingerprint expert in the office of Judge Martin Smith of the Lake county, Ind., Criminal court. He turned the bonds over to Harry Schetzel, secret service operative from Chicago.

REFORMED BANDIT SHOOTS PAL; GIRL TELLS REASON

Erwin Kushner, 22 years old, 3309 West 13th street, and Jack Nidel, 21 years old, 1311 South St. Louis avenue, met last evening in the delicatessen store of Morris Jaffe at 1256 South Spaulding avenue. After a few words had been bandied back and forth Nidel drew a pistol and shot Kushner in the right leg.

Nidel fled and Kushner, taken to a hospital, declined to tell why he had been shot. But Thelma Jaffe, 16 year old daughter of the delicatessen man, told the police why.

"They used to be stickup men," she said, "both of them. Then Jack started going with me and he reformed. He hadn't pulled a single stickup for a month. He was a good boy and he shot Erwin Kushner because Erwin hadn't reformed and was trying to get him back into the robbery business. I am glad he was willing to shoot his best friend before he would go crooked again."

Dancer Wins $50,000 for Loss of One of His Toes

Washington, D. C., June 4.—(AP)—One toe is worth $50,000 to Alberto K. Ferreyros, professional dancer. A jury awarded that sum to the dancer in a suit against the Fox Theaters corporation. The dancer lost the second toe of the left foot when it was caught in moving stage equipment.

Wilkins Is Off for North Pole in Submarine

On board the strange craft are Sir Hubert, in the rôle of a modern Capt. Nemo, and a group of scientists who intend to man her while she crosses the Atlantic to England.

Much arctic ice will melt before the Nautilus makes her attempt to slide under it to the pole, using some of the weirdest devices ever shipped under the heading of marine equipment.

Bore Through Ice to Air.

On top of her hull are runners so that she can slide along under the ice like a small boy's sled upside down. She carries three powerful bits intended to bore up through the bergs to the air so necessary for the lives of her men and the running of her engines.

On her antique nose are powerful shock absorbers, built to prevent her from crashing herself to pieces against an undersea obstacle.

The cruise which started tonight has been called by many experts the craziest adventure of the 20th century, but from others it has received praise. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, arctic explorer, has called the Nautilus an eminent practical ship for cruising on and under northern seas.

Gets Verne's Blessing.

She sailed tonight with the blessing of Jules Verne, grandson of the novelist who created the first Nautilus in his "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." Verne came to this country from France in March to attend the launching which was accomplished by Lady Wilkins' smashing a lot of cracked ice across the Nautilus' nose.

Originally the O-12, the hull of Sir Hubert's vessel, is that of an out of date American naval submarine. Internally she is a maze of devices and machines of which only a few men know the secrets.

No Special Ceremony.

The departure tonight was without special ceremony. The Nautilus herself sleek, low and dark, was not visible to watchers on shore but the clustered lights of the escort ship Pontchartrain marked where she lay in the harbor.

At 11:20 o'clock the lights of the Pontchartrain moved slowly down the harbor and watchers knew that the 20th century attempt to realize Jules Verne's dream was on its way.

WILSON PLANNED TO QUIT AT ONCE IF BEATEN IN 1916

Boston, Mass., June 4.—(AP)—The Boston Post says Col. Edward H. House today disclosed that Woodrow Wilson, believing himself defeated in the 1916 election, planned to resign from the presidency at once.

The Post says that on election night in 1916 Col. House sat in the study of the White House with President Wilson, his intimate friend, listening to the election returns.

The Post says Col. House quoted Wilson as saying:

"I am satisfied of my defeat and tomorrow or next day I will resign as President of the United States and turn the office over to Mr. Hughes. Since he is the choice of the people and a situation of tremendous uncertainty is caused by the world war, it is only fair that he should take the helm immediately.

"Gregory [then attorney general] assures me that my program is entirely legal. It is this: Vice President Marshall will resign. I will remove Lansing [secretary of state] and appoint Hughes in Lansing's place. Then, having done this, I will resign myself."

PHYSICIANS SAY FALL IS TOO ILL TO GO TO CELL

El Paso, Tex., June 4.—(AP)—Four physicians concurred in a statement today that Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, is physically unable to go to Washington for commitment to jail in connection with a bribery conviction.

Government Cannot Act.

Washington, D. C., June 4.—(AP)—District Attorney Leo A. Rover said tonight that if former Interior Secretary Fall's physical condition precludes his coming to Washington to begin serving a year's prison sentence for bribery the government obviously can do nothing until his health improves.

HUGE SEAPLANE LANDS AT ISLE OFF OF BRAZIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, June 4.—The giant German seaplane DO-X completed her flight to America today in 211 days, 141 more days than Christopher Columbus took to cross the Atlantic ocean. The DO-X departed for America from Lake Constance, Switzerland, on Nov. 5, 1930, and was dogged by misfortune and storms on its long voyage to the new world. Christopher Columbus left Palos, Spain, Aug. 3, 1492, and on Oct. 12, seventy days later, discovered America at San Salvador.

FRIEDRICH CHRISTIANSEN. [A. P. Photo.]

The DO-X landed at Fernando Noronha, an island 125 miles off Natal, Brazil, at 11:15 p. m. today [8:15 p. m. Chicago daylight savings time], or twelve hours and fifteen minutes after its takeoff from Porto Praia, Cape Verde Islands, at 1 p. m. [8 a. m. Chicago time].

Covers About 1,400 Miles.

According to the crew, the flight was highly successful. They declared that they had been unable to communicate with the naval marine station at Fernando Noronha on account of poor atmospheric conditions until a few minutes before it was sighted.

Thirteen persons were aboard the DO-X on today's flight over the South Atlantic.

Members of the crew said the takeoff at Porto Praia was perfect and that the flying boat took the air in thirty seconds.

"It was a great flight," Capt. Friedrich Christiansen, the commander, said. "We were never in danger."

Motors Function Perfectly.

The DO-X roared into Fernando Noronha with all of its twelve motors functioning perfectly. For the last several hundred miles of its flight, the ship attained a speed of 150 miles per hour. Earlier in the flight the seaplane was reported in dispatches as traveling at 125 miles an hour.

Several hours after its takeoff, radio advices from the DO-X reported "All's well. The ship is flying splendidly."

Dispatches that the DO-X had plunged into the ocean soon after its departure from the Cape Verde islands were quickly proven to be false, when the plane reported her position and said that she expected to reach her destination at 11 a. m. [3 p. m. Chicago time].

Steamer Captain Gets Scare.

The report that the ship had fallen into the ocean came from a passing steamer. It is believed that the steamer's captain sent his message when he saw the DO-X flying at a low altitude and believed she was in distress.

Among the plane's occupants were Admiral Cago Coutinho of the Portuguese navy.

Average Speed 113 M. P. H.

BERLIN, June 5 [Friday].—(AP)—The manager of the Dornier Aircraft works, builders of the giant seaplane DO-X, received a telegram this morning from the ship confirming its safe landing at Fernando Noronha.

The telegram was received through the Hamburg Meteorological observatory. It said:

A LONG VOYAGE.

When the DO-X finally rose from the waters off Porta Praia, in the Cape Verde islands, and headed for Brazil, she carried with her long-deferred German hopes that the huge passenger ship would make her way to the new world under her own power.

The flight from Porto Praia to Brazil, a distance of about 1,400 miles, is the longest trip over the ocean that the DO-X has yet undertaken. On her flight to the Cape Verde islands she followed the European and African sea coasts, making many stops en route.

It was in October, 1929, that the DO-X astonished the world by taking into the air 169 persons and flying for an hour at an altitude of 1,200 feet

Lindberghs to Fly to Japan Via Aleutians

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, America's most famous ambassador of good will, will leave within a few weeks for an aerial pleasure tour of the orient, making the trip to Japan and China via the North Pacific and Russia in his own plane. Mrs. Lindbergh will accompany her husband on what army flyers assert will prove one of the severest tests of the flying prowess of the first man to make a nonstop flight across the Atlantic.

The announcement that the world famous "We" combination would make a trip through the orient was made by the state department just one day after Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson made known his plans to spend his vacation studying international problems in London, Rome, Paris, and Berlin. The fact that the announcements came so close together lent credence to reports that both tours were arranged with the object in mind of paving the way for a successful world arms reduction conference at Geneva next summer.

Will Fly Lockheed on Pontoons.

The Lindberghs will fly in the Lockheed monoplane used by them to establish a transcontinental record more than a year ago. Special pontoons have been fitted to this ship and it will shortly be ready for the journey. The plans as arranged thus far are to fly to the west coast and then take the easiest and safest route across the North Pacific to Japan. It is understood they will follow the route taken by the army round the world flyers in 1924 and fly to Siberia via the Aleutian islands.

No exact date has been set for the Lindberghs' flight, according to Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, who made the announcement. It said, however, that when Col. Lindbergh was in Washington yesterday discussing the flight he expected to get away some time this month. The Lindberghs will not take their young son and they expect to be away for at least two months.

Cables requesting official permission from Japan and China to visit those countries were sent today by Mr. Castle. Lindbergh was informed that he would have to arrange personally for permission to fly across soviet Russia in view of the fact that the United States does not maintain relations with that country. Soviet officials in Washington said today that Russia would be glad to have Lindbergh fly over sea or land on its territory.

Lindbergh Confirms Report.

New York, June 4.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh tonight gave the Associated Press his first direct confirmation that he and Mrs. Lindbergh would fly across the north Pacific to the orient. He said the flight would be made late this summer.

Col. Lindbergh said his plans were so indefinite that he had not yet studied the route he would take, further than to decide to fly along the west coast of Canada and cross the Pacific at some northerly point.

He has definitely determined that he will make no long water hops, having learned that he can cross the Pacific near the Bering straits where the distance over water would be but 56 miles.

Col. Lindbergh indicated, however, that he considered it unnecessary to limit his water flight to that extent. He probably will cross the ocean at a point further south where the over-water hop will be somewhat greater.

SCHOOLS CAN'T MEET PAY ROLL; TAX WOES GROW

Mayor Calls for Help from Governor.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Another $36,700 in daily interest on outstanding tax anticipation warrants accumulated yesterday, while the financial troubles of the local governments continued to pile up.

The school board announced that it will be unable to meet its pay rolls which are due today.

The board is now $5,145,000 in arrears on salaries and wages. Of this total, about $3,775,000 is due to the regular teachers and another $170,000 is due to substitute teachers. Three pay rolls aggregating $1,200,000 for civil service employés also remain unpaid.

County Plans to Pay Today.

The county board, which approved its $550,000 pay roll last Monday—the same day on which the county defaulted in the payment of $1,868,000 in bonds and interest—plans to hand out checks today.

Following Mayor Cermak's rebuff at Springfield on Wednesday by the house revenue committee, which postponed for a week consideration of his revenue program, the mayor attempted yesterday to arrange a conference with Gov. Emmerson on a legislative relief plan.

Mr. Emmerson was attending the national conference of governors at French Lick and did not return to Springfield until late. Mayor Cermak will renew the effort to communicate with him today and will probably try to arrange a meeting for Monday.

The Governor's Position.

Last night Gov. Emmerson said that, although he had not yet received the conference invitation from the mayor, previous engagements would prevent his attending such a meeting in Chicago tomorrow, which had first been proposed as the day for the conference.

"However," said Gov. Emmerson, "my position is well known. I am for any reasonable program that will give Chicago revenue relief. It is one of the most important issues that has been before this legislature, but unfortunately the subject matter of taxation and revenue has not been given the attention it should have had."

New Yorkers Study Situation.

City Controller Szymczak was called upon yesterday by representatives of two New York investment houses who said they are interested in tax anticipation warrants. They are Frank Morse of Lehman Brothers and H. Albert Ascher of R. W. Pressprich & Co.

After conferring with the controller for some time they visited Chicago investment houses and returned to the controller. They then said they would consult with their principals in New York.

Inquiries of this character were made a year ago, but they did not result in the sale of tax anticipation warrants in New York. City officials declined to predict what the outcome of yesterday's visits will be.

Assails "Rich Tax Dodgers."

"There are no poor men at Springfield opposing city aid," he said. "I wonder if the millionaire who pays $25 a year in personal property taxes drops a tear on his check when he writes it. Some of them import autos from France.

"What is the objection to putting teeth in the personal property tax laws? Why should we collect a license fee from the delicatessen and not from the ice cream maker? Why exact license fees from the small business and exempt the big corporations? It would be better to repeal the license law altogether.

"It will soon come out who is opposing relief for Chicago at Springfield. The public will presently know who blocks the efforts to give real estate owners a lighter tax burden.

"The time has arrived to do plain talking."

PUBLIC DEBT 243 MILLION

The floating debt of Chicago and Cook county, including also the three major park systems and sanitary district, has reached the total of $243,902,114. This does not include the debts of more than a dozen small park districts.

The total is approximately 50 per cent higher than it was last year, when it was deemed imperative to have a special session of the legislature apply remedies, and when the business interests and citizens passed the hat to collect $75,000,000 to pull the local governments out of the hole.

The city owes $6,000,000 in unpaid salaries; the county, $8,500,000 in unpaid bills. The next pay day for the school teachers now appears remote. County hospital nurses must wait for their checks until the county gets some cash.

The policemen and firemen must wait until the city obtains a loan. When salaries are paid it will be with borrowed money, and the floating indebtedness will be increased accordingly.

The $243,902,114 of floating debts constitutes a minimum to which several millions will be added monthly at the present rate of spending. Mayor Cermak told the revenue committee of the Illinois house of representatives on Wednesday that the city, the schools, and closely allied agencies owe more than $165,000,000, and the city had only $150,000 in cash in the treasury.

Large Part of Taxes Unpaid.

Of the $243,902,114 of floating debts $231,402,114 is secured by tax anticipation warrants. These are first liens against the taxes. The taxes collected last July for 1928 were $12,260,561 short of supplying enough money to pay off all the warrants issued against them. About 70 per cent of the total 1928 tax bill was paid.

Of the 1929 taxes, due on May 15 last, 58 per cent have been paid, and $79,965,674 in tax anticipation warrants against those taxes remain unpaid.

There is $128,754,677 in tax anticipation warrants outstanding against the 1930 taxes which have not yet been levied. The valuations upon which to make the levy have not been completed by the board of assessors.

Warrants Out on 1931 Taxes.

In addition there is $10,421,000 of tax anticipation warrants issued against the 1931 taxes, which, it is indicated, will not be collected until eight or ten months after the 1930 taxes are paid.

So many varying estimates have been made of the floating indebtedness of the local governments that THE TRIBUNE yesterday collected, correlated and tabulated the tax warrants of the 10 major governmental agencies. The following table shows the amount of tax anticipation warrants outstanding against each government:

Public schools	$ 87,997,000
City	79,891,577
County board	23,736,000
Sanitary board	19,349,000
South park board	6,245,360
West park board	4,200,000
Lincoln park board	4,072,477
Tuberculosis sanitarium	2,607,000
Public library	1,758,000
Firemen's pension board	1,465,000
Total	$231,402,114

Adding in the $6,000,000 of unpaid salaries of the city and the $6,500,000 of unpaid bills of the county, the total floating indebtedness of the 10 local governments is $243,902,114.

Within a few days the amount of the county's tax warrants will be reduced by $5,000,000. The county board has $2,000,000 on hand with which to pay off highway warrants, and $3,000,000 to pay off $6,650,000 of corporate warrants. In the meantime it is not believed that any of the governments will find a buyer for warrants and sell them. Each tax expending agency has been looking for purchasers for four months.

The banks and security houses have hesitated to purchase 1931 warrants until they get assurances that taxes will be levied and collected within a reasonable time. So far $10,421,000 of the 1931 warrants have been "sold" although probably more than $130,000,000 of these warrants have been offered for sale.

Special Funds "Buy" Warrants.

Only $721,000 worth of the $10,421,000 in warrants has really been sold. The remainder was "sold" by the city to itself. The city has taken trust and surplus funds and used them to pay salaries and running expenses, and—as the law permits—has deposited tax warrants in their place in the city treasury.

In the disposal of the other $721,000 in 1931 warrants it is reported that President Lewis E. Myers of the school board pledged his personal wealth to obtain the loan.

Of the total $231,420,114 of tax warrants outstanding, only $161,372,677 has been sold to banks, trust companies, investment houses and their customers.

The other $70,047,437 has been purchased with public funds. The city has sold $59,402,077 to its surplus fund account, $4,400,000 was sold to the taxpayers' trust of a year ago and the South Park commission has invested $6,245,360 in its temporarily idle bond cash account.

A tabulation of the unpaid warrants issued by each local government in anticipation of taxes for 1928, 1929, 1930, and part of 1931 shows how the floating debts have accumulated. The tabulation follows:

Year—Government.	Unpaid warrants.
1928—South parks	$ 244,520
Lincoln park	691,841
Schools	5,360,000
City	5,965,000
Total	$ 12,260,561
1929—Schools	$ 34,137,358
City	20,635,000
County	10,200,000
Sanitary district	7,661,000
West parks	2,100,000
South parks	2,440,000
Sanitarium	795,000
Lincoln park	1,680,316
Library	445,000
Fire pensions	310,000
Total	$ 79,965,674
1930—Schools	$ 48,100,000
City	45,995,479
County	13,536,000
Sanitary district	11,670,000
South parks	4,000,400
West parks	2,100,000
Lincoln park	1,700,000
Sanitarium	1,899,000
Library	1,315,000
Fire pensions	820,000
Total	$128,754,879
1931—City	$ 9,686,000
Schools	400,000
Fire pensions	335,000
Total	$ 10,421,000

It has been estimated that probably $60,000,000 of the $231,000,000 of tax anticipation warrants will be retired with the payment of the 1929 taxes. That would leave $171,000,000 outstanding at the end of the year, if no more warrants are sold.

At the present rate of spending it is estimated that the local government will need $120,000,000 for current expenses for the remainder of the year and to pay unsecured floating debts of the present.

In addition more than $20,000,000 in bonds and interest will fall due before the end of the year, and those debts will also be paid with money obtained through temporary loans, according to the fiscal agents.

Of the $123,754,879 obtained last year by the sale of anticipation warrants on 1930 taxes the banks and investment houses supplied only $88,827,402. The remaining $39,927,477 came from the surplus funds of the south park board and the city government. The city at present has a relatively small amount of surplus funds which it can loan itself.

Aldermen Propose Tax Loan Deal with Phone Company

By a vote of 11 to 8 the city council committee on gas, oil, and electricity yesterday defeated one plan proposed for the collection of $4,276,000 which the city claims is due from the Illinois Bell Telephone company as compensation for two years' use of city streets and alleys. The vote was taken during a stormy discussion of the proposed new franchise for the company.

In place of the defeated plan the committee voted to have Corporation Counsel Busch determine if the company can legally buy tax anticipation warrants and turn them in later as part of the compensation. While the amount suggested for purchase by the company was not fixed, the committee discussion centered on the sum of $1,500,000.

City Owes $1,500,000 in Pay.

Salaries of city employés are in arrears by $1,500,000 now, it was pointed out. If the company purchases $1,500,000 worth of 1931 tax warrants the city's immediate salary needs will be satisfied, but there will be no money for other pay rolls as there would be if the whole $4,276,000 were paid.

The defeated plan for collection of the back compensation was proposed by Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th]. He said it would remove the objections raised by company officials against turning over the money.

"In view of the legislative action on the tax bills I think the city will be forced to sell warrants over the counter," Nelson said. "Why don't we call a special meeting of the council and renew the company's old franchise for 90 days? The company officials then would have legal authority to pay the money, and in the meantime we could continue the negotiations on the new franchise."

Debate Grows Stormy.

Objections to the plan were voiced by Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the committee; Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th], and Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th].

Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th] criticized Ald. Hodes for bringing the names of Mayor Cermak and Mr. Busch into the discussion with the intimation that they approve the proposed franchise.

"I know Mayor Cermak and Mr. Busch also," said O'Grady. "They never asked me to vote for this ordinance, and when you say they approve of it you are doing them an injustice."

Defeat Ald. Nelson's Plan.

The debate was followed by a call for the vote, which defeated Nelson's plan for a 90 day renewal of the old franchise. In the roll call the committee members stood as follows:

FOR.

Schreiber [5th]	Terrell [20th]
O'Grady [14th]	Feigenbutz [45th]
Leahy [27th]	Nelson [46th]

AGAINST.

Cronson [4th]	Cepak [22d]
Jackson [3d]	Toman [22d]
Hodes [7th]	Porter [35th]
Govier [9th]	Loescher [44th]
Moran [16th]	Williston [49th]
Northrup [19th]

Another development in the battle over the proposed new franchise was the victory of Aldermen O'Grady and Nelson in getting evidence introduced to show that the city would lose $4,161,571 in compensation under its terms.

This followed the roll call when Ald. Arvey insisted that the committee discuss the proposed franchise, leaving the disputed sections to the last. These sections concern compensation and the payment of the cost of relocating the telephone equipment out of the way of subway construction.

Nelson Calls for Information.

"Does that mean that you are going to restrict aldermen from asking information?" queried Nelson. "Why do you insist we proceed without giving us a comparison of the compensation features of the old and proposed franchises?"

The financial statement was introduced and it was then discovered that the city's loss would be $4,161,571 in compensation and other features during the duration of the franchise. Besides that, it was pointed out, the school board would have to pay for telephone service that it now gets free.

When the reading of the new measure finally was started Ald. Nelson objected to the grant to the company to operate television equipment. "We may be giving the company a property right or a monopoly in television in Chicago," he said.

His point was lost, however. The committee then recessed until this morning.

30 POUND BAR FALLS IN MOVIE AND KILLS GIRL

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—Miss Sophie Muck, 22, of the Bronx, was struck on the head and fatally injured tonight by a thirty pound iron bar which fell through the skylight of the Globe theater on Broadway between 46th and 47th streets.

Miss Muck was watching the movie with her escort, Lionel Salvosy, a newspaper man, in the front row of the mezzanine balcony when the bar fell. It crushed the fore part of her skull. She died later at Roosevelt hospital.

The bar had been used as a weight to keep in place a large tarpaulin over the skylight. Thomas Dean, engineer of the theater, was instructed to draw back the tarpaulin to permit better ventilation in the theater. He did not notice the iron bar and as he drew the covering the weight fell through the opening.

MAYOR HONORED BY WEST SIDERS IN PARK MEETING

Cermak Speaks in His Home Section.

West side residents gathered last night in Garfield park to honor the west side mayor of Chicago. Mayor Cermak was their guest, and after other speakers had lauded him and their section of the city, declared that he was a booster for the west side as well as for the entire city. He then discussed the city's finances.

Ald. John S. Clark, who represents the 30th ward, a west side ward, and is chairman of the city council's finance committee, preceded Mayor Cermak as a speaker and asked the public's coöperation for the mayor in an attempt to restore the city's standing "after twelve years of debauchery in public office."

Officials Have Hard Job.

"The west side may feel that it is well represented in having the mayor and the chairman of the finance committee from its midst," the mayor said, "but Ald. Clark has a lot of chairmanship and no finance. We who are proud of being west siders will do everything we can for this section, but we have a hard job on our hands right now.

"We are spending a tremendous amount of interest money that could be used to advantage in other ways, but that was made necessary by the reassessment. Now we are told the bankers won't loan us any more money because of a possibility that we will be unable to repay it.

Will Spend More for Improvement.

"The bankers don't take into consideration the improvements of the city. A man may be able to borrow only a certain amount on his home, but if he improves the property and makes it more valuable, then he can borrow more money. Chicago has spent hundreds of millions in improvements and will continue to do so. Our lake front beautification was costly but worth while.

"Under the new traction ordinance millions will be spent for public improvement. We have paved 1,000 miles of roads in Cook county, around the city, and widened hundreds more; we have effected grade separations to make life safer; we have built parks, forest preserves, zoölogical gardens, swimming pools and recreation centers. Hundreds of millions have been spent and will be spent again to make visitors to our 1933 World's Fair realize they never visited a better, finer city."

BURNHAM AVENUE VIADUCT TO OPEN FOR USE JUNE 15

Announcement was made yesterday that the $1,000,000 Burnham avenue viaduct in Calumet City, which has been under construction for nearly two years, will be open for use on June 15. Formal dedication of the structure will be made on July 4, according to plan.

The viaduct, which is 3,600 feet long, crosses nineteen railroad tracks, the State-Hammond highway and the Calumet river. Costs of construction were borne by Cook county, the state of Illinois and the Michigan Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Harbor Belt line railroads.

When the whole improvement of Burnham avenue is complete, a new highway, paralleling Torrence avenue, will relieve congestion moving from Chicago to northern Indiana. The viaduct is just south of the Chicago city limits.

SENATE APPROVES BILL TO LET CHICAGO DRAW ON IDLE FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 4.—[Special.]—Passage of a bill in the senate today which would allow municipalities to dip into funds heretofore dedicated to specific uses, for the purchase of tax warrants, was declared here tonight to offer a partial solution for the financial difficulties of Cook county governments. The bill still has to pass the house.

In the past, the City of Chicago has had the power to use trust funds, such as the car rider's traction fund, to buy tax warrants and has employed it, with the result that much of the traction money now is invested in various securities. The city has not had, however, authority to use bond funds for investment warrants and this is permitted by the bill which was adopted today.

It was said by Minority Leader Igoe that the city administration is planning to use this new authority in conjunction with that which it already has, and that a total of $58,000,000 thus will be made available during the year to meet current expenses. Just how much is now available for the purpose is not known here. Before the traction fund can be so used, taxes for 1929 and 1930 must come in to redeem warrants of the city and school board now held by the fund.

The sanitary district and Cook county government are given authority by the bill to use any idle funds they may have for the purchase of their warrants. Recently the legislature validated $38,000,000 worth of sanitary district bonds voted to finance construction of sewage treatment works.

The one drawback, it is recognized, is that use of bond funds for current expenses will hold up public works. This is a question of policy the governments must work out.

ASKS POLICE TO FIND WIFE.

The police were requested yesterday to renew their search for Mrs. Grace Nelson, 40 years old, who has been missing from her home at 6834 Dorchester avenue since May 21. Her husband, Carl, fears she may be suffering with amnesia.

RUMOR LEVY OF DIME DAILY ON STREETCLEANERS

Report Persists Despite Official Denial.

It was rumored yesterday that a tax has been levied on the laborers who clean the streets of 10 and 15 cents a man per day.

This report, which gained circulation a fortnight ago, still persists despite the assertions of street supervising officials of no knowledge of the collections. It is said that representations have been made to the street sweepers that the payments are a contribution for political purposes; and that at least a portion of it goes to aldermen, because they determine in the annual appropriation bill how many shall be hired and at what compensation.

Calls Rumor Unbelievable.

Asked whether he had heard the report, Superintendent of Streets Joseph Butler said:

"Never heard a rumor of such a thing. It seems unbelieveable that anyone would cop a dime a day from a street sweeper."

However, back in 1911 or 1912, during the early part of the last Harrison city administration, it was then charged that a ward foreman was collecting a dime a day from street laborers. The late Joseph Kostner, deputy commissioner of public works, called in the foreman who admitted that some of the men bought him a drink before going to work. Then when he had enough drinks he took a cigar; and at other times when he had enough drinks and cigars he accepted an offered dime from a few of the workers. That was at a time when a street sweeper received about half of the $5.50 and $5.60 a day now paid.

Of the 1,416 street sweepers at work yesterday, 843 received $5.60 and the others $5.50 each a day. The extra dime is paid men in uniform for laundry.

"This charge of collecting a dime a day from street sweepers is much worse," said Superintendent Butler, "than an outsider can realize. You might think the average laborer earns $33 a week at $5.50 per day; but I venture that the sweeps last year and this will only average between three and four days a week — probably around $19 a week. A large percentage have families."

A large amount of money is spent annually for street cleaners. The total in 1929 was $4,121,941, but last year it was cut to $3,727,660, and the appropriation this year is $2,655,000.

News to Carrozza.

Mike Carrozza, boss of the street cleaners' union, said that he knew nothing about squeezing a dime or 15 cents a day out of the laborers.

"Never heard of it before," said Mike. "The union has a steward in every ward yard, and I think I should have picked up a rumor of it if it is being done, and especially if done on a good sized scale."

William Galligan, assistant superintendent of streets on the south side, said that he had not heard of any collections; and Assistant Superintendent P. Q. Rohm of the north side said that he thinks "it is a malicious rumor," but would make some inquiries to see if he could find any evidence.

POPE CALLS OFF PUBLIC CHURCH PARADES IN ITALY

Action Taken to Prevent "Fascist Attacks."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 5.—The streets of Rome, which in times past have been thronged with the devout on Corpus Christi day, were silent today, as Pope Pius XI., in protest against the Fascist government for dissolving the Catholic laymen's organizations, forbade the traditional public religious processions outside the churches.

MSGR. CINI DUCA.

As a consequence the churches were filled with worshipers, and priests throughout the 20,000 parishes of Italy told their flocks that the Corpus Christi processions had been forbidden because there was no guarantee that the ceremonies would not be broken up by anti-Catholic elements. The pontiff also distributed copies of the pontiff's bitter statement against the Fascist government which he made last Sunday.

Fascist Press Silent.

The Fascist press was silent today, hinting the absence of public demonstrations in connection with Corpus Christi day, and saying nothing about the developments in the controversy between the church and the state.

This morning Pope Pius, who is staunchly maintained his stand that the Mussolini government violated the Lateran pact in the dissolution of the Catholic organizations, conferred with the diplomats of his court. At this parley were Msgr. Borgoncini Duca, papal nuncio to Italy, and Marchese Pacelli, the pontiff's legal adviser, who, with Cardinal Gasparri, former Vatican secretary of state, is believed to be carrying on secret negotiations with the Italian government.

Following this conference it was revealed that the pope has addressed another note of protest to the Fascist foreign ministry, to follow the one of last Friday, which was ignored. This note, which is understood to have been delivered either Monday or Tuesday, has not yet been acknowledged, and the belief is growing that the Fascist government is making no moves toward a conciliation.

Calls for Apologies.

It is believed that the second note reiterates the demands of the first note for apologies, reparations, and the arrest and punishment of persons who were guilty of insulting the pope in last week's anti-Catholic demonstrations.

The only move that the government made in the controversy today was to declare that members of Catholic juvenile clubs, closed by the dissolution decree, are eligible for membership in Fascist organizations if they affiliate before July 1. Otherwise they will be compelled to work up through the Fascist ranks to this status.

Catholic observers tonight are inclined to believe that the inability of the two governments to unite in an agreement is an indication that Premier Mussolini arranged the entire campaign in an effort to abolish Catholic Action. Il duce in certain quarters is being openly charged of fomenting the press campaign against the Catholic organizations, and some even declare that he incited Fascist students to raid Catholic meeting places and trample the pope's picture.

Madrid Churches Packed.

MADRID, June 4.—(AP)—Churches were packed to overflowing throughout Spain today as Catholics observed the religious holiday of Corpus Christi. The day passed quietly for the most part, except for minor incidents at Bilbao, where mobs tore down monarchist and Catholic flags.

SUBMITS BILL GIVING FRENCH WOMEN RIGHT TO VOTE, HOLD OFFICE

PARIS, June 4.—(AP)—A proposal for woman suffrage in France and the eligibility of women for public office has been submitted to the suffrage committee of the chamber of deputies by Louis Marin, former cabinet minister and now leader of the important center group. Marin asked that the proposal be taken up immediately. Marin urged that a bill to this effect be introduced so that it could become law before the 1932 parliamentary election. At the same time he asked a return to the system of proportional representation employed in the 1919 and 1924 parliamentary elections but discarded in 1928 in favor of the election of deputies by individual districts.

In an accompanying report, he said both reforms for a long time have had the force of public opinion behind them. Successive chambers have approved women suffrage bills but they have always come to grief in the senate.

JUDGE ASSAILS RUM SELLERS IN SCHOOL ZONES

After denouncing two keepers of moonshine flats near public schools as "primary sources of crime and festering sores on the community," Judge John J. Lupe fined them $100 each in the South Chicago court yesterday.

The defendants were Mrs. Helen Iganish, 36 years old, whose flat at 10232 Avenue M is two blocks from the Gallistel Elementary school at 10347 Ewing avenue, and Peter Brobac, 36 years old. Police seized thirteen gallons of moonshine in Brobac's flat at 8933 Buffalo avenue, across the street from the James Thorpe school.

Leroy Hitson, 17 years old, of 10734 Mackinaw avenue, was arrested when police caught him leaving Mrs. Iganish's flat with a pint of moonshine for which he said he had paid 25 cents. Hitson's brother, Harry, was recently held to the grand jury on eight charges of robbery after his accomplice had been slain during a robbery. Leroy was freed by Judge Lupe because of his youth.

Girl Tries to End Life by Leap from Hotel Window

Lenora Fowler, 22 years old, a divorcee, leaped from a third floor window of the Stratford hotel, 4131 Sheridan road, early this morning in an attempt to end her life. She landed on the sidewalk in front of the hotel and was taken to the American hospital in a critical condition with a probable fracture of the skull.

QUIZ MAN HELD FOR KIDNAPING ON OLD MURDER

Edward F. Ward, 27 years old, an alleged army deserter, who was seized a week ago in an attempted kidnaping, is being held today by Bellwood police as a suspect in the mysterious murder in September, 1927, of Edna Mueller, 15 years old, of Hinsdale. Ward, also known as Jack Miller, lives at 1504 South 1st avenue, Maywood.

Lieut. Walter Healy of the Chicago detective bureau is cooperating with Chief George Wahlsted of Westchester, who made the arrest, and Chief Henry Eggebrecht of Bellwood. Lieut. Healy said Ward will be brought to the bureau some time today for further inquiry. He has already been bound to the grand jury on a charge of attempted kidnaping.

Ward was apprehended on the complaint of Miss Francine Woodbine of 1447 Westchester boulevard, Westchester. According to her story Ward and two companions seized her near the Canterbury "L" station in Westchester May 31. He threatened her, she asserted, by remarking he would treat her as he had a girl he had attacked and killed in Hillside. On this statement police base their theory of the Mueller girl slaying. Fort Sheridan records show Ward to have been absent the night the girl was slain.

425 Million in Resources Reported by World Bank

BASEL, Switzerland, June 4.—(AP)—The statement of the World Bank for International Settlements as of May 31 shows active resources of 425 million, of which slightly over 300 million is in one to three months' credits and over 130 million in discount and treasury bonds. More than 170 million is on deposit by central banks for their own accounts and more than 160 million for other operations.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO FORCE RECORDING OF CONDITIONAL SALES

Springfield, Ill., June 4.—(AP)—For the second time this session the house of representatives tonight passed a bill requiring conditional [installment] sales contracts to be filed with county recorders.

The first bill was passed several months ago, but was promptly killed by the senate committee on licenses and miscellany. Representative John Peffers of Aurora offered the second measure.

The bill would make all conditional sales contracts void unless they were registered within 30 days. One result of the bill would be a large increase in county fees, sponsors said.

Big Bill Edwards' Wife Wins $400 Month Alimony

White Plains, N. Y., June 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Norma Jones Edwards today was awarded $400 a month alimony and $4,000 counsel fees in a Supreme court suit for separation from her husband, William R. "Big Bill" Edwards, former Princeton all-American football star. She was allowed an additional $1,000 for an investigation. Mrs. Edwards, against whom a countersuit for divorce has been filed, asked $1,000 a month and $10,000 fees. She charges cruel and inhuman treatment.

Aged Chicago Sea Captain Dies from Paralytic Stroke

Pensacola, Fla., June 4.—(AP)—Capt. Ole Amundsen, retired sea captain, of Chicago, died here today from a stroke of paralysis. He was 74. The body will be sent to Chicago for burial. Friends said he was a relative of the late Roald Amundsen, arctic explorer.

HUSZAR STARTED FOR CHICAGO AND CELL IN JOLIET

Indian Joe Huszar, one time chief of police of Broadview and the terror of hundreds of autoists whom he shook down, is on his way to Chicago. He is to be taken at once to Joliet penitentiary to serve a sentence of one to fourteen years for assault with intent to kill, a sentence which he evaded by fleeing in 1928 while his case was awaiting appeal.

Huszar's arrest occurred in Pueblo, Colo., on May 27. He had been recognized there by a former acquaintance. The state's attorney's office here was notified and Sergt. Harry Larson was sent to bring him back. Larson and his prisoner boarded a train late yesterday afternoon and are due to arrive here late this evening.

At the station to see Joe off to prison was Mrs. Lena Schenck, who fled with him when he deserted his wife. While their tearful farewell was taking place Huszar became angry at photographers trying to take his picture and attacked them. He was subdued and thrust on the train.

Operating a speed trap in Broadview, Huszar made so many arrests that the court costs alone in the court of Justice of the Peace Edward Wareham amounted to $800 a month.

11 OF DEBATING CLUB OF 1881 HOLD A REUNION

The 50th anniversary of the E. O. W. club, which was founded in 1881 in the old Sixth Presbyterian church, then at 36th street and Vincennes avenue, was observed last night at the home of Harry H. Lobdell, 209 Lake Shore drive. According to surviving members, the club was founded as a debating society. The initials in its name have a significance that was not explained.

The charter of the club carried the names of 33 members, but only 11 were present last night. Of the other 22, 14 are dead and 8 were not able to attend the reunion. The ages of the surviving members range from 63 to 70 years.

The man to travel the longest distance to come to the reunion was Robert M. Tooker of San Francisco.

GARY REVIEWS ITS 25 YEAR RISE TO GREATNESS

Ottawa, Naperville Also Celebrate.

Gary, Ind., bustling youngster among cities, began a four day celebration yesterday of its remarkable growth in 25 years from a waste of sand dunes to a population of more than 100,000.

Two smaller communities in the metropolitan area of Chicago will begin celebrations today of their centennial anniversaries. They are Naperville, founded by Capt. Joseph Naper in 1831, and Ottawa, county seat of La Salle county, which was settled by covered wagon immigrants from the east 100 years ago.

Gary was decked with flags and visitors from northern Indiana and the Chicago district swarmed its streets yesterday. The jubilee will end on Sunday night. It was estimated that between 100,000 and 150,000 persons will visit the city during the four days of celebration.

Opening Day's Events.

A horse show, R. O. T. C. competitive drill, gatherings of pioneer settlers and a military ball last night were features of the first day's celebration. Miss Louise Matthew was chosen queen of the jubilee at the ball over which Capt. H. S. Morton, early resident, president of the chamber of commerce, presided.

A parade in which 4,000 persons, 100 floats, and 14 bands are to participate will be staged this afternoon. The Pioneers' Society of Gary, recently organized, will hold its first annual banquet tonight, with William P. Gleason presiding. Mr. Gleason was sent to Gary 25 years ago by the Illinois Steel company to organize the steel mills which are the basis of the town's prosperity.

The climax of the celebration will come on Saturday night with the presentation of a historic pageant in Marquette park. One of the exhibits will be a steel mill in miniature on which 1,500 men have been working for two weeks.

Naperville Celebration Today.

The Naperville celebration will begin this morning with a school children's parade. A pageant will be presented in the afternoon, reviewing the history of the town from its foundation. Eight hundred persons, all of them direct descendants of early settlers in the district, will take part in a spectacle entitled "The Spirit of Naperville." Miss Jane Latshaw, great-granddaughter of Capt. Naper, will take the part of Miss Naperville.

On Saturday Centennial park, an area of 45 acres on the western edge of Naperville, will be dedicated. Judge Frederic R. De Young of the Illinois supreme court will be the speaker. A parade, water carnival, fireworks, and boat races will close the celebration.

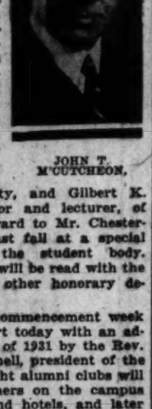
Strawn to Talk at Ottawa.

Attorney Silas Strawn of Chicago, a native of Ottawa, will be the principal speaker on Saturday at the centennial celebration in Ottawa.

A parade, comparing the days of 1831 with those of 1931, will be held this morning. A log cabin such as those which clustered together in La Salle county's first days will be dedicated. An old settlers' picnic, a pageant showing the county's history, and other exhibits will be staged during the celebration.

La Salle county was formed when Gov. John Reynolds signed the act creating it in June, 1831. It was then one of the three counties composing the northern part of the state. The district is rich in Indian history and is noted as being the scene, late in the eighteenth century, of the starving to death of a band of Illinois Indians on the great promontory now known as Starved Rock.

J. T. M'CUTCHEON TO GET NOTRE DAME DEGREE ON SUNDAY



JOHN T. M'CUTCHEON.

John T. McCutcheon, TRIBUNE cartoonist, will receive one of the four honorary degrees to be awarded by Notre Dame university at the graduation exercises of 405 seniors to be held at South Bend on Sunday afternoon. He will be given the degree of doctor of law.

Others receiving honorary degrees will be Angus McDonald, a member of the class of 1900, who is now president of the Southern Pacific railroad; W. Frank Wilson, attorney, of Oklahoma City, and Gilbert K. Chesterton, author and lecturer, of London. The award to Mr. Chesterton was made last fall at a special convocation of the student body. Only the citation will be read with the awarding of the other honorary degrees on Sunday.

Notre Dame's commencement week activities will start today with an address to the class of 1931 by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university. Tonight alumni clubs will hold reunion dinners on the campus and in South Bend hotels, and later the University theater will present the "Merchant of Venice" in Washington hall and the University band will give a concert from the porch of the administration building.

WOMEN LAWYERS NAME MARY KELLY STATE PRESIDENT

Attorney Mary G. Kelly was elected president of the Women's Bar association of Illinois at the annual election yesterday. She is a member of the Chicago and American Bar associations and Kappa Beta Pi, international legal sorority.

Miss Kelly is an alumna of Loyola university. For the last six years she has been associated in law practice with Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe.

Other officers chosen with Miss Kelly are Zita J. Stone, first vice president; Mrs. Grace Harte, second vice president; Dorothy J. Marcus, secretary; Mrs. Bertha C. Carlson, treasurer, and Kathryn Barass, Elizabeth H. Buchhalter, Bertha MacGregor, Helen Cirese Hunnewell, and Vera Binks, directors. Miss Binks is from Kewanee.

BUSINESS MEN VOTE FOR YEARLY CHICAGO JUBILEE

Favor Annual Event by Wide Margin.

In reply to a questionnaire sent out by the Association of Commerce, business men yesterday voiced wholehearted approval of an annual Chicago Jubilee. They expressed belief that this year's event had given a great impetus to the city's industries and pledged support for a similar festival next season.

Yesterday's tabulation of the first answers received showed 105 in favor and only nine opposed. Thirty were noncommital. Wholesale houses were unanimous in their approval, while retailers were divided.

Suggest Some Improvements.

While all were enthusiastic over the manner in which the recent Jubilee was conducted, there were many comments and suggestions for improving it next year. It was proposed that preparations should begin far in advance to allow time for a comprehensive program throughout the city's individual neighborhoods. All the nationalities, it was said, should have celebrations which would reflect the spirit of their communities, and then the entire festival should be brought to a point and welded into one by a blaze of color, music, and hilarity in the loop.

Another suggestion was to the effect that the jubilee should coincide with the opening of the summer season so as to feature Chicago's attractions as a vacation center. It would give visitors a chance to appreciate the beauties of Chicago's parks, the coolness of its lake breezes and the completeness of its facilities for sport.

Praise was voiced freely for the way in which the grand parade down Michigan avenue was conducted and each firm which was represented by a float indicated that it would be interested in having another entry in a similar event next season.

It was also proposed that Chicago Products week, held in April this year, should be made to coincide with the date of the Jubilee. Suggestions that the festival be confined to seven days instead of ten also were made.

20 Hospital Patients Eat Pudding; Develop Typhus

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, June 4.—Twenty patients were poisoned at the military hospital here today. After eating pudding they developed typhus and, according to medical investigation, the pudding was infected with paratyphoid, a bacteria from the eggs of pigeons. The patients are in a serious condition.

THE TRUTH ABOUT SUIT PRICES

Several weeks ago the Chicago Tribune made an independent and impartial survey of retail clothing prices and reported an average decline of about 20%. It does not follow that the $50 suit of last year, now selling at $40, remains a $50 value, or that it may honestly be advertised as a $50 value. Such representations and valuations are just as absurd as to claim that a common stock now selling at $50 is worth its high of $150 in 1928

Clothing prices are down and the old prices are history. Without using misleading price comparisons of 1928, we say these three values are below the present market,

BARE GANG PLOT TO WRECK BUS LINE; 8 ARRESTED

12 Others Sought for Fake Accidents.

What is believed to be an attempt of the notorious Purple gang of Detroit to ruin an interstate bus line so that the gang itself could successfully operate a competing line was brought to light yesterday when warrants were issued for twenty persons charged with complicity in a plot to stage a number of fake bus accidents.

The warrants were issued yesterday by Judge Matthew Hartigan in Felony court at the request of Assistant State's Attorney Julius T. Skrydlewski, who said that eight of the alleged conspirators had been apprehended and that several had confessed their parts in the plot.

Eight Now in Custody.

Those now being held are William Howard May, driver of a bus which is said to have been deliberately wrecked; James Kennedy, 6030 Blackstone avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones of the same address; Clarence F. Sager, Dennis Zenos, employed by a lawyer who specializes in personal injury suits; Grace Carter, 1333 Jackson boulevard, and Eldora Madis, 2240 Jackson boulevard. The names of the others who are sought were suppressed pending service of the warrants.

All are charged with conspiracy to defraud Interstate Transit, Inc., an Ohio corporation operating several subsidiary bus lines, by means of fake accident claims. According to the prosecuter, Zenos and the others made a trip on a bus of the Colonial Bus lines, a subsidiary of the Interstate company running between Chicago and St. Louis, knowing that an accident was to be staged.

Zenos is said to have admitted his part in the plot, claiming that he was forced to engineer the fake accident by two members of the Purple gang whom he knew only as "Scotty" and "Brown."

Balks at Last Minute.

According to the prosecutor the "victims" of the accident met in Zenos' home to plan the wreck, partook of a chicken dinner and boarded the bus for St. Louis. The accident was supposed to have occurred on the southbound trip, but May, the driver, is reported to have balked at the last minute.

May is said to have confessed and charged that his passengers intimidated him on the return trip, threatening his life if he did not wreck the bus. The accident occurred on April 28, ten miles east of Pontiac, while en route to Chicago. According to the charges the driver suddenly weaved about on the road and drove into a ditch, but none of the passengers was hurt.

The state claims that while Zenos was not in the bus at the time of the accident he was on the spot to watch it. He is also charged with planning another such accident on the bus line operating between Chicago and Detroit.

Inquiry Is Started.

Claims for damages brought against the Interstate company as a result of the accident are said to have totaled more than $30,000. The claims are covered by the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company, which started the investigation leading to the action of the state's attorney's office.

Lieut. William V. Blaul and a squad of state's attorney's policemen were searching last night for the others named in the warrants. Those apprehended will be arraigned before Judge Hartigan today.

Deserted Baby Finds Friend

A 2 year old boy who was abandoned in the street in front of 2360 West 25th street Wednesday night was being held at the St. Vincent's orphanage yesterday while Marquette police were seeking the child's mother. The baby was found lying in his carriage on the sidewalk by Policemen William Simmons and Joseph Cijanek. The boy wore a blue dress and blue stockings and a pink and white sweater. Nothing in the carriage gave a clew to his identity.

TOSCANINI GIVEN BACK PASSPORT; MAY LEAVE ITALY

MILAN, Italy, June 4.—(AP)—Arturo Toscanini's passport, which was suspended after the conductor refused to play the royal march and Fascist anthem at Bologna recently, was returned to him today and he is now free to leave Italy. It was said the maestro would go to Bayreuth to conduct the Wagnerian festival.

It was disclosed today that when the conductor's passport was recalled those of all the members of his family also were withdrawn, and these have not yet been returned.

U. S. ATTORNEY SAYS SOUTH BEND RAIDS WILL GO ON

South Bend, Ind., June 4.—[Special.]—Federal District Attorney Oliver N. Loomis declared here today that the government would not be intimidated by mobs and that law enforcement would be continued even if it took an army of dry agents.

His statement was a reply to charges voiced by the Kosciusko Civic club that dry agents last week used "brutal Cossack methods" in conducting a raid on an alleged west side speakeasy.

LEWIS INDORSED FOR PRESIDENT BY DEMOCRATS

Cermak Pushes Senator's Hat Into Ring.

Under the leadership of Mayor Cermak, the Democratic organization last night indorsed Senator James Hamilton Lewis for nomination for the presidency next year.

The move was an unexpected one and the only conjecture heard concerning the reason for the action at this time was that some of the Chicago leaders had been approached this week on behalf of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland. The easterner was in attendance at the annual conference of governors at French Lick, Ind., and it was reported he was willing to come to Chicago for a conference if a suitable welcome could have been arranged for him.

Secret Meeting Is Held.

Whether it was these rumors that prompted Mayor Cermak to push Illinois' favorite son into the ring without further delay could not be learned last night, but it was in his office in the city hall that the secret meeting of the ward committeemen was called.

"There shouldn't be any doubt about where we stand on the presidential race next year," the mayor was quoted as telling the ward leaders, "and it might be well for us even at this early date to make our position known so that it cannot be questioned.

"I suggest that you consider the advisability of our indorsing Senator Lewis tonight. He is the logical candidate and we know that he could carry Illinois against anybody the Republicans could name. He stands for the same principles that we do."

Motion Carried Unanimously.

"We all feel that way about it," said Ald. James B. Bowler, "and I move that it be the sense of this meeting that James Hamilton Lewis is our first and only choice for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States in 1932."

The motion was seconded by Congressman A. J. Sabath and was carried unanimously.

It was said that nearly all of the fifty wards of the city were represented. One notable absentee was Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman, who was at Springfield attending to his duties as minority leader of the Illinois house.

MAGISTRATE FINES DOG TRACK BOSSES AND THEY APPEAL

Managers of the Hawthorne and Thornton dog tracks, arrested on May 26 when state's attorney's detectives and highway police stopped attempts to open the tracks by raids, appealed yesterday when they were fined for keeping gaming establishments.

Justice of the Peace William W. Ward, at Morton Grove, fined William Fineran of Cicero, manager of the Hawthorne track, and Thomas Healy, 921 Eastwood avenue, manager of the Thornton track, $100 each. Attorney Edward Morris posted appeal bonds of $200 apiece for his clients.

Charles Huey of Chicago Heights and E. H. Scharf of Cicero were held to the grand jury in bonds of $500 each on charges of pool selling at the tracks.

JUDGE PADDEN DRINK TO CERMAK AND U. S. MAYORS

LILLE, France, June 4.—(AP)—The party of visiting American mayors was banqueted tonight here in the leading industrial city of French Flanders by the Automobile club of northern France. The mayors arrived from Rheims this evening, where they had been entertained during the day with a tour of the famous champaign cellars of Pommery, Mumm and Heidseick.

While in one Rheims wine cellar today Silvester Andriano, president of the board of supervisors of San Francisco, raised a glass of champagne and drank "to the return of light wines and beers to America." In an adjoining cellar Judge Frank M. Padden of Chicago lifted his arm to "A. J. Cermak, Chicago's new mayor and the greatest advocate of conservative drinking in America."

REVEAL ALLEGED ROBBER ALREADY IS ON PROBATION

May Be Sent to Prison on Old Conviction.

The real status of Anthony Cogilanese in the eyes of the law may be determined this morning when he is arraigned before Judge Joseph B. David on charges of robbery and larceny. Cogilanese, an offender of no previous importance, attained notice yesterday when an examination of court records disclosed that, while he is facing a hearing on the two charges of robbery and larceny, he is already on probation following conviction on a previous robbery charge.

Under the law, therefore, Cogilanese may be charged with violation of probation, although it was reported last night that neither Judge David, the police nor the prosecutors, Assistant State's Attorneys George Lavin and Jack Baum, were aware of his record. The situation developed following a preliminary hearing on Wednesday in which Attorney Rocco De Stefano sought a few days' delay on the trial of Cogilanese.

History of the Case.

The case started last December. Court records show that Cogilanese, who gave his age first as 17 and later as 20, was arrested and charged with robbing a driver for Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. of $92 on Dec. 17 and a driver for Marshall Field & Co. of $11 on Dec. 18. Patsy Gentile and Thomas Costello were arrested with him and charged with the same crimes.

The three defendants were tried before Judge Ross C. Hall. They pleaded guilty to one charge, the penalty for which is 1 to 20 years in prison, and were placed on probation by Judge Hall. That was on Feb. 11.

On April 2, it is charged, Cogilanese stole an automobile, and on April 3, according to the prosecutors, he took $92 in checks from an employé of Wieboldt & Co. by strong arm methods. He was arrested and these are the charges on which he is before Judge David.

Probation Is Not Mentioned.

Last Wednesday Attorney De Stefano, who represented Cogilanese before Judge Hall, informed Judge David that he knew the defendant's mother, uncle and other members of the family and had once represented Cogilanese when he was put in the juvenile detention home at the age of 14. According to the record nothing was said about the two robbery charges before Judge Hall or about the probation order, and thus no warrant was issued for Cogilanese on a charge of violation of probation.

The law provides that a subsequent arrest and conviction is violation of probation and it was said by Criminal court attachés that Cogilanese could be committed to prison on the former robbery conviction if found guilty of either of the present charges.

SPAIN TAKES OVER 1,600 CHURCHES, CASTLES AS "ART"

MADRID, June 4.—(AP)—The government issued a decree today declaring that many cathedrals and churches as well as a number of private castles, including properties of former King Alfonso, are "historic and artistic monuments belonging to the nation's artistic treasures."

The order places 1,600 such buildings under control of the fine arts committee of the ministry of education. It was explained that the decree does not mean nationalization or seizure of church property. Actual ownership continues in the hands of the church or private citizens, but these "national monuments cannot be disposed of or altered without approval of the government's fine arts committee," the order says.

U. S. SECRETLY PROBES AFFAIRS OF CALUMET CITY

Officials Called Before Grand Jury.

A secret investigation of the public officials of Calumet City by the federal government came to light yesterday when five of the city's officials were reported to have appeared before the federal grand jury to answer questions relating to the city's business affairs.

JOHN JARANOWSKI.

The grand jury investigation is said to have resulted from an inquiry conducted by W. E. Bennett, chief of the special prohibition agents, and Assistant United States District Attorney Edward A. Fisher.

Police Chief Quizzed.

Among those brought to the federal building yesterday were Chief of Police John Shupyert, John Okraj, former clerk; John Kowalski, police magistrate and vice president of one of the suburb's banks, and John Carroll, cashier of the Calumet City bank.

Mr. Fisher has endeavored to reach Mayor John Jaranowski of Calumet City, who is expected to be questioned later.

The federal men were told during their investigation that Kowalski, who is an insurance man, a banker, and a man of extensive affairs in the suburb, had never maintained an itemized account of funds he collected as police magistrate, had mixed these fees with his personal account and occasionally sent to the city clerk a lump sum marked "police fund."

Saloon Keepers Fined.

The investigators were told by saloon keepers that they had been approached several times by persons who told them to appear before Magistrate Kowalski and "take a plea." Several of them did so, they declared. After pleading guilty to various charges they were fined $100, according to reports.

Kowalski's brother, James, was a recent candidate for school trustee, and was defeated. Before the election his home was raided by prohibition agents, who found an alcohol still.

POLICE IN OMAHA JAIL DRY AGENT; U.S. STRIKES BACK

Investigator Said He'd Clean Up Town.

Omaha, Neb., June 4.—(AP)—Charges of interfering with a government officer were filed by the United States district attorney's office tonight against Police Detective Chief Paul Sutton, Omaha; for jailing Joseph F. Albert, St. Paul, Minn., prohibition investigator, today.

Sutton appeared before Commissioner Mary Mullen shortly afterwards and was released on $1,000 bond. Arraignment was set for June 18.

Released on Bond.

Sutton said he jailed Albert because the latter "had been going around town for a week telling bellboys and waitresses what he was going to do to clean up Omaha." Sutton also said that he intended to investigate Albert's claim that he was a federal agent.

Albert was in jail for an hour on disorderly conduct charges before being released on bond supplied by Lyman Wheeler, Omaha federal prohibition agent.

Deputy United States Attorney Edson Smith tonight gave Albert's version of the affair. Albert, Smith said, had been in Omaha for a week investigating liquor conditions here and had called on Sutton several times previous to today to obtain information in the hands of police.

Credentials to Sutton.

Albert, Smith continued, had presented his credentials to Sutton on his first visit at police headquarters. "Sutton called Albert foul names when the agent visited him today," Smith said, "and told him that he [Sutton] was running this town and Albert was not going to do any more investigating."

Sutton then jailed Albert.

Smith said that when he called Sutton to ask why Albert was jailed he was told that the agent was jailed "because he was investigating Sutton."

400 License Delinquents Appear in Court; Fined

Because they were delinquent in securing their 1931 licenses, more than 400 shop keepers, peddlers, theater owners, tradesmen and motorists were arraigned yesterday in Municipal court before Judge John F. O'Connell. The majority were fined $1 and costs. Some appeared in court with their new licenses, but to no avail, for they were fined.

BABY DIES AFTER FALL.

Alexander Nowowiejski, 2 years old, 2270 East 79th street, who fell from a high chair two weeks ago, died yesterday in the Jackson Park hospital. A coroner's physician said the child died from gangrene.

SIGMUND ZEISLER IS DEAD; LAWYER AND CIVIC LEADER

Noted as Defense Counsel in Anarchist Cases.

Sigmund Zeisler, prominent Chicago lawyer and civic leader, died yesterday at the Michael Reese hospital at the age of 71 years. Physicians attributed his death to pneumonia following an operation for stomach ulcers, which was performed last Monday.

Attaining prominence as defense counsel in the anarchist cases of 1886 and 1887, Mr. Zeisler had occupied a conspicuous place in Chicago's professional and social life. He was formerly president of the Municipal Voters' league, had been a lecturer on law at Northwestern university, and served as first assistant corporation counsel in 1893 and 1894.

While he was master in chancery for the Circuit court, from 1904 to 1930, many equity cases of importance were referred to him. Nearly all of his findings were confirmed by the chancellor and the higher courts.

Noted as an Orator.

Mr. Zeisler was noted as an orator. On one occasion he talked before a judge for four hours a day for ten days on a single case, and shortly afterward went to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to deliver a 300,000 word oration. This took him four days, speaking six hours a day.

Mr. Zeisler was born in Bielitz, Austria, on April 11, 1860, and received his early education in his native town. Later he studied law in the University of Vienna, from which he received a degree of doctor juris in 1883.

Given Law Degree at N. U.

In that year he came to Chicago and continued his law studies at Northwestern university, receiving an LL. B. degree from that institution in 1884. He was then admitted to the Illinois bar. He was a lecturer in the John Marshall law school between 1901 and 1904.

He was married to Fannie Bloomfield, internationally famous concert pianist, in 1895 and three children were born to them, Leonard, Paul and Ernest. Mrs. Zeisler died in 1927 and in January of last year he married Amelia Spielman of Chicago.

Mr. Zeisler took an active part in politics. He was a member of the executive committee of the Municipal Voters' league from 1899 to 1905 and in 1905 he was elected president. He was a member of the American, Illinois State and Chicago Bar associations, the Chicago Literary club, the City club of Chicago, Little Room, Cliff Dwellers, and the Book and Play clubs.

Mr. Zeisler's home was at 5000 East End avenue. He is survived by his widow and his three sons, Leonard B. Zeisler of New York, Paul B. Zeisler, a banker in Berlin, and Ernest B. Zeisler, a physician.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow at the chapel at 936 East 47th street.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO SLAYING.

Evansville, Ind., June 4.—[Special.]—Thomas Fagan, 38, beer flat operator, who is held under a $3,000 bond on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of Russel Edward Davis, 61, Louisville and Nashville railroad engineer, pleaded not guilty when arraigned today.

A. A. A. OPPOSES FEDERAL TAX ON MOTOR VEHICLES

Adopt New Policies and Adjourn Session.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

West Baden, Ind., June 4.—[Special.]—The American Automobile association closed its twenty-ninth annual convention here this afternoon, after adopting resolutions on taxation, highway construction, and safety promotion that represent the policies to be advocated during the ensuing year by a thousand affiliated motor clubs with a million membership.

As for taxation, the association went on record as opposing any form of federal levy on motor vehicles and as favoring the states retaining authority over the bulk of revenue for road work with an increased allotment for the improvement of urban traffic facilities.

Saves Elevated Highways.

These resolutions attack a reported move in the Hoover administration to increase federal revenue with a gasoline tax that would be added to the tax now collected by the states. They also attack—although they are not aimed at this measure particularly—a bill pending in the Illinois legislature to give municipalities 1 cent of the 2 cents now received from the gas tax by the state highway department, a bill sponsored by the Illinois league of municipalities to counteract the state's neglect of city traffic arteries.

The type of urban facilities indorsed by the affiliated motor clubs was described as "safe and continuous high speed highways, without crossings of railroads or highways at grade, over new rights of way exclusively reserved for high-speed through traffic." This describes the elevated highways fathered by the Chicago plan commission and approved by the A. A. A. traffic committee headed by Charles M. Hayes of the Chicago Motor club.

Seek to Abolish Billboards.

On road construction generally, the association urged the authorities to spend all available road funds as rapidly as consistent with economy since 50 per cent of construction costs goes to labor directly, thus alleviating the unemployment situation.

The legislative committee was directed to continue its study of conditions along the highways to the end that the motoring public will be relieved from unsightly billboards and insanitary hot dog and barbecue stands.

"Because of the increasing toll of highway accidents and fatalities," reads a concluding resolution, "the American Automobile association pledges its continued support of all constructive safety movements, including universal adoption of the financial responsibility law, of an adequate drivers' license law, and the introduction of safety education into all schoolrooms of the country."

HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGE.

Sam Palatto, 20 years old, 1830 Edgemont street, was yesterday held in bonds of $10,000 on a charge of burglary by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in Felony court. He was arrested while carrying merchandise from a radio shop.

KIDNAPER WHO KILLED GIRL, 15, DIES OF WOUNDS

Wabasha, Minn., June 4.—(AP)—Roy Ashley, 38 year old section worker of Beaver Dam, Wis., died today in a hospital, 24 hours after he was shot by Evelyn Brown, 15, whom he kidnaped from her Beaver Dam home.

Ashley killed the girl after she shot and fatally wounded him in the abdomen near Winona, Minn., yesterday. They had stopped for Ashley to fill the automobile's radiator.

He was taken to the hospital here after the slaying and confessed he kidnaped the girl from her home Tuesday night over protest of her mother.

YEAR'S CAMPAIGN THINS RANKS OF PUBLIC ENEMIES

Crime Commission Report Praises Officials.

"Public Enemies—One Year After," is the subject of a communication sent yesterday by the Chicago crime commission to various public officials. It gives an account of the campaign waged against the twenty-eight men designated as public enemies a year ago and lists their present status as follows:

In penitentiary or jail	3
Under sentence	4
Awaiting sentence	1
Ordered extradited	1
Ordered deported	1
Killed	9
Awaiting judgment	1
Awaiting trial	4
Fugitives	5
Cleared of charges	6

"It is a source of satisfaction to report," the crime commission announced, "that because of the activities of the public officials the situation as regards well known gangsters, criminals and police characters has been greatly improved. Especial emphasis is given the vigorous service to the community rendered by United State's Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and his office, the state's attorney's office, the Municipal court and the Criminal court.

"There has been concerted action on the part of the law enforcing authorities, among the most notable being the raiding and disruption of many sources of the Capone income by federal authorities. In addition there has been a noticeable tightening of police surveillance of gangsters and their operations have been made increasingly difficult.

All Criminals Under Fire.

"Not only has there been pressure upon the twenty-eight public enemies, but there is evidence of a general assault all along the line upon professional criminals. The various law enforcing agencies have shown a commendable spirit and the newspapers have aided materially in widespread publicity which has had the effect of driving the gangsters, the racketeers and the professional criminals to cover at least temporarily.

"A continuation of this most effective service will have but one result—the minimizing of organized crime in Chicago. And it is this work to which the crime commission is committed and asks the continuing support in its campaign by all good citizens who now have opportunity to hold the ground that has been gained during a year of difficult warfare.

Campaign Will Continue.

"It is the purpose of the crime commission to continue this campaign until every one of the original twenty-eight public enemies is punished or driven from this community. In addition the day to day routine of the commission, carried on in order to make Chicago a better place in which to live and conduct business, will continue and officials and citizens are urged to redouble their efforts until that time when Chicago, the pioneer in a constructive campaign against crime in Chicago, shall be acclaimed as the most law abiding city in the world."

The vagrancy drive, begun last fall by Judge John H. Lyle against public enemies and other gangsters, was practically ended yesterday when the state's attorney's office nolle prossed the vagrancy cases against nine men. Those freed were Frank Foster, Rocco Fanelli, Edward "Spike" O'Donnell, Sam Campagna, Joseph Catrina, Sam Kaplan, Sam Jacobson, Anthony Kissane, and John Barry.

ARREST OF BREWER INTERRUPTS A VISIT OF A CONGRESSMAN

La Salle, Ill., June 4.—[Special.]—William Block, La Salle, arrested when his brewery was seized by federal agents last night, was held to the federal grand jury by U. S. Commissioner T. E. White at Ottawa today. He furnished $2,000 bonds.

Block was arrested when he drove into the yard of his home where the brewery was located with Congressman John T. Buckbee, Rockford; H. J. Tobler, Peru transfer line owner, and the postmaster of Belvidere.

Block was at his soft drink parlor in Peru when his wife phoned him of the raid. Buckbee accompanied him to his home and succeeded in preventing dry agents from removing him to jail. The customary procedure is to place violators in jail or hold them in custody until hearing before commissioner. Buckbee was able to have the custom changed and guaranteed Block's appearance before White at Ottawa.

Block denied ownership of plant and said the building housing it was leased to a man whose identity he refused to divulge. Federal agents said the plant has been operating for a year and one half. It is capable of turning out eighty barrels of beer weekly.

RONGETTI MUST SERVE 3 YEARS; PLEA IS DENIED

Dr. Amante Rongetti, convicted of manslaughter as the result of an illegal operation which caused the death of Loretta Enders three years ago, must start serving his prison sentence of one to 14 years immediately, the state Supreme court at Springfield decided yesterday in denying the physician a rehearing.

Rongetti was convicted of murder at the first trial. The Supreme court reversed this decision and a new trial was ordered. A conviction for manslaughter followed.

The state failed in its petition for a rehearing in the case of George [Red] Barker, whose discharge from custody was ordered at the April term of the high court. Barker was ordered recommitted to prison by Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court after he had been at liberty for several years on a habeas corpus writ. The Supreme court decided that Judge McGoorty was without jurisdiction.

Autopsy Shows Rich Banker Died of Fractured Skull

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—An autopsy today on the body of Daniel R. W. Murdock, wealthy banker of Everett, Mass., who was found dead in his room at the Hotel Commodore yesterday, revealed that he died of a fractured skull, Acting Chief Medical Examiner Thomas A. Gonzales announced this afternoon. Cause of death had previously been announced as heart disease. Dr. Gonzales declared that the fractured skull and other injuries revealed by the examination might have been due either to a fall or a beating and turned the case back to the police.

PRISON DECREED FOR TWO TIME RUM OFFENDERS

U.S. Judge Barnes Serves Notice in Court.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who recently announced that no liquor sellers could escape jail sentences by pleading guilty in his court, yesterday went a step further and decreed penitentiary sentences for second offenders.

The notice to second offenders was served when the new member of the federal district bench sentenced Thomas Bovak, proprietor of a saloon at 208 State street, Calumet City, to a year and a day at Leavenworth on a plea of guilty to selling booze. Assistant United States Attorney Walter Wiles recommended the penitentiary term because, he said, Bovak had been let off with a $350 fine in 1926.

Should Get Prison Terms.

"All second offenders should receive penitentiary terms," said Judge Barnes. "Some of these people have been getting off too easily on pleas of guilty. If a saloonkeeper wants to plead guilty, he should do it at the time of arrangement, and not take up the time of the court. There was a large seizure in this case, one of the largest in my experience on the bench. If the defendant had been convicted by a jury the sentence would have been at least three years."

Prosecutor Wiles announced the next defendant, Ralph Piccirilli, who also wished to plead guilty.

Defense Asks Leniency.

Defense counsel then made a plea for leniency, setting forth that although Piccirilli had owned the saloon at 16 West State street for a good many years he was not connected with its operation until a few months before the raid.

The court was urged to take into consideration Piccirilli's family, including six children; his age, 49 years, and his record of seventeen years employment with a large industrial firm.

"If a short jail sentence is not considerate, I don't know what is," said Judge Barnes. "The statute provides for five years. That is what congress has said. The sentence will be 105 days in the Du Page county jail."

Arrested for Hurling Ink Wells at Bank Employes

Adolph Borgerson, 60 years old, 2137 Point street, was arrested yesterday in the Humboldt State bank, 2722 West North avenue, and charged with disorderly conduct after he had thrown several ink wells at employes. Judge Alfred O. Erickson in Shakespeare avenue police court gave him to the custody of his relatives, who said they would place him in a sanitarium.

HORTON FORCES HOLD THE VOTES AGAINST OUSTER

Tennessee Oratory Alone Can't Impeach.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Nashville, Tenn., June 4.—[Special.]—"Tall men, sun crowned, who live above the fog," the spirits of the great leaders of the early days, even the voice from heaven were invoked in the Tennessee legislature today as they struggled through torrid debate toward a crucial vote on the question of the impeachment of Gov. Henry H. Horton.

The impeachers seemed to have all the logic and the facts, but the majority of votes were still held firmly by the administration, according to all indications.

All the cries of corruption, the facts about the great financial losses by the state, the arguments on the conspiracy of which Gov. Horton is charged with being a part, rebounded against the wall built by the governor and his friends. The facts were not argued or denied; it was merely held that the governor was not responsible. They wanted the issue settled here, not in a senate trial.

Crump Comes to Chamber.

The third day of the impeachment proceedings in the house opened with a little encouragement in sight for the anti-administration group and it was apparent when Congressman Edward F. Crump entered the chamber for the first time and took his seat with the Memphis delegation, that an unusual effort of some sort was about to be made.

As leader of the forces against Governor Horton, Mr. Crump has been much criticised lately for letting the golden opportunity slip by without bringing the issues to a vote long ago, when sentiment was high in the state. Delay, it is said, has been the main factor in aiding the administration, forming sentiment for the silver-haired old governor, giving his powerful organization, backed by 20,000 employés, a chance to bring practical pressure where it was most needed. It is generally conceded now that the impeachment question cannot be decided solely on its merits. The black and white of a month ago has changed to gray. Motives are mixed and men are confused.

Yearns for Leaders of Past.

"If we only had the leaders of yesterday" sighed a young Republican from Carroll county, Representative R. M. Murray, who opened the day's debate. He is the author of a bill to repeal the anti-evoluton law which is slumbering in the committee.

Mr. Murray did not disclose how he stood on the issues, contenting himself with asking his colleagues to weigh the evidence and vote their convictions, taking dictation from no one.

It is said that J. Will Taylor, Republican congressman from eastern Tennessee has entered the fight from a distance and that his followers in the legislature will trade their votes for good roads that the governor has promised them. This is reminiscent of Mr. Crump's action of two years ago in supporting Horton in return for benefits to his part of the state.

J. Arthur Atchley, another Republican member from Knoxville, pointed out that the governor had asked for this investigation.

"It has been made," he said. "He stands charged with a crime. Every one in Tennessee knows that the office of governor today is held in contempt and ridicule. We have spent $250,000 in ferreting out these charges. I think I would stultify myself not to vote for this impeachment. I could not face my people at home. It will take years of taxes for the people to pay for Brentwood Hall, Rogers Caldwell's palatial home, which was carried on the books of a defunct bank as an asset of the bank."

Speaker Walter Haynes took the floor in a forty minute address. He was applauded several times as he told of why he favored the impeachment, although the applause did not come from galleries, but from a portion of the membership. He is a popular speaker and his words carried weight.

"I have nothing in my heart but sympathy for Gov. Horton. A great public fund was voted in Tennessee. It was placed in a bank where it would be used to speculate and gamble with. This is in the record. On that issue there is no controversy. It is argued that the chief executive had no control over this money. He is the head of the government. He saw that fund pass away. It is in the testimony that unless this bank had procured state funds it would have failed a year before, long before the depression swept this country. I am concerned with those who walk in poverty not with those who live in luxury in Brentwood Hall."

"I do not charge the chief executive with acting for private gain. I don't believe it. His personal honor and integrity do not enter into this discussion. The record will disclose the fact that he permitted these things to go on and you know in your hearts that that is true. If he did, I say to you that he should meet the issue in the senate chamber."

AMBASSADOR DAWES LEAVES WASHINGTON FOR VISIT TO CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to England, left the capital this afternoon for his home in Chicago, where he will spend the next two or three days.

Mr. Dawes completed conferences with President Hoover and state department officials and will not return to Washington prior to his departure for London, probably June 22.

Prior to taking a train for Chicago, Ambassador Dawes conferred with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson for more than an hour on the latter's approaching trip to Europe. Ambassador Dawes expects to devote most of his time while in Chicago on plans for the 1933 World's Fair.

DIES SUDDENLY IN HOME.

William J. Card, 73 years old, 2616 East 74th street, died suddenly yesterday at his home from a heart attack superinduced by the heat. Card was a retired farmer.

Two bandits with their hands thrust in their pockets as if they held revolvers, forced two girl messengers for the Raikles restaurants into the lobby of the Rookery building at 209 South La Salle street yesterday and robbed them of $989.

The robbers escaped on foot, eluding a special policeman who pursued them in the crowds of the financial district. Their victims were Miss Angeline Raffes, 2961 Warsaw avenue, and Miss Kay De Lianou, 11246 Watt avenue. They were taking the money to the Central Trust company when they were robbed.

The two men stepped up behind the girls and one said: "Step inside the lobby here—quick."

There he told them: "This is a stickup. Give us the money." The bandits seized the packages of cash and fled.

$1,000 Reward Offered for Two Holdup Killers

A $1,000 reward was offered yesterday for the arrest and conviction of the two young robbers who shot and killed Oscar E. Erickson, 33 years old, 940 West 115th street, in a holdup late Wednesday night. George L. Brimer, official of the company which employed Erickson as a salesman, offered the reward. Police were searching yesterday with but one clew, a gray hat, found near the scene with a folded piece of a Polish language newspaper inside the band.

ASKS AN INQUIRY ON LOBBYISTS IN STATE ASSEMBLY

Charges Influence Killed Small Loan Bill.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 4.—[Special.]—An investigation of certain lobbyists "whose habits are devious and whose ways are dark" was recommended in the house today by Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee]. The state's attorney of Sangamon county might well interest himself "in the pernicious methods" used by these promoters, said Mr. Burns.

JAMES T. BURNS.

In particular, the downstater named Samuel Scholes, Springfield attorney, as "a fit subject for a grand jury investigation" for his alleged activity in the senate, where the judiciary committee yesterday tabled Burns' bill to reduce the maximum interest on small loans from 3½ to 2½ per cent.

"This lobbyist," Mr. Burns asserted, "has unusual privileges in the chamber across the way—more, in fact than are enjoyed by some of the assembly members themselves."

Denies Interest in Bill.

Mr. Scholes denied that he was interested in the small loans bill, or in any bill of a like character, and said he was not even in the senate committee when the Burns bill was tabled. It had passed the house with a comfortable majority.

"It would have been to my material interest to have dropped this bill," Burns told the house. After he had concluded, he refused to elaborate upon this statement.

"Under a cloak of respectability," he continued, "these loan shark companies extort money from the people and exploit them. They charge 42 per cent interest a year. My bill was a humane measure and I have just cause for complaint on the manner by which it was considered in the senate.

"Voting to table it were three senators—Barr, Michel and Kessinger—all of whome have introduced bills in recent session to reduce this interest rate lower than does my bill. They have changed their minds.

"One of the loan companies against my bill is successor to a concern which was called the worst of its kind by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

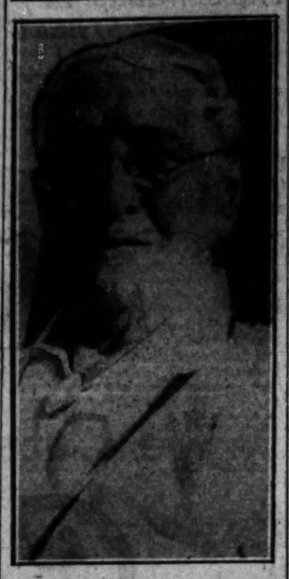
Revive Loan Inquiry Bill.

After he had aired the senate action Mr. Burns asked for support of a motion made by Representative Martin B. Lohmann [Dem., Pekin] to consider action taken by the house yesterday in failing to pass another Burns bill calling for a commission of five senators and five representatives to investigate the interest charged on small loans in the state. Lohmann's motion carried and the bill went back on the house calendar on third reading. It will be called for passage later. It carries a $10,000 appropriation and provides that the commission would report to the next legislature.

The principal complaint made against reconsideration of the bill came from Grover C. Borders [Dem., East St. Louis]. "We are being governed absolutely by commissions," he said, "and here is one more."

At the afternoon session, Mr. Burns succeeded in suspending the rules of the house for the introduction of another small loan bill. This would give banks the right to loan not more than $100 at a monthly rate of one and one-fourth per cent, and would "grant some relief from the loan sharks," in the words of the sponsor. It was advanced to second reading.

105 YEARS OLD



MRS. SARAH ANN WALKER.

Born during the presidency of John Quincy Adams, she has outlived all of her sons and daughters, and now lives with her son-in-law, John H. Park. Her last surviving daughter was 80 years old when she died a few months ago. A nephew, Arthur Park, lives in Wheaton.

Mrs. Walker was born in Ulster, Pa. In her lifetime she has seen the invention of the telegraph and the construction of the first steam railroad in the United States, with all the host of inventions which followed them. She was married and a mother at the outbreak of the civil war, and a septuagenarian when the United States entered its war with Spain.

PROF. SHAW TELLS ABOUT STUDY OF JUVENILE CRIME

Situation Same in 14 Cities.

Before long the Wickersham commission, which the general public identifies only with prohibition problems, will be knitting its brows over graphs and records submitted by Prof. Clifford R. Shaw of the Institute for Juvenile Research. It was Prof. Shaw who mapped out the badlands of Chicago's younger generation.

Last night the Chicago Academy of Criminology heard Prof. Shaw describe the method and the findings which have been extended to fourteen other cities at the direction of the Wickersham group.

In general, the speaker informed a group of sociologists, psychiatrists, educators and others gathered at the City club, what was found to be true of Chicago with regard to the concentration of juvenile delinquency in areas surrounding certain districts held good in every community studied. Invariably the greatest percentage of delinquency was located in the zones around the business centers and large industrial districts.

Details are not Revealed.

Since the report still is in a confidential status, no formal and complete return having been made to the commission, details of the finding in the other cities cannot yet be released. Nor would the detailed comparison of percentages of delinquency elsewhere with those of this metropolis provide a basis for true conclusions, he emphasized, since what constitutes delinquency in one place may be the most trivial of misdemeanors in another.

"One day I was in court in Richmond," Prof. Shaw illustrated, "when a policeman brought in some boys who had been arrested for playing baseball in the street. The ball, a soft rubber one, was produced in court as evidence. In Chicago we would hardly consider that a legal offense."

Dependency Phase Studied.

Geographical distribution of crime is only one phase of the matter, in the opinion of the speaker. A close study of the relation of the rate of dependency among families in a neighborhood with that of juvenile delinquency in the same area proved conclusively that there is a close relation between the two. But the investigators were somewhat surprised to find that broken homes are less a contributing factor than might be supposed.

This was shown when all boys between 10 and 14 years in 29 public schools were interrogated about their home conditions. The incidence of broken homes among them was found to be 36.1, while among the delinquent group of the same age it was found to be 42.5, and the difference in some places was still less.

Among the fourteen cities for which maps have been made showing the home addresses of boys appearing in the Juvenile courts over a period of three years, Prof. Shaw mentioned Cleveland, Seattle, Denver, Birmingham, Philadelphia, and Boston.

CHICAGO PORT MEASURE GOES TO EMMERSON

Igoe Bill Is Approved by Senate, 37 to 0.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Springfield, Ill., June 4.—[Special.]—The Igoe bill, officially establishing the Chicago regional port commission in preparation for the opening of the Illinois waterway, now goes to Gov. Emmerson for approval.

The measure, which aims at a permanent interstate port authority to serve harbor development in the metropolitan area similar to the way the Chicago plan commission operates towards Chicago's physical improvements, went through the senate without opposition b ya vote of 37 to 0.

Its jurisdiction is to cover the metropolitan district embraced by the Lake Michigan shore line between Waukegan and Michigan City, Ind., and an imaginary line connecting Waukegan, Elgin, Aurora, Joliet, Chicago Heights, Laporte, and Michigan City.

Indiana's $15,000 Ready.

The bill is contingent upon action by both states, Indiana and Illinois, and Indiana already has enacted its part of the joint legislation and has appropriated $15,000 for the purpose. The Igoe bill carries a $15,000 appropriation.

The Chicago regional port commission, as appointed by the Chicago Association of Commerce, is given an official standing by the bill, which authorizes it to perform the following services:

To act as a clearing house for all major terminal proposals in the metropolitan district.

To study existing harbor plans and to consider such changes and modifications as may be necessitated by the growth of the district and by changing business and commercial needs.

To make recommendations to the proper authorities as may be needed to carry out an early terminal scheme.

To study and recommend in the shape of specific proposals, the establishment of a permanent interstate port authority for the district.

To act in an advisory capacity in matters pertaining to port and water transportation facilities.

Generally, the commission is to endeavor to stimulate a development of facilities that will lead to a revival of the metropolitan district as a center of water transportation.

Make an Investigation.

Reports are to be made to the next general assembly, and the commission is authorized to establish headquarters and to employ engineering, legal, and clerical help for its investigations.

The senate today listened to an illuminating discussion of boards of supervisors as an outgrown, moss-covered part of the governmental scheme. The Carlson bill was up—No. 597—expanding the powers of counties incurring indebtedness.

"It's a bad bill," objected Senator Ryan Mills [Rep., Virginia]. "It would open the door wider for supervisors to issue bonds with no limitation and to make tax levies. For the taxpayer this would be another hop out of the frying pan into the fire."

Calls Supervisors Useless.

"All boards of supervisors are for this bill," added Senator Andrew S. Gilbertson [Rep., Bunker Hill], "because it would give them plenty of money to spend foolishly. The boards of supervisors are the most expensive, extravagant, and useless bodies we have in our system of government."

The bill was defeated.

The senate passed the Igoe house bill including the sanitary district of Chicago among bodies which may utilize unused funds in the purchase of tax anticipation warrants. The senators also passed house bill 460, validating $9,800,000 of south park bonds passed at the last election.

MACK, COMEDIAN, SUED FOR DIVORCE BY DANCER WIFE

William D. Mack, comedian known on the stage as Billy "Bumps" Mack, carried his slapstick tactics into private life, it was charged yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Superior court by Mrs. Evelyn Mack, 24 years old, a dancer living at the Devonshire hotel.

On Hallowe'en of last year, she charges, he slapped her in the eye while they were at a party. Her sister attempted to intervene and also received a black eye, the bill alleges. Although they played in the same show, her husband refused to kiss her or to speak to her for weeks at a time, except as required by their parts on the stage, Mrs. Mack charges. She asked no alimony.

The Macks were married Sept. 18, 1931, at Wheaton and separated May 10 of this year, the bill states. Mack was formerly married to Phyllis Haver, film actress.

COSTNER SLAYING INQUEST.

The inquest into the death of James Costner, bartender in the Little Bohemia cafe at 1750 South Loomis street, who was fatally shot during a holdup there Monday, was continued yesterday to June 23.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative, candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

They can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

When bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in pimples. Your head aches and you feel sunk and sour. Your whole system is poisoned.

Then those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel up and up. They contain only vegetable ingredients which is coming when it comes to making bile flow freely.

Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Accept a substitute.

THE DEFEAT OF THE INCOME TAX.

The income tax bill has been beaten in the house of representatives by two votes. Representatives from downstate cities joined with Cook county members to stop the rural gold digging. The proposed tax was an entirely unjustifiable revenue measure. No attempt had been made to fit it in as a congruous item in a taxing system. It was shot at the pocketbook without regard for consequences. In an unconstitutionally organized legislature in which cities have been deprived of their representation the recklessness of the bill was not an assurance that it would not pass. The call was a close one.

It is a question if democracy in this state is not ceasing to be coherent. It would not be astonishing if government got so out of gear that it could not work. Democracy is not invincible and its system is not impeachable. Here in Illinois the equalities of the representative system have been ignored and a scheme of rural dictatorship has been attempted. The violation of constitutional rights being outrageous, the consequences are bound to be so. Government has been shifted off its foundations and, being maintained in disregard of its own principles, has naturally become reckless.

The squirarchy, discovering how easy it was to collect a gas tax in the cities and use it in the country, discovering that race track gambling would yield a million and a half in two years for county fair premiums, being assured that there was no way of remedying the disproportionate representation in the general assembly, struck out for bigger returns. The income tax was such an attempt. Its effect had been guessed at, not studied. The guess was that it would put a heavy burden of taxation on urban citizens, and that was its intent. Its sponsors did not know whether the legislature had the authority to pass it. They were irresponsible in this as they were in their indifference to the effects of the act.

The bill was killed, but the intent behind it remains the controlling factor in a democratic organization which bases itself upon nullification of the constitution for the achievement of political purposes in discord with the principles of popular government. The thing to be expected of that is a breakdown of the democratic system, and there is evidence that just this is imminent.

THE GULF WATERWAY.

Eighteen members of the sanitary board's real estate advisory committee and a commissioner of the New Orleans port have just been inspecting the shores of the sanitary canal between Chicago and Joliet for industrial sites.

The event calls public attention to the fact that the lakes-gulf waterway will soon be a going concern. It also is occasion to remark that here is a great public improvement that is not a piece of political graft, a mere draft on the taxpayers of the nation, but a new agency of public service which will add a new resource of transportation to the nation's system and assist materially in the building of industry and commerce through the midwest. It represents a victory of western and particularly Chicago's vision and enterprise over indifference and selfish obstruction in a fight carried on for years. It is largely paid for by Illinois and is not a raid on the national treasury for local benefits. No great improvement is clearer of reproach, none more strongly supported by considerations of statesmanly foresight and practical judgment. Its benefits will not be confined to a section, but directly and indirectly will reach the whole economy of the continent.

Chicago and Illinois have reason to be proud of this contribution to an efficient and prosperous nation.

FOR POLICE EFFICIENCY.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock's two new efficiency measures will have the applause of every one who has interested himself in police administration in Chicago. Some weeks ago THE TRIBUNE had urged the establishment of a special department of police for the expert investigation of major crimes, and Commissioner Alcock, we assume, has such an agency in mind in the creation of his "Scotland Yard."

One of the weaknesses of enforcement of the criminal law in this city is in its failure to pursue investigations persistently over a considerable period of time. Justice, applied at first or thrown off the track, quickly tires, and crimes which might have been clarified remain unpunished and forgotten. New crimes sidetrack older investigations. Investigators are taken off cases while on the trail and assigned to new ones. Much good work is thus thrown away, often without compensation. The Brothers case was a striking illustration of what can be accomplished by long continued, concentrated expert work, even in circumstances that seemed hopeless. The capture of the rapist who made use of a TRIBUNE want ad on the north shore is another.

By creating a special bureau of criminal investigation Commissioner Alcock makes it possible to apply the best investigatory talent persistently on serious crimes, and we are confident if this new agency is well organized and maintained on scientific lines it will solve many criminal conundrums which would otherwise remain mysteries.

The other measure, putting more policemen in uniform and on patrol, will also have the approval not only of those with special knowledge of police administration but of the general public. It is a practical measure of crime prevention, essential to the more adequate protection of the public. At the proper time our police force should be increased in numbers, but not to be hid away. The faithful and efficient policeman on his beat is a much needed restraint upon crime and disorder.

GEN. MAC ARTHUR AND THE CLERGY.

Kirby Page, editor of the World Tomorrow, wrote Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the army, asking for his comment on the magazine's poll of ministers on military service. A majority of 19,000 clergymen had voted that they would refuse to bear arms for their country. Gen. MacArthur accepted the opportunity to reply. He reminded the ministers that the clergy are not expected to bear arms, but that when they opposed military service they were engaged in political action, they were teaching disobedience to the laws of the country, promoting disorder and would, in times of national emergency, work against the security of the country.

The chief of staff pointed out that the pacifist in his efforts to impair national defense asserts his own rights of conscience by attacking the rights of others whose conscience does more than justify military service for the country—emphatically requires it. Gen. MacArthur also reminded the clergymen that the military establishment of the United States is a minimum to which no other great country attempts or intends to reduce its strength.

Much clerical behavior has been emotionally unbalanced of recent years in the United States. Some of it is probably inspired by vanity from which the pulpit is not always free. There is also, comprehensibly, a conflict between ideals and realities in which the ministry becomes confused, trying to avoid the compromises which the world of the flesh forces upon the world of ideals. It has been a wise and not a weak standard of conduct which in times past has kept the organized clergy out of political action. If the restriction seems unjustified in theory it finds every justification in practice, and in theory it is sound. Political action is one of compromises. The possibility of war is conciliated by a tentative preparation against it. The purpose of that preparation is to diminish the possibility, not to increase it, and to lessen the seriousness of the event if it happens.

If it is abhorrent to the clergy to concede that such a view of possibilities has its warrant in experience it is then incongruous for clergymen to meddle in something in which they are temperamentally and professionally unfitted to have a sound judgment or a good opinion. If they meddle consequentially and their wishes or dogmas fail, the misfortune is the more severe to other people because of the clerical interference. The clerical conscience is the last which should ask for vicarious satisfaction.

Gen. MacArthur is as devoted to the higher principles of human conduct as any clergyman who ever spoke from a pulpit. His profession requires him to take account of forces which the clergyman would deny but has been unable to avoid. The general does not think that the cause he serves would gain anything by weakening the proper position of the minister, nor can he or any other rational being follow ideality when it is so contemptuous of human prospects and probabilities.

THE SCHOOL BOARD SHOULD GET OUT.

The board of education holding over from a discredited administration is endeavoring to bluff through with a pretense of public spirit. The school trustees whose appointments carry on were asked by Mayor Cermak to resign. They have refused to do this, although they have endeavored to conciliate public opinion by promises to act in harmony with the new administration. The promises properly are disregarded. The board has left no ground for confidence. It is suspect on its record and its past source of authority negates any usefulness to which it may pretend. It is the creation of a city hall period which nearly ruined the city. It was not independent of that period but a part of it. Some of the most notorious acts were its own. The only public service the board can offer is its resignation. It can depart and permit the reorganization of the school affairs. Nothing else will serve.

Editorial of the Day

CHICAGO'S PLIGHT.

[New York Times.]

Chicago may have her head out of water now, but her feet are still in the undertow. Immediately after his election, Mayor Cermak promised that he would devote his first attention to city finances. They were, and are still, in terrible shape. Nearly $200,000,000 worth of tax "anticipation warrants" are outstanding; the banks are loaded up with them. When the tax bills for the year 1929 were sent out only a few weeks ago, a host of property owners refused to pay them. Delinquencies now total some $175,000,000. Nothing has been done about the 1930 taxes, although there is some talk of increasing the city's bonding power to the point necessary to fund them. Meanwhile, school teachers, firemen, policemen, and other public employés are leading a hand-to-mouth existence. Just now they are being provided for by grace of the Commonwealth Edison company, which has agreed to advance $2,000,000 in cash to help the city meet its pay rolls.

This is by no means Chicago's first fiscal crisis. Her troubles really go back to the day, many years ago, when local politicians evolved the ingenious scheme of an elective board of assessors balanced by an elective board of review, all manned from within their own ranks. "Adjustments" in assessment were peddled out through precinct captains to favored individuals, who were thus brought to the support of the organization. Economically the results were as ruinous as they were glorious politically. But the reassessment that finally followed public protest against the old methods was met with almost equally sharp protest from those property owners who saw their assessments raised to former levels. Hence the present "taxpayers' strike," which has been worrying City Controller Szymczak and his chief. Chicago has too long trod the easy path of appropriating money which she hopes some day to collect. The bankers are not likely to come to her rescue until the whole machinery of assessment and collection is overhauled.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

RAW MILK DANGEROUS.

DR. P. R. BAIRD lists six diseases of cows which can be transmitted to man through his drinking milk. First in importance has been tuberculosis and it still is in many parts of the country. Dr. Baird writes: "At the present time New England is practically free from this once common source of infection. This is not entirely true of all parts of New England, but it is of the northern and less densely populated parts generally. It is true of much of the south and of a large part of the west, but it is not true, as yet, of the great dairy districts in any region."

However, we agree with Dr. Baird that every year witnesses an increasing zone in which there is a reasonable degree of safety.

One of the considerable remaining menaces is that of septic sore throat. The prevailing opinion is that this is due to infection of the udder with a special form of streptococcus.

Two other diseases of cows which produce unwholesome milk are hemorrhagic enteritis and septicemia. If a consumer uses milk from a cow with the former he may have diarrhea and headache. Milk from cows with the latter is not fit for human consumption. The next two diseases given are abortion disease and undulant fever. Dr. Baird treats them as separate, though most bacteriologists and physicians regard them as essentially the same. One argument for duality is the very great prevalence of abortion disease among cows and the infrequency of undulant fever among those who drink cow's milk and even the milk from infected cows. So far as the consumer is concerned he had better drink only safe milk while the bacteriologists fight it out among themselves. Pasteurized milk is safe milk. It is safe as regards undulant fever, tuberculosis, septic sore throat, and the symptoms caused by milk from cows with hemorrhagic enteritis.

This is only a part of the story. Milk may be the medium of infection with diseases that spread from man to man. Such are: Scarlet fever, typhoid, diphtheria and some others. The danger from these diseases is greater than the other. Against neither group is there any protection that compares in efficiency with pasteurization.

MIGHT DO HER HARM.

Mrs. A. N. writes: My niece, 22 years old, drinks a pint and a half of home brew every night at bedtime to gain weight. The brew is one month old. She has been drinking this for the last six months and is not gaining. Will it harm her in any way?

REPLY.

Home brew, like Noah's ark, is fearfully and wonderfully made. Many things are said to have gone in the ark. Perhaps the world would have been better had Noah been more discriminating. The same criticism applies to home brew. Drinking a pint and a half of it at night is not likely to make a woman fat. It might do her harm.

PRACTICALLY NORMAL.

E. A. writes: I had a basal metabolism test made and the reading is minus 7 per cent.

REPLY.

That is so nearly normal that the chances are you are a well woman.

NOT WELL BALANCED.

M. M. writes: Is a diet consisting of milk and cereal for breakfast and soup and vegetables for dinner correct two months after recovery from a bad case of gastritis?

REPLY.

You give only two meals and supply no details as to those. As well as one can guess, your diet is pretty badly out of balance. You can continue it for a while without harm, but there are limits.

PROBABLY NO DANGER.

Mrs. R. writes: Is there danger of a person who is on a diet for diabetes eating too many tomatoes? My husband sometimes eats two large sized cans a day.

REPLY.

I don't think there is.

FURNITURE INSTALLMENTS.

Chicago, June 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Over two years ago we bought $800 worth of furniture and we have paid $540 on it. My wife and I have both been ill and I have, therefore, been unable to keep up the furniture payments. I want to notify the company to come for the furniture.

1. Can they force me to keep the furniture?
2. Can they force me to pay for it?
3. If I get a job can they garnishee my wages?
4. What can I do if they won't take it back? S. M.

1. No, but they are entitled to force you to pay the amount that you agreed to pay.
2. See No. 1.
3. Yes, if the furniture is covered by a validly recorded chattel mortgage and you do not get their consent to move it.
4. Yes, after getting judgment against you.
5. We can suggest no legal remedy.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MINIATURE BALL PARK.

Chicago, May 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—There is a vacant lot at 52d street and Ellis avenue with apartment buildings on both sides of it. Boys come from blocks around to play baseball here. The noise and flying balls are a nuisance. Please have something done about it. A. J. W.

The captain commanding the 5th district reports:

"An officer of this command reports that he warned the children to cease playing in that particular vacant lot and they did. The officer has visited the vicinity several times and there is now no ball playing and the annoyance has ceased to exist."

JOHN H. ALCOCK,

54 HOURS OF WORK.

Chicago, May 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—There are some girls working for a candy company near us and they work eight hours a day, seven days a week, with no lunch period. The girls are forbidden to eat during working hours. Is this against the law?

2. Isn't there some law to compel the firm to give the girls a lunch period?
3. Why doesn't the health department act? MRS. F. K.

1. This is not against the law.
2 and 3. See preceding answer.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"FASTER, FASTER!" SAID THE RED QUEEN.

Cal Coolidge is said by the newspaper syndicate that hires him to be tired of columning and threatening to quit, or at least start on a vacation right away. Well, Cal, running a column is about the same wearisome sort of job that the horse has that stands on the endless platform that works the circular wood saw. He walks all day, but he slides back as much as he goes ahead. Sometimes the man that saws the wood hangs an ear of corn just in front of old Dobbin's head so that he almost reaches it, but he never does.

But two bucks a word, Cal, which you are reported to get, seems to be a pretty fair wage. And your stuff keeps you before the country, and, like old Dobbin in the treadmill, you have a nice fat ear of corn hung right in front of your nose all the time to encourage you. Your ear of corn is labeled, "Presidential Nomination, 1932," and it ought to make you stick out your tongue and lay back your ears and speed up as fast as you can go.

But at that, Cal, grinding out a column day in and day out and week in and week out and month in and month out and year in and year out, and so on and so on does get to be something of a chore. And a columnist always has to try to be at his best or his readers write in to tell him he's slipping. Perhaps it's always the straining to do better than he did before that tires the columnist out. But he doesn't dare let down.

And in spite of his best efforts he feels sometimes like little Alice in Wonderland. "Run, run, run," said the Red Queen, grabbing little Alice by the hand. Alice ran so fast that the trees and hills and houses whirled by her in a blur. "Faster, faster!" cried the Red Queen. Faster and faster Alice ran until she was dizzy and gasping for breath. "Faster, faster!" shouted the Red Queen. So Alice ran until she simply couldn't go another step, and then she stopped. "Why," she managed to say when she could get her breath and look around, "we are right where we started."

"Yes," said the Red Queen, "we have to run fast in this country in order to stay where we started."

Running a column is like that, Cal. Oh, very much like that.

FRUITION.

No spring for me can vie with autumn's glory,
No sunrise hold the sunset's gorgeous hue;
In chastened years is told the thrilling story
Of youth's wild passion, and of dreams come true.

Beside a flaming fire, who remembers?
We feed it with our offerings, one by one;
Find them our own again at set of sun.

Beneath the cruel noonday sun's hard driving
We drag a chain, stone pyramids to raise;
Then, with the evening, comes the gentle shriving
Of priestly stars, in vaulted cloistered ways.

The years go marching to a quickened measure
(Books, songs, and friends are best for being old),
And as the shadows fall we closer treasure
The gifts that time has alchemized to gold.

ETHELYN BRYANT CHAPMAN.

COL. HOUSE, the adviser of President Wilson, comes forth from the great folds of silence that usually envelop him to say that if Gov. Roosevelt is nominated next year he will be elected. And before any one could ask him, "Then why not nominate Gov. Roosevelt?" Col. House had climbed hastily back into the silence. But why not, indeed?

THERE'S SOME CONSIDERABLE outcry because two University of Michigan students were held in jail to make them tell the name of their bootlegger. Ah, well, the world moves; a hundred or two years ago the students would have been put on the rack or in the iron maiden or their bones squeezed to make them tell. We seem to be returning to the old customs, but right now the worst a victim gets is a jail sentence.

ONE of the songs mentioned in the radio program published yesterday for performance last night was "Never Hit Your Grandma with a Shovel." And in the same paper was a cablegram from Copenhagen to the effect that "Radio Congress Hopes to Take Noise Out of Sets." Ah, Radio Congress, as they used to say long, long ago, "You don't know the half of it, dearie; you don't know the half."

COL. LINDBERGH AND MRS. LINDBERGH are planning to span the Pacific and land their airplane in Japan and China. And we are waiting, waiting, waiting—and, oh, gosh, how we dread it—but some newspaper is sure to bust forth with the headline, "Go as Good Will Ambassadors to Orient."

MOLINE, A MELODY.

Moline is a monicker mellow,
Melodious, musical, brief,
And the note of hospitable people
Is its lovable leit-motif.
Of all the municipal magic
That's sung in a capital key
This merry metropolis makes it
In welcoming strangers like me.

THE SOLICITOR.

Lagniappe.

THE SUBJECTS that the august governors of these forty-eight more or less United States are speaking on at their convention at French Lick Springs, Ind., seem to include everything from "Which Came First, the Hen or the Egg?" to "Our Todays and Yesterdays Are the Blocks with Which We Build." And we are waiting for some great state executive to thrill the nation with a carefully studied address on "The Value of Systematic Diet for Hens, Canaries, and Aged Elephants."

AND WE'D just love to hear some of the governors talk on "Is Bald Headedness Hereditary and Can It Be Cured with Prune Juice?" But don't worry! They will, they will. R. H. L.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 5, 1915.

LONDON.—Eight ships, four of them neutrals, have been sunk by German submarines within the last twenty-four hours, according to dispatches reaching the admiralty. The ships sunk were the Danish steamers Cyrus and Salvador, Swedish steamer Lappland, Norwegian steamer Cubano, British steamer Inkum, Canadian freighter Iona, and the Welsh trawlers Hirold and Victoria. No lives were lost, so far as can be learned.

COPENHAGEN.—A gigantic Zeppelin of an entirely new type caused general surprise all along the Baltic whep making a trial journey over the international route between Denmark and Sweden. It was visible from all the coast towns. The airship is heavily armored and is supplied with three reservoirs for poisonous gas.

CHICAGO.—A heresy suit was begun against the Rev. D. T. Denman, pastor of the First Baptist church of Oak Park. He was accused of not conforming to Baptist usage by admitting to membership in the Oak Park church persons who had not been baptized by immersion, which Baptists recognize as the only scriptural mode.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 5, 1901.

GRINNELL, Ia.—George D. Herron was dismissed formally from the Christian ministry and from membership in the Congregational church by a council called to sit in judgment on him. The council found him guilty of unchristian conduct in deserting his wife and family. Prof. Herron sent a letter to the council explaining his views on marriage and the social system and seeking to justify his acts.

CHICAGO.—Louis M. Grant, attorney in charge of the claim department of the American Steel and Wire company, was fined $40 and costs by Justice Underwood on a charge of violating the ordinance which fixes the maximum speed of automobiles within the city at 8 miles an hour. Last night the Evanston council passed an ordinance fixing the speed limit at 8 miles.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Gen. Kitchener at Pretoria says that Jamestown surrendered to Kritzinger's commando of Boers after four hours' hard fighting. Gen. Kitchener also sent details of the battle at Vlakfontein, which show it was one of the most desperate engagements of the war.

CHICAGO.—One of the most beautiful of the season's weddings was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gurley, 535 North State street, when Mrs. Gurley's sister, Mrs. Katheryn Turney Patterson, became the wife of Joseph Benjamin Long. The Rev. W. R. Notman of the Fourth Presbyterian church performed the ceremony. Another wedding of the day was that of Miss Elizabeth Perce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Le Grand W. Perce, 509 Dearborn avenue, and James Grove Rial, which took place at the Perce home.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 5, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—Another scandal comes in a report from New York that Col. Frederick A. Conkling at the Chamber of Commerce stated that one New York refining firm paid $100,000 to a member of the last congress to prevent legislation on sugar.

CHICAGO.—Judge Blodgett's mother celebrated her 85th birthday at Downers Grove, surrounded by her six sons, each of whom holds an honorable position in his particular sphere of life. Besides the judge there are Col. Wells Blodgett of St. Louis, Maj. E. A. Blodgett of Chicago, A. Z. Blodgett of Waukegan, and I. P. and Charles Blodgett of Downers Grove.

PARIS.—There was an immense attendance at the funeral of Emil Littre. A body of free thinkers protested against holding any religious ceremony over the remains. Littre was baptized while dying and this circumstance caused much comment. He was refused admission to the French academy in 1863 on account of his religious opinions, but was given a place there in 1871.

CINCINNATI.—Although it is not generally known it is a fact that Maude S. has been stopped in her work and it is not improbable that she will soon be sent back to Mr. Vanderbilt's stable in New York.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

WELCOMING THE DELUGE.

Chicago, May 30.—Why get excited over the prospect of shutting down the city of Chicago on account of its impending insolvency?

The underwriters will no doubt administer the fire department, if they are permitted access to its present equipment, more efficiently and economically than could any political administration of whatever stripe. The insurance companies will get together and establish an efficient private police force, devoted to the suppression of crime against property and person, and deprived of all jurisdiction in matters of faith and morals, and hence deprived of the powerful incentive to graft and corruption that exists today.

The school, except as havens of refuge for incompetent payrollers, composed of moronic old ladies of both sexes, contribute practically nothing to the public good, and if closed down for a few years, no doubt the cause of education would benefit a hundredfold; and any way, the glorified palaces that purvey movies and talkies to the citizenry would presumably continue to function, and since the public morals have to conform to their standards, nothing would be lost in the process of economy.

The only other municipal activity that matters a small Persian coin is the water department, and as the government at Washington is about to render compulsory a liberal per capita consumption of Mabel Walker Willebrandt's grape concentrate in order to relieve the distressed farmers of the Pacific slope, no doubt water can be supplied by the more versatile of the city's bootleggers as the demand for it arises.

CAMERON LATTER.

THE PRICE OF A RIDE.

Berwyn, Ill., May 26.—The writer, with his daughter of 2½ years, had the pleasure of stopping along 57th street just east of Western avenue at what is known as Ryan woods of the forest preserve district. Like all children, mine wanted to ride the merry-go-round which is on preserve property. We went on, yes sir, ten cents a ride and the longest ride lasted little more than three minutes and the shortest ride a little over two and a half minutes. A number of children were standing around who had only a nickel or whose parents could only afford to spend that much for each child.

It seems about time that racketeering on the kids was stopped. If this is a leased concession then let the forest preserve district buy the machine and give the children a good long five minute ride for a nickel or six rides for a quarter. Amusements in the forest preserve districts should be given to the people at cost so that they can be enjoyed by all the people alike.

G. J. MULLEN.

THE GENERAL'S BUTTONS.

THE USES OF ADVERSITY.

Chicago, May 27.—I cannot keep from believing the present business depression is a blessing in disguise even if I do starve in the readjustment. The inflated prosperity and spending orgy during the jazzy twenties had developed in the public mind and press and everywhere a feeling that it is not honorable to be decent. Another decade or so of moral fiber would have been acquired beyond recovery. But the pendulum is now swinging back; we seem to be sated with graft, corruption, and vice of all kinds. C. C. CRAIG.

THE TWILIGHT OF CHIVALRY.

Waterloo, Ia., May 30.—After reading the verdict in the Kirkland trial and after reading the comments of some of your readers I am prone to recall the incessant quest of women for equal rights, which has been accomplished, and with it comes the fundamental law of self-preservation. They now must fight their own battles. The single standard of morals is here and it was brought here by women, and instead of bettering the world it lowered women to the moral level of men.

Some day, let us hope, we will go back to the double standard, but until that time arrives women must protect themselves and not rely upon the chivalry of men. JOHN ADAMS.

HEARING FROM THE BOYS.

Chicago, Ill., May 30.—The Kirkland decision makes me happy. Why should the jury put a young man to death and cause a lot more sorrow to his parents? After all a human being is the most precious thing on earth.

I have read five articles in the Voice of the People, and they were written by five women. All of them think that when Kirkland comes out he will go about attacking and killing young girls. Now, that's absurd and we all know that.

Let's hear from the boys, and see what they think of that verdict. I'm president of a club called the Collegians and we had a little debate on this Kirkland case. Twelve boys were in favor of the one to ten years sentence, and three boys in favor of one to life, and only one boy in favor of the death penalty.

ALBERT R. MEES.

THE REWARD OF COURAGE.

Omaha, Neb., May 25.—I have been a continual reader of your wonderful paper for over thirty years, though I have not always agreed with you. But I want to commend you on the editorial in yesterday's SUNDAY TRIBUNE, "What American Business Needs." Every person in this country ought to read it twice. I am a native of this state. I saw corn sell at 10 cents a bushel, hogs at 3 cents a pound, wheat at 40 cents. They were burning corn for fuel. The calamity howler, the fellow with a yellow streak, all predicted the country had gone to the dogs. Some faltered in their duty, but the men of courage—also the women—had confidence in the future of our country. Along came Mark Hanna, who promised them the full dinner pail, and he made his promise good.

What we need is just editorials like yours. Give them fits and wake them up. You are doing wonderful work.

ALL INDICTMENTS IN CANAL CASE NOLLE PROSSED

State Asks New Bills Against Nine.

In a surprise move, First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup appeared before Judge Joseph B. David in Criminal court yesterday and nolle prossed all indictments pending against nine officials and former officials of the sanitary district. The charges grew out of an investigation of the old sanitary board under the regime of Timothy J. Crowe.

JOHN NORTHUP.

New Witness Is Found.

"In view of certain matters which have come to my attention in the last few days it appears that the present indictments can be improved, Prosecutor Northup told Judge David. "Counsel has asked for fuller indictments and these will be prepared. The prosecutor talked vaguely of a new and important witness, who has recently testified before the grand jury, but refused to reveal his name.

The case was continued until June 11 to await the new indictments. According to one prosecutor, however, these indictments must be returned within five days or become ineffective because of the statute of limitations.

Northup's action means the further continuance of the sanitary case, which has been pending in the courts for two years. All the old arguments and testimony will have to be gone over again. Northup declared the officials will not be brought to trial before mid-August.

New Judge Likely.

There will likely be a new judge assigned to hear the case when it is finally prepared for hearing, for Judge David has declared that if the indictments were dismissed he would return to the civil branch of the courts.

Besides Crowe, other sanitary officials involved in the charges are James Whalen and J. J. Touhy, present trustees; John K. Lawler, August W. Miller, and Frank J. Link, former trustees; Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer; John T. Miller, former manager of permanent plans and structures; Martin Edelstein, former head of the real estate department, and Timothy J. Connelly, former purchasing agent.

ASK COMPANY TO PUT ARTIFICIAL GAS PLAN BEFORE COMMISSION

Action toward providing Chicago with a mixture of natural and artificial gas, said to have a 50 per cent higher heating value than the present artificial gas, was taken yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission.

In a letter to the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company the commission requested the company to immediately lay its plans for a change in the service before the commission. The letter pointed out that immediate action on the request was necessitated by the hearings needed before final action could be taken.

The commission's letter provides that no change in the heating value of the gas can be made without the consent of the commission. Permission has been given the gas company to change the basis of its service charge from a cubic foot or pressure basis to a thermal unit system.

"We have acknowledged receipt of the letter," Bernard J. Mullaney, vice president of the gas company said. "We have informed the commission that we have been at work on the problem for some time, but feel that it would be better to complete our plans before submitting them to the commission."

VICTIM'S WIDOW YELLS "LIAR" AT GUNMAN ON TRIAL

State to Ask Death for Earl Herbert.

The murder trial of "Big Earl" Herbert, former beer runner for Joe Saltis, was thrown into confusion yesterday in the courtroom of Judge Charles A. Williams when the widow of the man he is accused of slaying interrupted his testimony in his own defense with a scream of "Liar!"

EARL HERBERT.

Herbert is charged with the murder of Thomas Thomas Bonner, a reputed police informer. Bonner was called to the door of his home at 7335 Yale avenue on July 10 last year and shot down by two men. The killing was first attributed to Fred Burke, police killer now serving a life term in the Michigan state penitentiary at Marquette.

Widow Tells of Identification.

Yesterday Bonner's widow, Mrs. Mary Bonner, took the witness stand and testified that she had identified Herbert as one of the slayers of her husband on Oct. 11 when he was under arrest at the detective bureau. She told how when she saw Herbert she exclaimed, "My God, that's him," and then fainted.

She was the principal prosecution witness. Herbert, testifying in his own defense, asserted that he never know Bonner and that on the day of the murder he was at a summer resort near Cleveland, O.

At that Mrs. Bonner, who was seated near the jury, cried, "You're a liar. You killed him and I saw you."

Herbert's alibi testimony was backed by eight other defense witnesses, all relatives of his.

Will Ask Death Penalty.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Gabel stated that he will demand the death penalty in his final argument to the jury today.

Herbert was arrested while hiding in the basement of a roadhouse southwest of Chicago, guarding a store of stolen cigarets with a sawed off shotgun. The cigarets had been taken a few days before in the robbery of the west side warehouse of the Walgreen company.

He is also under a sentence of from one to fourteen years in the penitentiary on a charge of assault to commit murder growing out of the shooting of a railroad detective several years ago during another cigaret robbery. He was a fugitive from justice on that charge at the time of his arrest in the Bonner case, having forfeited his bond after the sentence was affirmed by the Supreme court.

Herbert, it was charged by police at the time of his arrest, became suspicious that Bonner had informed police of his illicit activities when he found that a police lieutenant made frequent visits to the Bonner home.

BERLIN PROTESTS "INVASIONS" BY FRENCH PLANES

BERLIN, June 4.—(AP)—The German government tonight instructed its ambassador at Paris to enter a strong protest to French officials against French military planes flying over German territory.

Three French naval seaplanes, flying low, were sighted yesterday over German territorial waters along the East Frisian islands, from Sylt southward, according to a dispatch from Norderney.

Later a French plane, carrying two sergeants, was reported to have landed on the German side of the frontier. The aviators said they had lost their bearings.

DEFENSE RAPS MILLS' STORY IN PANTAGES CASE

Alleges State Witness Seeks Probation.

San Diego, Cal., June 4.—[Special.]—A strenuous attack on the testimony of John P. Mills, erstwhile partner of Alexander Pantages and now state witness against the multimillionaire, featured the first day of testimony in the trial of Pantages and three others on girl charges growing out of a hotel party here Oct. 30.

OLIVE CLARK DAY.

Counsel for Pantages, Jesse Shrove, Olive Clark Day, and William Jobelmann forced the admission from Mills that he had been told by members of the district attorney's staff that he probably would be treated leniently on his own plea of guilty and request for probation.

Mills testified that he had consulted Shreve, his real estate partner, on how to "put Pantages in a good frame of mind, as part of the background for an $80,000 deal which the three were engaged on."

Telephones for Girls.

Mills then said he telephoned Mrs. Day and Jobelmann in Hollywood. They are accused of providing school girls for wealthy men.

Mills said that as a result of his phone call, Mrs. Day, Jobelmann, Lydia Nitto, [Alice Blake] and Helen Livingston appeared in El Cortez hotel, San Diego, the next day. Mills said he "looked in" at the hotel the evening of last Oct. 30, saw one girl sitting on the arm of Pantages' chair, and that he, Miss Day, the Livingston girl and Shreve later left the room, leaving the theater man and the Nitto girl.

Mills' story, supported by the evidence of the Nitto girl, said to have been aged 16 at the time, and the Livingston girl, 17, is the basis of the state's case.

Rape Trial Set for July 30.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 4.—[Special.]—Trial of Eunice Pringle's civil suit asking one million dollars damages from Alexander Pantages was set today for July 30 here. Miss Pringle accused Pantages of assaulting her in his theatrical headquarters in 1929 when she was 17 years old, and her court story resulted in Pantages' conviction on charges of rape, which was reversed and a new trial ordered after Pantages had spent five months in jail.

LINDY AND ANNE TO FLY PACIFIC ON ORIENT TOUR

Will Cross Ocean by Way of Alaska.

He will not, however, he emphasized, make an extended water flight.

Other Plans Indefinite.

Plans for the visit to Japan and China are also indefinite. Col. Lindbergh said he and Mrs. Lindbergh had not decided where they would go, once they reached the orient. Neither have they determined how long they will spend in the two countries or whether they will fly back to the United States or ship their plane and take passage on an ocean liner.

The closest direct hop between American and Japanese territory would involve an ocean flight of 600 miles between Attu, most westerly of the Aleutian islands, off the Alaskan coast and Shumstui, most northern and eastern island of the Japanese empire. A shorter flight of between 300 and 400 miles could be made between Attu and the soviet Kamchatka peninsula.

Must Cover Stormy Territory.

Before reaching the tip of the Alaskan peninsula the Lindbergs must negotiate the North Pacific coast stretch. Here gales, violent rains, and even blizzards might be encountered.

From Chignl, at the top of the peninsula, to Dutch Harbor, in the Fox islands, just west of the peninsula, is 400 miles. Westward 350 miles over the Aleutians, where blizzards are frequent, is Atka island. Attu island is 500 miles also, the most westerly bit of land belonging to the North American continent.

Beyond Attu island open water stretches 600 miles to Shumstui, most northerly and easterly of the Kurile islands of the Japanese empire. Should the route lead to Copper island, soviet territory, near the Kamchatka peninsula or the peninsula proper, the distance would be cut to about 350 miles.

The Russian fliers in 1929 made the Aleutians in three hops. The army flyers in 1924 took eight hops from Chignik to Kasuminguara, air base for Tokio, arriving May 22.

In 1924, however, the nonstop distance record for seaplanes was 732 miles. Since, it has grown to 2,677 miles, set by Jean Mermoy, French flyer. The estimated nonstop reach of Lindbergh's plane, equipped with pontoons, was not known here.

Other Pacific Flights.

The air trails of the Pacific have been followed in recent years by many adventurous spirits. In May, 1924, the United States army "Round the World Flyers" flew from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, to Japan in five stops to accomplish the first westward crossing.

Lieuts. Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger made the first non-stop flight to Hawaii in 1927, taking off from Oakland, Cal.

That same year five persons were lost in the Dole race from Oakland and a rescue plane, with Capt. William P. Erwin and Elvin Eichwaldt, never came back.

The Southern Cross, carrying Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and three other airmen flew from California to Australia in 1928. It was the first flight across the full expanse of the Pacific.

Soviet Russian flyers, led by Semyon Shestakov, in 1929 made a flight across the northern Pacific and then toured the United States.

LINDBERGHS' PROBABLE ROUTE

Washington dispatches say that Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh intend to follow the course taken by the army flyers in 1924, when they flew around the world. The map shows the course followed by the army flyers, the distance between stops on the way between Seattle and Tokio being indicated. The longest flight is between Attu island and Paramashiru in Japan, one of 872 miles. While the Lindberghs will probably follow the general course of the army flyers it is probable they will make some changes in it, probably increasing the distance between stops.

WIFE COMPLAINS DOCTOR OUSTED HER FOR NURSE

Dr. Henry J. Millstone, physician with offices at 159 North State street, and his read headed office nurse, Miss Emily Ranos, 21 years old, were arrested yesterday on charges of adultery a short time after Mrs. Anna Millstone had filed a suit for divorce in the Superior court, naming the nurse.

She charged that Dr. Millstone ousted her from their home at 742 East Marquette road on Tuesday, installing Miss Ranos in her stead. She also preferred charges of larceny against Miss Ranos before Judge Francis Borrelli, charging that the physician had taken here automobile and two rings valued at $2,000 and given them to the girl.

Dr. Millstone was taken before Judge John J. Sullivan and released under $1,000 bond signed by Paul Strager, 748 North Damen avenue. Miss Ranos was unable to find a bondsman and was held in the State street annex. The couple was married in 1910, divorced in April, 1926, and remarried a few weeks later, following a whirlwind second courtship, the wife stated.

She paid for her husband's medical education from her earnings as an organist and later supported him while he was building up the practice, which is now worth $3,000 a month, she charged.

INJURED IN FALL; DIES.

Fred Chemmell, 51 years old, died yesterday at the county hospital of a fractured skull incurred when he fell on Wednesday from a porch of his home at 2929 Walnut street.

FIVE LOCKED UP IN BOND VAULT; $5,000 TAKEN

Three armed robbers entered the offices of the Kraus Bond and Mortgage company at 1726 West Chicago avenue late yesterday afternoon, locked the president, Joseph Kraus, two employés and two customers in a washroom and escaped with about $5,000 which they took from an open safe. The employés are Miss Helen Jellen, 1808 South 49th court, Cicero, and Miss Estelle Stepanek, 2432 North Springfield avenue. The five persons remained prisoners in the room for twenty minutes before they could escape. Three months ago the Kraus company was robbed of $7,500 in a similar raid by bandits.

Foreman & Clark

In extending a warm welcome to our friends to visit this new store tomorrow, we want to thank you, our customers, for your patience and consideration during the past few weeks. While more than 75% of our customers have visited us at our new location and bought clothing to the tune of rasping saws, hammering hammers, and roaring rivets, we feel an explanation is in order. The fact of the matter is—we were forced out of our old store because we refused to pay an extravagant, costly rental. We just couldn't pay it and continue to give you the values you are entitled to. But just think what all this fuss and muss of moving and building a new store have saved you. Over seven hundred thousand dollars in rent alone! Compare that with the downstairs rents for the same space we have upstairs and you won't need a mind for figures to realize what we mean when we say the public must have full value for their money and their interests must be protected.

DO-X LANDS OFF COAST OF BRAZIL IN ATLANTIC HOP

Covers 1,400 Miles in 12 Hours; 13 Aboard.

over Lake Constance, on which she had been built.

On Nov. 5, 1930, the ship started for America. Her flight carried her over Holland, England and France. In England the prince of Wales made a flight in her and for ten minutes took over the controls.

Abandon U. S. Flight.

From Calshot the DO-X flew down the French coast, making a descent off La Rochelle and then taxing for 50 miles to a point near Bordeaux. This was her first test of ability to weather a lengthy trip on the surface.

Because of the lateness in the season, the originally scheduled flight to the United States was abandoned and plans were made for the trip to Brazil. On Nov. 27, the DO-X reached Lisbon and it was while there that a fire destroyed one of her huge wings. Repaired last January, she again took to the air and on Jan. 31, reached the Canary islands. Again she was subjected to numerous delays and it was not until May 1 that she arrived at Rio de Oro, on the west coast of Africa. Three days later she reached Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, where she was delayed due to an ensuing revolution there.

On May 30 she flew to Porto Praia.

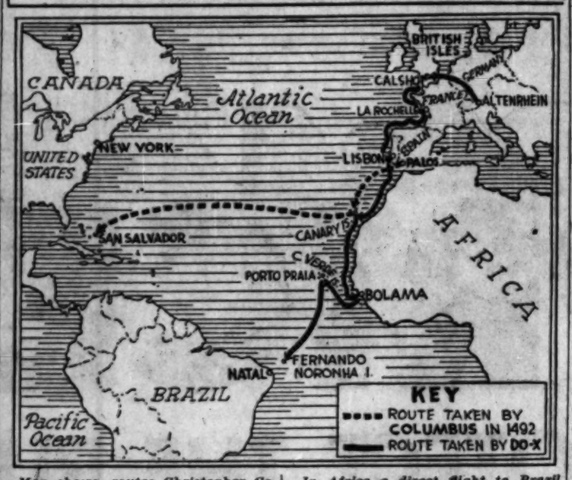
Carried Crew of Fifteen.

Her crew of fifteen on these flights included Maurice Dornier, whose brother, Claude, designed her; Capt. Friedrich Christiansen, in command, Harvey Brewton of Paterson, N. J., who represented the American firm which built the DO-X's motors; Wilhelm Niemann, navigation officer; Horst Merz, first pilot; H. Von Claussbruch, second pilot; Henry Kiel, radio officer, and Otto Eitel, chief engineer.

Von Claussbruch replaced Clarence Schildhauer, American flyer, as the second pilot. Schildhauer, whose work in the United States had not permitted him to remain with the DO-X because of the many delays, planned to rejoin her in Brazil and to help fly her on her South American trips.

The DO-X, built in Alternheim, Switzerland, is the biggest flying boat in the world. She has 12 engines, each of 500 horsepower, and her cruising speed is about 120 miles an hour. The South Atlantic has been crossed many times by planes and once by the Graf Zeppelin.

TWO LONG VOYAGES TO AMERICA



Map shows, routes Christopher Columbus and the German flying boat DO-X took to reach America. In the 211 day voyage to Fernando Noronha, an island 125 miles off the Brazilian coast, the DO-X started at Altenrhein, Switzerland, flew to England, France, and Lisbon, Portugal, where fire destroyed one of the wings. From Lisbon, the flying boat made its way to the Canary islands, thence to Bubaque, near Bolama, Portuguese West Africa.

In Africa a direct flight to Brazil was abandoned and the flying boat was piloted to the Cape Verde islands, about 400 miles out in the ocean. Until its South Atlantic hop of 1,400 miles yesterday, the ship had been dogged by misfortune.

Columbus left Palos, Spain, Aug. 3, 1492, in command of the Santa Maria, the Pinta and Nina and sailed to the Canary islands. On Oct. 12, seventy days later, Columbus discovered America, landing at San Salvador.

COP ASKS COURT TO FORBID WIFE TO STRIKE HIM

Patrolman Fred C. Larsen filed suit for divorce yesterday against Mrs. Marie Larsen, and at the same time sought an injunction in the Circuit court to restrain her from seeking him out in police stations and assaulting him.

On May 7, he charges, three days after they separated, she beat him and scratched him in the Marquette station, causing him "great mental anguish and embarrassment," and has since so annoyed him there that he has requested a transfer to another part of the city. The couple were married in 1910 and have a son, Fred Jr., 11 years old, who is with his mother at 3661 South Wood street.

Extradition Papers Sent to N. Y. for Con Suspect

Extradition papers were forwarded to New York yesterday from Springfield for Howard Leonard, 30 years old, who is wanted here on a charge of fleecing Emma Danielson, 5727 South Wells street, out of $10,000. Following his arraignment in New York he was held in bonds of $15,000. Sergt. Mike Phelan of the detective bureau will bring Leonard back to Chicago.

IRENE M'LAUGHLIN GOES TO COURT A LA FARMERETTE

Attired as a farmerette, in blue overalls and a blue shirt, open at the throat, Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin appeared yesterday in the Morton Grove Justice court as complaining witness against William Schroeder on charges of cruelty to animals, maintaining a nuisance, and disorderly conduct.

The charges are based on a visit by Mrs. McLaughlin on May 30 to Schroeder's farm near Prairie View, just south of the Cook-Lake county line. As the owner of an animal shelter, Orphans of the Storm, and a member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Mrs. McLaughlin sought to investigate reports that Schroeder did not adequately feed his stock, and permitted dead animals to lie around. Schroeder resisted the inquiry, according to Mrs. McLaughlin, by shoving her off the premises.

Schroeder was arraigned before Justice W. W. Ward. Alongside him stood Mrs. McLaughlin. No testimony was heard, for the defendant's attorney asked for a change of venue. His plea was granted and the hearing was set for June 12 before Justice A. J. Sengstock.

HINDUS DEMAND RIGHT TO MARRY 6 YEAR OLD GIRLS

Take Steps to Alter New Child Marriage Law.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SIMLA, India, June 4. — Chafing under the new child marriage law, which prevents an Indian from marrying a girl under 14 years of age, orthodox Hindus in the legislative assembly are making strenuous efforts to have the law altered.

They have already obtained Viceroy Lord Willingdon's assent to introduce an amendment at the next session of the assembly which would grant permission to members of certain Hindu castes to contract marriages with girls before the age of puberty—that is, in India, between six and ten years.

State Objects and Reasons.

The argument is that, though the marriages are celebrated at a tender age, married life in the real sense will not begin until the young girls have reached the age of puberty. The legislators take the view that this would be at about the age of 11. The wording of the bill is regarded as an excellent commentary on the viewpoint of the orthodox Hindu on child marriage, so abhorred in the west. The statement of objects and reasons appended to the bill says, among other things:

"The object of the bill is to exempt Brahmins, Vaishyas, Sourashtras, and communities in which post-puberty marriage is forbidden by their religious usages, or customs, or both, from the operation of the child marriage restraint act, 1929. Among these communities what is generally regarded as marriage is an irrevocable betrothal with all the effects of a valid marriage.

"The Garbhadhanam, or consummation ceremony, which is performed when the girl and boy begin to live as man and wife, is a distinct samskara and it can only be performed after the attainment of puberty by the girl. Even then the Smrithis and Grihiya Sutras [Hindu religious rites] lay down strict rules for its performance.

Marriages at 8 Years.

"The Shastras definitely prohibit post-puberty marriage in the case of the dwijas under pain of severe penalties which could not be cured by expiatory ceremonies. They further provide that it is essential that such marriages should, in the case of girls, be performed between the ages of 6 and 10.

"It is a well known and admitted fact that girls in this country attain puberty between the ages of 12 and 13, while in Madras and Bengal it very often occurs even one year earlier.

"Consequently, the provision in the act making marriages below the age of 14 years a penal offense, irrespective of whether consummation does or does not take place, renders its performance among Hindus compulsory after puberty. Such marriages being strictly forbidden, the act is a direct interference with the religious beliefs and observances of the Hindus, and is a clear violation of the solemn pledges of noninterference with religion made for over 100 years."

Charges Moslems Are Favored.

The statement then contends that the child marriage act really set the age of 14 as a political sop to the Mohammedans, who marry later than the Hindus. It adds that even among the majority of Indian legislators "a limit of even 11 years was considered as a sufficient minimum."

Marriage of girls at from 6 to 14 years of age really was quite a healthy practice, the statement continues.

BOY, 6, IS KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE WHILE AT PLAY

Six year old Eugene Anders, 7352 South Halsted street, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile while playing in the alley in the rear of his home. The driver of the car, Benjamin Goodkind, 7312 South Halsted street, a salesman, took the child to St. Bernard's hospital where he was pronounced dead. He is being held.

Joseph Todd, 65 years old, 7351 Dante avenue, died of injuries received Wednesday when the street car on which he was a passenger collided head on with a truck and trailer at 83d street and South Chicago avenue.

These two deaths increased the 1931 motor toll in Cook county to 486.

Miss Katherine Terrien, 17 years old, 126 Fairview place, Waukegan, was killed early yesterday morning when the automobile in which she was riding alone was struck on a crossing in North Chicago by a southbound Skokie valley train of the North Shore line. Identification of the body was made late yesterday afternoon when Frank Watson, 670 South Jackson street, Waukegan, informed the police that Miss Terrien had borrowed the car from him on Wednesday.

Bill to Regulate Buses, Trucks Advanced in House

Springfield, Ill., June 4.—[Special.]—With slight amendments, the bills setting the overall length of trucks and buses at 35 feet—40 feet with trailers—was advanced to third reading in the house today. Spirited debate featured the advancement, punctuated by a score of attempts to amend it materially, efforts which failed. The advancement was in the way of a compromise, the real fight to come when it is called for passage, according to predictions.

SHOOTS SELF WITH PISTOL.

Robert Piper, 20 years old, 6548 Ellis avenue, accidentally shot himself in the right leg while he was cleaning a .32 caliber automatic pistol at his home yesterday.

RECOMMEND CUT OF $200,000,000 IN BRITISH DOLE

Would Limit Benefits to "Normally" Employed.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 4.—Drastic recommendations, involving cuts of more than $200,000,000 a year in expenditures under the government's unemployment insurance fund and an increase of $45,000,000 a year in contributions to the fund, feature the authority interim report issued tonight by the royal commission which has been considering the administration of the bankrupt dole. The commission was appointed last December. It is under the chairmanship of Judge Holman Gregory and has six other members.

The commission proposes a widespread reorganization of the dole, which is now more than $400,000,000 in debt and is increasing the deficit by $5,000,000 weekly. The chief reforms suggested by the commission are: limitation of benefits to 26 weeks within any 12 months; reductions in rates of ordinary benefits; reductions in allowances for dependents; reforms relating to persons working short time, to seasonal workers and to married women.

Saving of $214,500,000.

If these recommendations are adopted, the commission estimates there will be a saving of $159,500,000 under the unemployment insurance scheme, in addition to a saving of $55,000,000 through reforms in the system of transitional benefits.

The commission proposes that employers should pay into the fund an additional two cents, or eighteen cents weekly; workers should pay an additional four cents, or eighteen cents, and the exchequer an additional seven cents, or 22 cents weekly.

Regarding abuses of the system, the commissioners suggest that workers employed for only two days, or less, weekly, should not be regarded as unemployed. They propose that claimants must show they are "normally employed in regular insurable employment" for other days of the week in order to draw their dole. Married women should only be entitled to benefit if they are able to show they have not abandoned insurable employment, and that they can reasonably expect to obtain it in the districts where they live.

Expect Bitter Opposition.

The majority report is signed by five members of the commission. The minority report recommends that, with the exception of some anomalies, no change should be made in the existing scheme until the commission has presented its final report.

The general impression in political circles tonight is that the commission's report will raise a difficult problem for the Labor government, as its recommendations will almost certainly be opposed by the members of the Labor party. Organized opposition is also threatened by the trade union congress.

The government is placed in a dilemma, which again raises the prospects of an early general election unless Prime Minister MacDonald can find a formula which will reconcile Labor opposition with the Liberal party's demands.

Evening Decree Raises Row.

[Copyright 1931 By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 4.—The essential contents of Chancellor Bruening's financial emergency decree became known today. Although they will not be fully published until Saturday, they have been the outstanding topic of political discussions for several weeks, and are expected to be the center of a political fight in which more than merely the fate of the Bruening cabinet will be at stake.

According to advance publication the government expects to save and raise through the decree a total of 3,000,000,000, which is considerably more than the estimated budget deficit. Part of the surplus shall be given to federal railways for an extensive construction program.

List New Taxes.

Items of this program of saving and financial reorganization include: Cut in federal pay rolls, including railways, $38,000,000; cut in national budget, $25,000,000; revenue from emergency tax, $108,000,000; revenue from the increased turnover tax, $30,000,000; revenue from the increased sugar tax, $25,000,000; revenue from the increased petroleum tax, $18,000,000; revenue from the reformed tobacco tax, $3,000,000.

The individual states and communities shall be compelled to effect similar economies to those of the federal government, which are to net $93,000,000. The rest of the $73,000,000 is to be saved by reductions of the unemployment dole.

Statesmen Retire Early.

S. S. HAMBURG, North Sea, June 4.—(AP)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius of Germany, bound for London for a conference with Prime Minister MacDonald on Anglo-German problems, retired early tonight for their second night of rest since leaving Berlin late Tuesday night.

The heads of the German and British states will discuss their mutual problems informally for the first time since the world war. It is said unofficially the German statesmen will seek the aid of the British in securing some sort of reduction of the annual reparations payments, and it has been predicted that upon the success of this probable quest may depend even the life of Chancellor Bruening's government at home.

60,000 TO CELEBRATE GERMAN DAY SUNDAY; MAYOR TO BE GUEST

German day will be celebrated at Soldiers' field next Sunday under the auspices of the United German Societies of Chicago. The celebration is an annual event.

A crowd of approximately 60,000 persons of German extraction is expected to attend. Among the guests will be Mayor Anton J. Cermak and other public officials.

An elaborate program of music, athletics, and gymnastics has been arranged by the executive committee, headed by Leopold Saltiel. There will be a grand parade headed by a 100 piece orchestra under the direction of Martin Ballman and Conductor Young. There will be units of German and American war veterans. Festivities will commence at 12:30 p. m.

LISTS SIX LOVES OF R. S. DODGE IN DIVORCE SUIT

Wife Says He Boasts of Affair with Toe Dancer.

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—The friends of Robert Squire Dodge, 42, a New York broker, included a Wall street telephone operator, his secretary, a barber shop manicure girl, a toe dancer, and a waitress on a South American steamship, according to affidavits filed at White Plains today by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Graham Dodge, 32, of Rye, in her suit for separation, $10,000 counsel fees, and $1,000 a week alimony. The Dodges were married Aug. 1, 1924.

Lists These as His Faults.

In August, 1926, her husband informed her he was in love with a telephone operator in Wall street and asked for a divorce. She refused the divorce. He left home but returned a few months later and was forgiven.

In March, 1929, he informed her he was in love with his secretary. This love waned presently, she said, and Mrs. Dodge forgave him again.

In August, 1929, he informed her he had misconducted himself with another woman. She forgave him.

Affair with Manicurist.

In January, 1930, he announced that he was in love with a manicure girl. He told his wife that she ought to be satisfied with 75 per cent of his love and let the manicure girl have the other 25 per cent.

In January, 1931, he made a trip to South America and on his return informed her that he had a love affair with a waitress on the steamship. She forgave him.

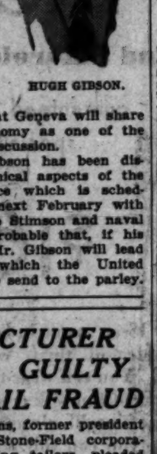
A month or so later he announced that he was in love with a toe dancer. He boasted of this affair in public and caused his wife great humiliation.

In March, 1931, they separated.

GIBSON ALSO GOING TO HOOVER CAMP TO TALK ARMS PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium and veteran American arms conference diplomat, will be among the guests of President Hoover when he entertains high naval officials and their wives at the Rapidan fishing camp this coming week-end. The inclusion of Ambassador Gibson on the guest list was interpreted as confirming reports that the approaching league arms conference at Geneva will share honors with economy as one of the major topics of discussion.



HUGH GIBSON.

Ambassador Gibson has been discussing the technical aspects of the Geneva conference, which is scheduled to be held next February with Secretary of State Stimson and naval officials. It is probable that, if his health permits, Mr. Gibson will lead the delegation which the United States is slated to send to the parley.

MANUFACTURER PLEADS GUILTY TO MAIL FRAUD

Robert L. Simons, former president of the defunct Stone-Field corporation, manufacturing tailors, pleaded guilty to using the mails to defraud yesterday after he had been on trial for two days before a jury in Federal Judge Barnes' court.

On motion of Assistant United States Attorney Joseph A. Struett, S. S. Elliott, former secretary of the bankrupt concern, was dismissed on the fraud charges. Simons faces a possible maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment and a $5,000 fine. Judge Barnes set June 18 as the date of sentence.

According to evidence presented by the government, Simons issued financial statements claiming assets of $402,000 and liabilities of $240,000 when the real assets were only $230,000.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR PICKS UP BOMB AT HOME

Minneapolis, Minn., June 4.—[Special.]—Bombs entered the Minneapolis mayoralty contest tonight when one was exploded in the rear of the home of Gen. George E. Leach, opponent of William A. Anderson, labor candidate, in next week's elections.

Gen. Leach, returning home from a political rally, found the bomb on the back porch of his home, and with the promptness born of war experience hurled it into his back yard, where it exploded almost immediately, tearing a large hole in the lawn.

Youth Promises to Fly High; Fine Is Remitted

Erich Paselk, 17 years old, of 5424 Kenton avenue, was fined $200 and costs yesterday by Justice of the Peace A. J. Sengstock at Morton Grove on the charge of stunting his airplane over the Sky Harbor airport on May 24. The fine was suspended when he promised Maj. Reed G. Landis, aviation adviser to the county board, who caused his arrest, to abide by flying laws. Charles Moran, 35 years old, of Glenview, arrested for low flying over the Curtiss airport, was dismissed when he made a similar promise.

ELOPERS BEAT AIR PURSUIT AND ARE WED

Irvington, N. J., June 4.—[Special.]—The speed of an airplane, employed by Mrs. Harry Frevert, to pursue her 15 year old daughter, who eloped on Tuesday night, was not sufficient to overtake the wings of love, it was disclosed here today when Mrs. Frevert returned home with her daughter and—a new son-in-law.

When Mrs. Frevert discovered that her daughter, Mildred, had departed with William Hart, 17 years old, for Chambersburg, Pa., she took out after them in an airplane. Arriving in York, she sped the rest of the distance in an automobile, only to find on arrival in Chambersburg that the young couple had already married. As the next best thing, she brought them home with her.

JAILED FOR HITTING WIFE.

17 LINERS TAKE THOUSANDS OFF TO SEE EUROPE

New York, June 4.—(AP)—Seventeen ocean liners, bearing the largest exodus of tourists to Europe in many weeks, sailed today or were ready for departure in the next 24 hours.

Today's departures included the Europa, Berengaria, Corinthia, New York, De Grasse and Stuttgart. The Ile de France, Olympic, Rotterdam, Saturnia, Bergensfjord, American Shipper and Kosciuszko were ready for departure with large passenger lists. The Mauretania was to leave for Nassau and the Western Prince for South America.

"Never disappoints me"

Says Mrs. Wirt Morton

—wife of the vice-president of the Morton Salt Company. A vivid personality with burnished red-brown hair, shining dark brown eyes and warm-tinted skin. She is ardently at work as secretary of the Illinois Division, Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. "Homes interest me more than anything else," she says. And how hers reflects her own sure taste! Her dining room—planes of light playing across a polished black terrazzo floor—the flat tones of dull beige rose walls—a modern setting perfect for the classic simplicity of her fine old Directoire furnishings.

"I marvel that the flavor of Manor House can remain the same, day after day, year after year. Such evenness means a great deal to me, for my coffee never lets me down when I am entertaining guests. I hear some women wonder why their coffee does not always taste good. But I can say that Manor House never changes . . . it is always the same."

Does your coffee change from day to day? Good yesterday—mediocre today—poor last week? Then you'll be glad to know it isn't you—or your coffee making—or even your disposition that's at fault! It's because the coffee you use varies in flavor.

One of the toughest things in the coffee business is to keep a blend uniform. That's one of the many things that three generations in the coffee business have taught the McLaughlin family. You will find that the flavor of any coffee they turn out will never vary.

BURIED AUTO AND CULVERT SLAYING CASE ARE LINKED

Beloit, Wis., June 4.—[Special.]—Possibility that the 1926 model coupe found mysteriously buried in the barn used as a farm near Brodhead, Wis., might have connection with the Walworth county culvert murder that for nine years has gone unsolved, was considered by Rock and Walworth county authorities today.

The body of a young woman with head and chest crushed was found under a highway culvert near Elkhorn in the summer of 1928 and could not be identified. The car dug up on the farm last night bore a 1929 license said to have been issued to L. R. Wilson, 1058 Loyola avenue, Chicago. Chicago police were unable to find any man at the Chicago address.

Report Woman Missing.

It was reported to the sheriff's office in Janesville that a man who hauled liquor between Chicago and a place near South Beloit and who had been sought in the investigation of the culvert murder case, visited Beloit about a month ago.

It was reported he formerly drove a car like the one found on the Brodhead farm. A woman he said was his wife was understood to have mysteriously disappeared.

Authorities scouted the theory that the car was buried to collect insurance on it, because of its age.

Link Auto to Shooting.

The fact that the farm up till the time of a raid some time ago had a large alcohol plant in the barn, together with the finding of three .38 caliber revolver shells in the car, one empty and two still undischarged, led to belief that the car figured in a murder or some gang shooting and was brought out to the gang's farm and buried to help conceal the crime.

Officers dug at various places in the barnyard today to find bodies buried, but made no new discoveries except the find of the two undischarged revolver shells.

WILSON PHONES SHERIFF

Lester R. Wilson, 1058 Loyola avenue, whose license plates were found on an automobile buried near Beloit, Wis., was found last night to live at 1313 Main street, Lake Geneva, Wis. The authorities there said that he had lived there during the summer months for the last four years with his wife, Ruth, and brother-in-law, William F. Ellet.

Chief was reached there and he said Wilson was in the real estate business. He refused to state where. When informed about the car being buried he stated that Wilson had traded in his machine in 1929 to a dealer at Beloit.

Sheriff J. S. Fessenden of Janesville, Wis., late last night said that Wilson had called him by telephone from Chicago. Fessenden said Wilson told him that he had reported his car stolen. Wilson said that the machine was taken while he was visiting friends at Delavan, Wis. Sheriff Fessenden remembered Wilson and had seen him on several occasions. Twice, according to the sheriff Wilson had visited men locked up in the county jail who were being held for the federal government.

PERRY TO FACE COURT TODAY AS "BLUEBEARD"

Suspect Is Returned from California.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Eagle River, Wis., June 4.—[Special.]—George W. E. Perry, the Milwaukee marrying brakeman, tonight was in jail here, near the scene of the slaying of Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett, his Chicago bride, to stand trial for first degree murder, after a trip across the continent from San Francisco.

May Waive Examination.

District Attorney Edmund Drager said tonight that Perry would be taken into court tomorrow for arraignment on the murder charge after he has been questioned. Perry has indicated that he may waive the preliminary examination and enter a plea of not guilty.

Drager already has begun preparation of his case against Perry and expects to question him at length in the hope of obtaining a confession of the Hackett murder last fall on the Lac du Flambeau Indian reservation near here. Perry was on his honeymoon with Mrs. Hackett at the time of the killing.

If possible he will be tried before the fall term of court, possibly within two weeks. Mr. Drager indicates that he intends to handle the prosecution.

Spared Meeting with Wife.

Perry was spirited around Milwaukee on his trip through Wisconsin, and while lunching at Hales Corners expressed a desire to communicate with Edward M. Collins, Milwaukee alderman, whom he has known for many years.

Perry asked that the alderman come to Eagle River to see him when informed he was out of the city. By not being taken into Milwaukee, Perry was spared a meeting with his legal wife and his three children.

Mr. Drager said tonight he did not believe Perry had engaged counsel as yet.

Speakeasy Building Owner Indicted on Rum Charge

Louis Bernstein, jeweler at 10 North Clark street, was arrested by a deputy United States marshal yesterday and released in bond of $1,500 on an indictment charging violation of the prohibition laws. Bernstein, according to federal authorities, is owner of the building at 123 North Clark street, in which several speakeasies have been raided.

DIES OF SKULL FRACTURE.

A man about 40 years old, who was found unconscious Wednesday at Lowe avenue and 51st street, died yesterday at the county hospital. The body was still unidentified late last night. Death was due to a skull fracture, possibly caused by his being struck by an automobile.

OPEN ELECTION SCANDAL PROBE IN PHILIPPINES

MANILA, June 4.—(AP)—Failure of 105 election inspectors to report returns promptly and the appearance of an error in the tabulations of a newspaper on results of Tuesday's elections, caused the secretary of the interior, Honorio Ventura, to start an investigation today.

Following the publication of returns stating that one candidate had been elected, official returns showed that 37 precincts had not been reported and that his opponent was leading. Police rounded up all but a few of the inspectors, some of whom said they were ignorant of the law and had delivered the returns to the wrong authorities. Others said they had gone home, intending to report the returns later.

These explanations failed to satisfy Secretary Ventura, and he started an inquiry to determine whether the inspectors were influenced to fail to conform to the law. An investigation and perhaps criminal action will be undertaken also in scattered cases growing out of the election. There were numerous cases of illegal voting.

PLAN BIG SHAKEUP OF MEXICO HAVEN FOR U. S. DIVORCE

MEXICO CITY, June 4.—(AP)—A shakeup in the famous divorce court of Cuernavaca, where many Americans have obtained decrees, was indicated in reports reaching here today.

Judge Manuel Carpio, who for several years presided over the court, gave up his post and was succeeded by Judge Manuel Vallana. Vallana refused to comment on the motive for the change, but said that hereafter the court records would not be made public.

Chief Trevino of the Cuernavaca police force also surrendered his post Monday and several minor state and city employés are said to have resigned. Gov. Vicente Estrade Cacigal, interviewed by telephone from Mexico City, declined to make a statement.

Jobless, Man Jumps Into River; Tug Fishes Him Out

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—Homeless and unemployed, Robert Wycoff, 55 years old, plunged 135 feet from the Manhattan bridge into the East river tonight, only to have his suicide attempt thwarted by the crew of a tugboat which fished him out of the water and summoned an ambulance. "I'm tred," was all Wycoff would tell police.

THE SOUTH EATS FRIED CHICKEN FOR BREAKFAST

Must Be Cut in Fourteen Small Pieces.

BY ROBERT JOHNSTON.

If a man's speech, or his manner, or his prejudices fail to indicate the section of country he comes from, and you want to learn whether he is a northerner or a southerner, ask him to name his favorite dish. If he prefers lobster, pawpaws, ground cherry pie, or tenderloin steak, he's a northerner. If his face lights up and, summoning all of the adjectives in his vocabulary, he answers, "Fried chicken," he grew up south of the Mason-Dixon line.

The art of frying chicken, frying it properly, never has crossed north the historic boundary, southerners insist. It's strange, too. The reason they give must be that northern cooks and northern chicken eaters have never tasted properly fried chicken. There is no essential part of the process of transforming a half grown rooster or pullet into the most delicious food that cannot be done as well in a kitchenette on the fourteenth floor as in the spacious cook room of a North Carolina farm.

Chicken for Breakfast.

Of course, the southern farm housewife, while feeding her chickens raises a likely looking young rooster by the leg and finishes the whole job of preparing him for Sunday breakfast—yes, breakfast—while the man-about-the-house distributes the corn and fodder to the horses and some other member of the household milks the cows. The southerner wandered north does not demand all these details.

He will not insist that breakfast is the only meal at which fried chicken may be served. But he will insist upon the details that make fried chicken fried chicken instead of something else.

Let's go through the whole procedure and note the essentials, the details that southern cooks follow. One starts, of course, with a whole dressed chicken, preferably half grown, for the bigger the fowl the fuller the platter. The cutting is the first operation in which your northern city cook errs. A chicken cut into two or four pieces cannot be fried properly, because they will not lie evenly in a skillet. Furthermore, a quarter or a half chicken is as hard to manage on a dinner plate as a head lettuce salad in a breakfast cereal bowl.

Cut Chicken Into 14 Pieces.

The chicken should be divided into some 14 pieces, as follows: Two drumsticks, or lower portions of the leg; two thighs, two wings, the breast cut into four pieces, the back cut from side to side into two pieces, the gizzard, the liver. If the chicken is divided at the joints with a paring knife the feaster will not be annoyed by chewing upon bits of bone such as a cleaver frequently breaks off and presses into the meat.

For some reason it is necessary that frying chicken be dipped into something before cooking. Pioneer northern cooks, it is alleged in the south, did not choose the correct material for this process. They usually prefer a batter which leaves the chicken encased in a fritter or cracker crumbs. But when the first southern cook fried her first chicken she dipped the pieces into flour—plain dry flour, nothing else. In Dixieland flour has been used for this purpose ever since. Any one who has eaten a hot drumstick surrounded by browned flour will tell you of its superiority over the fritter or cracker meal varieties.

Before the dipping starts, however, half an inch of fat should begin to sizzle in large skillet over a slow fire. As each piece of chicken is dipped it should be placed in the fat. The pieces should be so arranged in the skillet that each portion lies flat. The skillet should be covered. During the frying, which should continue nearly half an hour, each piece of chicken should be turned two or three times.

Northern Gravy O. K.

The northern method of making gravy will do: Sift the desired quantity of flour into the fat after the chicken has been placed upon a platter. After the flour has browned slightly, add milk and allow the gravy to simmer until it has become of the desired consistency.

If any northern housewife wishes her family or her guests to eat heartily, get the maximum of satisfaction from every mouthful, leave the table wishing he had greater capacity, and carry through life the delightful memory of her meal, let her serve fried chicken prepared in this manner of the black mammy and the southern farm housewife.

And if the northern housewife wishes to enhance even these effects, let her serve hot biscuits, real biscuits, southern biscuits.

$2.88 Per Day Feeds Family of 9 Adults, Students Learn

What does it cost to feed a family of nine adults? "Thirty-two cents per person a day," is the answer of the practice house group at the state agricultural college at Fargo, N. D.

This group of senior students in home economics, under the supervision of Dean Alba Bales, kept a check on the cost of all food consumed for a period of eight weeks in an effort to discover just how much decrease can be made in the food allowance without losing sight of the health and happiness of the family.

Meals of Quality and Variety.

While a subsistance diet can be furnished on much less than 32 cents a day, no effort was made to cut the cost to that level, and meals sufficient in quality, variety, and quantity were furnished.

The general plan followed for the meals included each day one fresh fruit, one green or yellow vegetable, two salads, and meat once a day. A typical day's menu consisted of sliced oranges, cream of wheat, toast, and coffee for breakfast; fruit salad, cottage cheese sandwiches, cocoa, and chocolate drop cakes for lunch; and for dinner, breaded veal chops, mashed potatoes, gravy, fresh spinach with pickled beets, celery, home made whole wheat rolls, prune whip with cream, and coffee.

Careful Marketing Factor.

Careful marketing was found by the group to have much to do with food costs. The students discovered that by "shopping around" they were able to make a considerable saving.

Perishable foods, of course, were bought as needed, but staples were bought in quantity if it meant a saving and seemed practical. Lists from the market pages of the paper were supplemented by wise choice in cases where the advertised foods did not meet quality standards.

It was found advisable for the inexperienced buyer of foods to market in the shops rather than over the telephone.

WEDDING CAKE ORIGINATED BY INDIAN TRIBES

Custom Has Come Down Through Ages.

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

A wedding just wouldn't be a social success without a wedding cake. Food and feasting have always played a highly important part at weddings, the celebrations used to last as long as seven or ten days and consisted almost entirely of feasting, drinking, and riotous merrymaking.

Food had its importance, as well, in the engagement ceremonies of the affianced when "eating together" symbolized the betrothal of the pair. In Brittany the betrothed drank brandy and ate white bread together; in Japan the ceremony consisted in the mutual drinking of saki. The Turkish bride and groom ate sweetmeats from lip to lip, and the German pair ate soup from the same dish.

Early Wedding Feasts.

The custom of serving wedding cake and bride's cake is a survival of this early practice of feasting. The custom is world-wide and exceedingly ancient.

The origin of the wedding cake [the original holds little resemblance to the cake as we know it today] is found among the traditions of the Fiji islanders and some tribes of American Indians. That first "wedding cake" was a meal cake that the new bride always offered to her husband. The early Romans went so far as to break a salted meal cake over the bride's head as a symbol of plentifulness. Still many other nations followed the same custom by having the guests drop wheat cakes upon the wife's head and then eat the fragments for good luck.

The demand for such bits of cake became so great that in early Britain huge baskets of small, dry crackers were baked for every wedding and no guest thought of departing without one. The next development of the modern bridal cake was a small, square and richly spiced bun which guests brought literally by the hundreds of pounds. These were not thrown at the bride, but were heaped at the head of the table in one great mound, over which the bride and groom attempted to kiss each other. This feat was supposed to bring lifelong prosperity.

France Adds Improvement.

Then some genius of a French cook in London conceived the idea of icing the mound into one mass and lo! the first wedding cake. The cake was divided by breaking it over the bride's head, whereupon the little squares fell apart ready to be scrambled for by the hilarious guests.

Each young unmarried maiden took a piece of the wedding cake home, put it in her left stocking. That procedure was supposed to bring about matrimonial fortune.

WEDDING CAKE.

12 eggs.
1 cup molasses.
1 pound flour.
4 teaspoons cinnamon.
4 teaspoons allspice.
1½ teaspoons mace.
1 nutmeg, grated.
¾ teaspoon soda.
3 pounds seeded raisins, cut in pieces.
2 pounds raisins.
1½ pounds citron, thinly sliced and cut in strips.
1 pound currants.
½ preserved lemon rind.
½ preserved orange rind.
1 cup grape juice.
4 squares chocolate, melted.
1 tablespoon hot water.

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and beat thoroughly. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add to first mixture, then add flour [reserving 1-3 cup of dredge fruit], mixed and sifted with spices, fruit dredged with flour, lemon rind and orange rind finely chopped, grape juice, chocolate and egg whites beaten until stiff. Just before putting into pans add soda dissolved in hot water. Put in buttered deep pans. If to be steamed, cover loosely with buttered paper and tie paper firmly in place. Then steam 3 hours and bake 1½ hours in slow oven [300 degrees F.]. If desired, make 4 hours in very slow oven [275 degrees F.] without steaming.

NO OVERPRODUCTION OF MAPLE SIRUP; PRICES KEEPING UP

One food product that has kept up relatively high prices and in which farmers have suffered no overproduction is maple sugar.

With its characteristic and appealing flavor, the sap of the maple tree, when boiled into sirup or, still further, until it crystallizes into sugar, has continued in popularity in about nine states and Canada, where the bulk of it is produced.

Farmers receive an average of 80 cents per pound for sirup, or $2.05 per gallon, according to the federal government's report for 1930, which gives the combined value of the American and Canadian crop as little over five million dollars.

Vermont and New York produce the largest amounts, followed in rank by Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Maine. More than 14 million trees are tapped to satisfy the American appetite. Strange to say, the largest single customer for maple sirup is a tobacco company.

Beef and Lamb Cuts Are Housewife's Best Buys

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the Chicago Meat council states: "Beef continues to represent the most economical meat buy for the Chicago housewife over the coming week-end. All cuts of beef are available from retail meat stores at especially attractive prices. Fore quarter lamb is also selling at prices which enable the housewife to purchase and prepare her Sunday dinner at low cost."

STAID POTATO BREAKS OUT IN SUMMER ATTIRE

Bobs Up as Salad for Hot Weather Dish.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

Along about this time of the year when nature bursts out in a torrent of color, the cooks' fancies turn to salads.

Warm weather is welcomed with open arms. For at the tips of most cooks' fingers are innumerable tricks to be used for transforming staid winter foods into a more festive summer guise. It's all according to the individual's taste whether vegetables, fruit, fish, or fowl are to be fitted out in gala summer costumes.

The potato for one can be rejuvenated and decked out in new attire. One of the prize dishes on the list of hot weather suggestions for salads is the potato salad. Men may scoff and make light of other salad combinations, but there is hardly one who refuses to succumb to the charm of the potato salad.

A Man's Dish.

The hearty eater has no reason to complain of pangs of hunger after partaking of a meal if one of the main constituents is potato salad. It is the one salad that can truly be called a man's dish.

Potato salad is rarely served as a salad course. Most of the time it holds an important position as a luncheon or supper dish. When served with cold cuts of meat or with hot Frankfort sausages, it is in an ideal setting. Fresh rosy radishes or sprightly young green onions and cooling drinks of lemonade, iced tea or coffee put the finishing touches to a meal for a hot summer's day.

Or instead of the cold meat or hot sausages, a salad made up of a mixture of salmon and chopped raw cabbage doused in mayonnaise dressing might share the honors with the potato salad. And with juicy red strawberries flooding the market at popular prices, what could be better than a portion of old fashioned strawberry shortcake to top off the meal!

Enough for 6 to 8.

Approximately two cups of sliced or cubed boiled potatoes will make enough potato salad to serve from six to eight persons. The potatoes may be cut in thick or thin slices, across or lengthwise, or in cubes from ⅛ to ¾ of an inch in thickness. Cover the potatoes with ⅓ cup of dressing and mix well.

One of the favored varieties is the tart dressing that is used in what is known as German potato salad. As a substitute for the oil, which usually forms the foundation for the dressing, bits of bacon or salt pork are fried and used with the hot grease. About a tablespoon or more if desired of vinegar is added to the hot mixture, which is thickened with a bit of flour, and poured over and mixed with the potatoes. This potato salad is at its best when served immediately after the dressing has been added.

Garnish Goes Well.

Or there is the cooked salad dressing with

1 teaspoon mustard. 2 egg yolks, beaten.
1 teaspoon salt. 2 tablespoons melted fat.
Dash of cayenne.
1 tablespoon sugar. 1 cup milk.
1½ tablespoons flour. ¼ cup vinegar.

Mix dry ingredients in double boiler. Add egg yolk, fat and milk, cook, stirirng constantly until thick [7 or 8 minutes]. Remove from fire, cool, add vinegar. Then mix with potatoes.

The salad may be garnished with small lettuce leaves, curly endive, celery tips, parsley [sprigs or minced], hard cooked eggs [sliced or in wedges], cooked beets, plain or pickled [chopped, sliced, or in fancy shapes], cucumber pickles [very small whole, large chopped or sliced], dill pickles [chopped or sliced], capers, tiny herring, anchovies, sardines, olives [plain or stuffed, green or ripe], or small pickled onions.

CLUB CUISINIER TELLS WHAT HIS PATRONS SELECT

Chafing Dish Gets Draw with Escargots.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

"He hates chicken to eat and it's all because he is the son of a minister." That was the comment of one of Chicago's best known cuisine managers as he sat in the lobby of the Tavern club and described some of the eating habits of a group of well known business and professional leaders.

He was speaking in particular about Alfred MacArthur, president of the Central Life Insurance company. When Mr. MacArthur was a lad it seemed whenever the minister's family went calling and was persuaded to stay for something to eat, the meal invariably centered around chicken and therein he developed a dislike. But he does eat spinach, he says, as it saves the children from having to consume it.

Piano Man Eats Well.

What do some of the other Chicago business men prefer for their meals? There is Arthur Bissell, piano dealer, favorite luncheon dishes that he frequently orders are lobster Newberg, crepe fins, and other chafing dish delicacies. A typical dinner such as he might order would indicate he is a hearty eater.

"Probably the start of his dinner would be caviar," says Ernest Kuhn, manager of the Tavern club, where Mr. Bissell and other prominent Chicagoans frequently dine and from whom the secrets divulged herein were obtained. "Then Mr. Bissell probably would have shad roe in a chafing dish and follow that with breast of guinea hen, asparagus, a special Tavern salad, raspberries Romanoff, cheese, and coffee."

Gen. Milton J. Foreman as an army quartermaster acquired a hearty appetite which he retains since retiring to a law practice. One of his typical luncheon orders consists of a cup of onion soup, sweetbreads, June peas, and a chocolate éclair.

General Likes Escargots.

For dinner he often sits down to a meal of escargots or English snails, green turtle soup, boned chicken prepared stuffed in a glass dish, artichokes and a dessert of brandy peach melba.

Before continuing with these dietary menus of some of the city's leaders an explanation might be in order as to why Mr. Kuhn is capable of describing these eating habits. He is being ingratiating and during his education in the Alpine country he was initiated into the major rites that the Swiss use in cultivating the hotel trade, which is one of the country's greatest industries.

He went to Italy and learned from Oscar's chefs and for a time was with Sherry's in New York and with the management of the former Café Martin, later going to the William Penn hotel in Pittsburgh. Three years ago he came to Chicago as manager of the newly formed Tavern club and now is able to order meals for about 30 per cent of the members whose favorite dishes he knows. Others have no outstanding preferences.

J. Ham Likes Sandwich.

To describe one or two men who are not such heavy eaters, we might take Senator J. Hamilton Lewis. He often satisfies hunger at noon with a sandwich or a cup of soup and his evening dinner often consists of an omelet, or a lamb chop, or a small breast of chicken, and usually a cup of cocoa.

Another hearty eater, in contrast, is Howard L. Willett of the transportation company that bears his name. Any type of chafing dish preparations except one agree with him. That one is sea food rajah, a mixture of chutney and curri powder. He does like shad roe and the Tavern green salad which has a touch of garlic in its dressing.

"Wormser" potatoes have made their appearance on the club menu recently on indorsement of Leo F. Wormser, attorney. It seems he is particular about his potatoes and feels that German fried style should not be cut raw and fried but should first be boiled and then sliced thin, fried in butter and browned on both sides of all the slices. Quite a following among the members is said to have followed the appearance of the "Wormser" potatoes.

And Soft Shelled Crabs!

His partner is Lessing Rosenthal, who is partial to soft shelled crabs cooked in a chafing dish with almonds. Another highly praised club favorite that scores high with Francis X. Busch, attorney and corporation counsel, and W. C. Boyden, attorney, is chicken Tetrazzini. Mr. Boyden is a hearty eater but admits his favorite dessert is the somewhat Bohemian chocolate sundae.

George Lytton of clothing store fame admires a delicacy known as chicken and lobster Knickerbocker, which is a chafing dish preparation on which there is a sprinkling of nuts to add flavor. Eusebio Conciaidi, concert and opera singer, clings to his national dish—spaghetti. With it his customary order is a tomato sauce, which he also prefers with several other foods, including steaks. John Wentworth, architect, can be expected to enjoy a four egg omelet for luncheon and for dinner a filet of sole, a steak with julien potatoes, green salad, Brie cheese and coffee.

A man who is fond of crabs is Julius Rosenwald, philanthropist, and he also likes game meat. Andrew Reberi, architect, picks out fresh caviar and anchovies for dinner, topping them off with a big steak. Nelson L. Barnes, a broker, is another sea food advocate and is fond of lobster, cold and fresh.

Poison Found on Celery Leaves, Bundesen Warns

Health Commissioner Bundesen yesterday warned against eating the leaves of celery. His warning followed the discovery that a carload of celery distributed throughout Chicago contained poisonous deposit. He urged housewives to wash all stalks thoroughly before serving them. A housewife living in Wilmette gave the leaves of celery to her three canaries and the birds died. Health department inspectors found copper deposits on the leaves.

HOUR BY HOUR 5 U. S. EXPERTS EAT ROAST LAMB

It's Boring, Too, After 2,300th Hind Leg.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 4.—[Special.]—Like lamb? Then how would you like to sit at a white table in a white kitchen at the home economics bureau here in Washington and eat slice after slice of succulent roast lamb, all through the afternoon, with Uncle Sam footing the bill?

Sounds savory, doesn't it? But wait a moment. No mint sauce goes with the lamb. No salt; no pepper; not a bit of seasoning. And you can't smoke between slices. The best you can do is to nibble a piece of dry bread; sip a glass of water.

Another thing, Uncle Sam wants statistics, not adjectives. So you can't merely smack your lips and murmur, "Delicious," or frown and exclaim, "Too tough." You've got to know all about the seven gradations in aroma, texture, tenderness, and flavor if you're to be a judge in this vast meat palatability test.

Three Bureaus Stage It.

Three bureaus—home economics, animal industry, agricultural economics—all under the department of agriculture, are conducting it, and the idea is sponsored by the National Live Stock and Meat board of Chicago.

The taste test, one of the basic parts of the laboratory sequence, is carried on in the kitchens of the home economics bureau, of which Dr. Louise Stanley is the head. The cooking and judging is in charge of Miss Lucy Alexander, who has tasted and tested the left hind legs of more than 2,300 lambs.

The animals, bred, raised, and fed under special direction at governmental experiment stations in 25 states, come to the kitchen clothed in as much anonymity as any girl entering her photograph in a beauty contest. Each left hind leg is carefully tagged and marked, but it is all done so that the judge who may have come from Montana will have no chance of showing partiality to Montana meat. Today's exhibits happened to come from Tennessee.

Cooked in Two Ovens.

Let's take one. It is prepared for cooking, then weighed. It is first put into a searing oven, where the temperature is 285 degrees centigrade, and it is kept there for twenty minutes. Then it is transferred to the cooking oven which has already been heated to 125 degrees centigrade.

O, yes, geometry does its bit for cookery. For by an exercise in triangulation, the geometric center of the piece of meat is located, and into that center is thrust a meat thermometer. Once the leg is put into the cooking oven the glass door is kept closed, but an attendant turns her flashlight on the door every now and then, watching the meat thermometer. When it registers 76 degrees centigrade the meat is taken out and weighed again. It is allowed to cool a bit, and sent over to the table where Mr. Kenneth Warner of the bureau of animal industry stands with his carving knife.

Five Succulent Slices.

He cuts five slices, as much of a size as possible, and keeps the five in order as he looks at the five plates at his side. Each plate is marked with the number of this particular leg of lamb. Each plate is also marked with the name of one of the five judges. And below, the judge's name is the number of the piece in the series of five which he eats in each of the tests. Carefully, then, Mr. Warner puts slice No. 1 on the plate marked one; and so on through the list.

Simultaneously the quintet of slices is taken to the tables where the judges sit waiting to do their work. And it gets to be work.

First, they pick up their plates and sniff the meat. Then they mark on their chart the "intensity," and the "desirability" of the aroma. There are seven possible grades in each of these classes.

Official Palates Perform.

Then they cut a square in the center of their circular piece of meat. This square is the portion that is eaten. And they mark for "texture"; "flavor of fat and of lean"; "tenderness"; and "quality and quantity of juice." Here, too, there are seven gradations. At the bottom of the chart is a place to check the color of the lean, from light red to dark brown; and the color of the fat from white to amber.

That test is over. The next leg is still in the oven. The judges nibble bread, the better to sharpen their palates for the next taste. Five minutes, maybe ten, and the next slice comes over. And so it goes, all through the afternoon.

Then the judges go home and Miss Alexander gets out her pencil and paper and tabulates and correlates the day's figures, fitting them into the big pattern which ultimately will affect that dinner of yours when you'll serve roast lamb.

But don't invite Miss Alexander. She's fed up on lamb.

THE BEE, IT SEEMS, PLAYS A PART IN YOUR CHERRY PIE

To the busy little honey bee the housewife owes her gratitude if she be a lover of the Royal Ann variety of white cherries available the year around in cans, as well as the reddish black cherries now obtainable on the market.

"She can buy them because sometime, somewhere, a honey bee, while searching for nectar, carried pollen from one cherry blossom to another," proclaims its spokesman, Prof. V. G. Milum of the University of Illinois, who addressed the Iowa beekeepers' shortcourse at Ames last week.

Prof. Milum says the cherry industry in Washington and Oregon practically failed before the orchardists discovered that importing colonies of bees would provide a means of pollination.

Growers in the cherry belt in Michigan have also adopted this practice and apple growers are rapidly adopting it. Some orchardists in Iowa are placing colonies of bees in their orchards this year to aid in pollination.

Soak Pots, Pans to Lighten the Work of Dishwashing

SCHOOL COLORS MAY DOMINATE PARTY MENUS

Old Tried Out Recipes Please Young.

BY META GIVEN.

In the last two or three weeks we have had a number of requests for graduation party menus and in some of these specifications have been made for some unusual recipes.

Is it necessary to have something new in the way of foods for these parties? True, the schools have undergone many transformations. Electric buzzers have taken the place of the old school bell and the "three R's" have been augmented until the curriculum includes a whole set of "ologies." But there are about the same number of parties that the young people will have between exams and the report card or diploma—class suppers, class days, farewell parties, faculty teas, sweet girl graduate parties, commencement picnics, etc. And all of them require food and plenty of it, as you know if you have observed the normal adolescent at work upon his refreshments.

Not Much That's New.

It is a pretty difficult thing to prepare an entirely new menu and to give several entirely new and unusual recipes. There isn't so much that is new. If the food is prepared in a faultless manner and is served attractively there will be no doubt about making a hit with youngsters no matter if grandmother's recipes were used as guides in the cooking. The appetite hasn't changed much.

Since the use of school or class colors in the menu is a traditional custom, it is nice to plan the food around the particular colors. These may be brought out in the decoration of the appetizers in sandwiches, salads, or desserts. If fruit appetizers are used one may use the bottled colored grapes, cherries and currants, the colored cocoanut that comes in many delicate tints, and the use of fruits in season.

Berries Provide Red.

Reds may be provided with strawberries, raspberries, cherries, or red currants; greens from avocado and pistachio nuts; yellows from muskmelons, tangerines, and oranges. Any canned or fresh fruit may be colored by letting it stand in a solution of pure fruit or vegetable colorings. One needs to watch this process carefully, however, because it is an easy matter for the fruit to absorb too much color and this should be avoided.

There is nothing so inartistic as unnaturally high colored food. My advice is to use artificial coloring only as a last resort. No matter how artistic the cook is she can never improve on the natural colors which nature has produced. In vegetables every color that could be desired is available.

Sandwiches Tied with Ribbons.

Sandwiches are one of the best foods for bringing in the class colors. Ribbon, rolled, and rainbow sandwiches may include almost all colors. Small rolled sandwiches called cigaret sandwiches may be tied with ribbons of the class colors. Candies may be in the prescribed color and so may the cold drinks. In fact, if one wants to go to the trouble to siphon the beverages into the glasses, two or three different colors of beverages may go into the same glass and the effect is most beautiful.

The following recipes and menus should serve the purpose for a number of school parties. And one may subtract or add to them.

Menu No. 1.

Chicken Salad Sandwiches
Celery Olives and Radishes

Chocolate Ice Cream
Angel or White Cake or Devil's Food Cake
Promenade Punch

Menu No. 2.

Fruit Cocktail
Chicken Salad
Bread and Butter Fingers
Cocoanut Cake
Vanilla Ice Cream with Colored Sauce

PROMENADE PUNCH.

¾ cup sugar.
Juice from one can of grapefruit.
¼ cup lemon juice.

Boil the sugar and water together for 5 minutes. Cool. Add the fruit juices and chill thoroughly. Pour over the cracked ice in tall beverage glasses. This fills 10 punch cups.

RED DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE.

½ cup fat [half butter].
1½ cups sugar.
2 eggs.
½ cup buttermilk.
1 tsp. soda.
1 tsp. vanilla.

Sift the flour, then measure. Resift twice with cocoa. Cream the fat until plastic. Then add the sugar gradually, creaming thoroughly. Add the well beaten eggs and beat hard one minute. Add the flour-cocoa mixture alternately with the buttermilk in which soda has been dissolved, beginning and ending with the flour mixture. Add the vanilla and beat vigorously ½ minute. Add the boiling water [the water must be boiling to make the cake red]. Stir until the batter is smooth. Turn into layer or loaf pans that have been oiled and lined with paraffin paper. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] about 35 minutes.

Yield: 1 loaf or 2 layers.

COCOANUT CAKE.

1 cup granulated sugar.
1½ cups sifted cake flour.
½ cup milk.
1½ tsps. baking powder.

Cream butter until plastic. Add sugar in 6 or 8 portions, creaming until soft and fluffy after each addition. When sugar is all in, add the flour all at one time and with a fork quickly combine the two until the mixture has the appearance of coarse corn meal. Add the milk gradually, stirring rapidly with a fork to uniform consistency. When the milk is all in, add the baking powder Beat with a spoon until the batter is smooth. This will require about 2 minutes.

Beat egg whites until quite stiff, but not until they are so stiff that they have lost their shiny appearance. With the same beater beat yolks until thick and lemon colored. Quickly scrape the yolks into the batter and beat about one minute. Then slip in the beaten egg whites, and cut and fold them into the batter. After they have almost disappeared from sight stir quite vigorously five or six times to smooth batter. Turn the batter quickly into two prepared tins. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for about 30 minutes.

When cool spread lemon butter between layers and on the top. When this cools cover with the white mountain icing and before the icing hardens sprinkle thickly with moist cocoanut. Cocoanut may be mixed with just a little orange juice and grated orange rind to give color, but not enough should be added to produce wetness.

LEMON BUTTER.

1 cup sugar.
2 tbsps. butter.
Juice of 2 small lemons.

Beat the eggs and sugar together. Add the butter, then grated rind and juice of lemons. Bring to boiling point and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cook in double boiler. This is sufficient for one large cake.

VITAMIN SALAD.

On a bed of lettuce place equal quantities of finely julienned raw cabbage, finely julienned peeled tomato [connective tissues only] and fried calf's liver, mixed with enough, thousand island dressing to bind. Place a rosette of cress at two sides of the salad and two thick half slices of tomato at the opposite sides. Garnish the top of the salad with sliced egg yolks. Serve a thousand island dressing on the side to which has been added some grated fried liver and chopped chives. Simmer the liver in butter, slowly, under cover, and in one piece until done.

Free Lunch Collections Disapproved by Schools

Solicitors for contributions to a fund which supposedly supplies free lunches for undernourished school children are not authorized to make such collections, it was announced by officials of the school system yesterday. The announcement was made on the receipt of complaints from loop business men that they had been visited by persons who said they represented the "Christian Workers of America." Thomas V. Sullivan, board attorney, said that funds for free lunches are created by appropriation by the school's board with the aid of the governor's commission on unemployment and relief.

NUTRITIVE VALUE OF TOMATO BUT RECENTLY KNOWN

Long Considered Only Good for Flavoring.

BY PAUL POTTER.

There was a time when tomatoes were given credit for little else than the flavor or color they brought to the average family meal. But the day of the tomato in all its nutritive splendor has come, thanks to the dietary specialists, who now tout its vitamin and mineral worthiness to the far corners of the nation.

Not only in back yard gardens but in great fields and under immense glass topped roofs this national appetite has caused striking changes in food production. Tomatoes have suddenly become a treasured item, it seems.

Last year, so the federal department of agriculture tells us, almost a billion pounds of this bush fruit were produced commercially for marketing in fresh form. Another 2,321,000,000 pounds were turned into manufactured form—juice, sauces, catsup, paste, canned tomatoes, and the like.

Value Long Unknown.

"The nutritive value of tomatoes has not always been recognized," according to the bureau of home economics in Washington, in a report on low cost diets released yesterday. "Less than twenty years ago food and dietary specialists spoke of it as being of no value except as it added color and flavor to a meal.

"It is now known as an excellent source of vitamin C, the anti-scorbutic vitamin, and a good source of three others, A, B, and G. This means that tomatoes contain the vitamins which promote normal growth and help to keep the tissues of the eye, ear, nose, and throat resistant to infection; stimulate the appetite; aid in the digestive processes and prevent pellagra."

Investigation has shown that canned tomatoes, if processed by the cold pack method, as are all commercial packs, have essentially the same vitamin C content as field ripened tomatoes, even up until nine months after canning. The same is not true of tomatoes canned in the open kettle, since vitamin C is "unstable during oxidation."

Have Counteracting Benefit.

"In addition to the vitamin content," the home economics bureau reports, "tomatoes develop an alkaline reaction in the body. If eaten in liberal quantities they help to counteract the effects of acid forming foods like meat, cheese, cereals, and eggs."

Miss Charlotte Chatfield, head of the bureau's food composition division, declares that the alkaline effect of acid tasting foods is often puzzling to the layman. The various mineral elements in tomatoes or citrus fruits, especially potassium, are responsible for their alkalinity.

"A simple way to fix this fact in mind," says Miss Chatfield, "might be to remember that acid tasting foods seldom increase the acid reaction of the body fluids, but those that furnish large portions of protein usually do."

Canners Must Label.

Under the Mapes law, passed by the last congress, canners must label canned foods, including tomatoes, to show the standard of the product. The law regulates also the quantities of pulp, juice, and skin in canned tomatoes.

"Tomatoes or oranges are important to normal nutrition in the low cost diet," reports the bureau. In the weekly market orders outlined for individuals of different ages of varying sizes by the bureau in its publication, "The Family's Food at Low Cost," one pound of fresh or canned tomatoes or its equivalent in oranges is allowed for the child 2 years old or less.

Adults must have from one and one-half to two pounds, the government bureau's new food guide points out. Copies of the guide, in pamphlet form, may be obtained from the bureau of home economics, United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C. The bureau is coöperating in the dissemination of this information with the woman's division of the President's emergency committee for employment.

Child Who Dislikes Milk May Drink It with Straw

If a child does not like to drink milk, the novelty of sucking it through straws may help to overcome his prejudice.

CELERY FLAVORS SOUP.

U. S. Family Food Guide Assures Balanced Menus

Care should be used in purchasing not only economical foods in a low cost diet, but a well balanced supply, according to the report issued yesterday by the federal bureau of agricultural economics and the woman's division of the President's Emergency Committee for Employment.

These agencies have collaborated in preparing a family food guide, and in suggesting appetizing menus and dishes for frugal families, to insure this proper balancing in the interest of preserving health in the family when food expenditures are curtailed.

Tells What to Serve.

The report, called "The Market Basket," is headed by a table in which it is emphasized that "milk for children, bread for all," should be provided at every meal. Every day, it says, cereal should be served in porridge or pudding, as well as potatoes, tomatoes, or oranges for children, a green or yellow vegetable, a fruit or additional vegetable, and milk for all.

Two to four times a week the family should be served tomatoes for all, dried beans and peas or peanuts, eggs [especially for children], and lean meat, fish, poultry, or cheese.

A family of ten, including three adults and seven children, should buy this amount each week in the recommended low cost diet:

WEEKLY ORDER, FAMILY 10

Bread	25-35 pounds
Flours	3- 5 pounds
Cereal	10-12 pounds
Whole fresh milk	42-56 quarts
Or
Canned evaporated milk	42-56 tall cans
Potatoes	30-40 pounds
Dried beans, peas, peanut butter	3- 5 pounds
Tomatoes, fresh or canned, or citrus fruits	12 pounds
Other vegetables (including some of green or yellow color) and inexpensive fruits	30-40 pounds
Fats, such as lard, salt pork, bacon, margarin, butter, etc.	6 pounds
Sugar and molasses	7 pounds
Lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs	10-14 pounds

RECIPES FOR ABOVE MENU

BEEF STEW WITH VEGETABLES.

3 pounds beef, rump or round
½ cup flour
4 onions, chopped
2 quarts water
6 cups diced potatoes
4 cups diced carrots
Salt
4 tablespoons chopped parsley

Wipe the meat and cut it in inch cubes. Try out the fat in a skillet and add the meat which has been rolled in the flour. Then transfer the meat and onions to a kettle. Add the water after first pouring it into the skillet so as to get full benefit of the browned meat flavor. Cover and simmer about one hour, add the vegetables and cook until they are tender. Season with salt and sprinkle the top with the parsley after the stew is placed in the serving dish.

BAKED EGGS AND RICE IN TOMATO SAUCE.

1½ cups uncooked rice
3 cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
⅛ chopped onion
6 cloves
3 tablespoons fat
3 tablespoons flour
7 eggs
¼ cup grated cheese
1 cup buttered crumbs

Cook the rice in a large quantity of boiling salted water about 20 minutes. Drain, wash in hot water, and place over steam. Prepare a sauce by cooking the tomatoes and seasoning for 10 minutes, strain, and thicken with the blended fat and flour. Make a layer of rice in a shallow greased baking dish, drop the raw eggs carefully on the rice, pour the hot sauce over the eggs, sprinkle over the top the grated cheese mixed with the bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set. Serve at once.

TOMATO RUFFLE.

1 pound salt pork
2 quarts sliced onions
2 quarts tomatoes
Sugar
Salt
Pepper
4 tablespoons flour
8 tablespoons water

Cook the salt pork until brown and crisp. Add the onions, and when they are brown pour in the tomatoes. Season with sugar, salt, and pepper to taste. Cook about 10 minutes. Mix the flour and water, stir into the vegetable mixture until it thickens, and cook for a few minutes longer. Serve on crisp toast.

TOMATO-ASPIC SALAD.

6 tablespoons gelatin
1 cup cold water
2 quarts canned tomatoes
4 or 6 slices onions
3 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
4 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 cups shredded cabbage

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes. Boil the tomatoes and onion for five minutes, strain through a fine sieve, pour the hot tomato juice over the softened gelatin, and stir until it is dissolved. Add the salt and sugar, and chill. When the gelatin mixture is partly set add the finely chopped vegetables and mix well. Add more salt if needed. If the mixture is not tart enough add a little lemon juice or vinegar. Pour into wet custard cups and place in a cold place until set, turn out on crisp lettuce leaves, and serve with mayonnaise.

"TONIC" OF FRESH VEGETABLES IS BEST IN SPRING

"Since fresh vegetables are growing somewhere in the United States, in large quantities the year around, and are now being shipped by express to Chicago, there is ample reason for we moderns to cast off the old 'spring fever' tonics of grandmother's pot home remedy stocks."

This is the opinion expressed by Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the federal bureau of home economics in Washington, who declares that "fresh vegetables will now do all that the old remedies were supposed to do, and much more."

ART OF MAKING ICE CREAM AT HOME DISCARDED

What's Become of Old Hand Crank?

BY VIRGINIA SCHMITZ.

With ice cream being purveyed from every drug store, restaurant and soft drink parlor, ice cream bars thrust under the smoker's nose when he steps into a cigar store and popping out at the motorist from every turn in the road, the sturdy art of making it at home is swiftly falling into the discard.

We do make a gentle form of ice cream in our refrigerators but the good old hand crank, aided and abetted by chunks of ice and rock salt that will fill every cut even if it doesn't do its other duties, is rusting down in what basements are left and we take up golf in an attempt to see our muscles.

Some statistician with a day off ought to look into what has become of the old gallon freezers in their wooden buckets that made Sundays and the Fourth of July, in the good old summer time at least, something to look forward to.

Ice Cream Keeps Allure.

It isn't that we've lost our taste for ice cream now that it no longer counts as a luxury. Strangely enough it keeps its allure and no contempt is bred by our familiarity with it.

Take the case of the family who decided to cure their children of screaming in starved tones, "Ice cream, daddy, please can I have some ice cream" every time they approached a restaurant. Convicted by the stares and the undertoned remarks of near neighbors of being cruel parents, not to say Simon Legrees, they decided to do something about it.

They bought a large sized freezer and made the kids ice cream every day for a month. At the end of that time a restaurant meal was again attempted.

Easier to Buy It.

"Ice cream," said the youngest, "daddy, please, please, can we have some ice cream." And the rest added their encores.

Well, they threw away their freezer and bought an ice cream factory, and they all lived happily ever after.

Probably the explanation for the home inertia is that ice cream is too well made and too cheaply made for home competition. Certainly if we had to turn a crank for a half an hour every time we wanted to eat it the consumption would fall off.

But once in a while—say as a patriotic duty on the Fourth—a freezer full of home made ice cream, particularly if it was made with fresh, uncooked strawberries or raspberries, would be an interesting experiment.

And we suggest a plain and simple recipe such as was made in the '90s at Kefer's bakery on North avenue. Whole cream—three quarts of it for a gallon freezer, a cup of powdered sugar and a pint of raspberries or strawberries crushed and sweetened. Crank until exhausted and then hand it over to the next in line. Continue until all are exhausted and the cream is finished.

MODERN KITCHEN SAVES LABOR FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Many New Devices Help to Reduce Work.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Hooped skirts are passé, we are all quite willing to admit; so are the electric automobiles that transported us about a decade or so ago. Yet how few housewives consider that their kitchens are little beyond the stage when the kettle vied with the cat in a song of contentment and shiny brass and copper lent color to the kitchen scene.

Equipment that belonged to the early days goes on serving in a kitchen often so poorly arranged that the cook serves many unnecessary steps and wastes much energy in the daily preparation of meals.

More than one housewife often wishes she might press a button and find a luncheon or dinner nicely prepared and served, and just as easily cleared away by the mere snap of a switch. Although such a Utopia in kitchens is still remote, probably, we must recognize the improvements already produced to help make this work-saving automatic.

New Kitchen Equipment.

There is the convenience and effectiveness of the oven kept at just the right heat by the turn of a wheel. Stainless and rustless linings and insulated ovens are also rapidly becoming a part of the modern range. Another significant change in the kitchen is the so called mechanical arm, an electrical beater and mixer. This includes no small device designed for mixing, beating, and whipping, as well as the larger machine for performing such operations as slicing and grinding, or any other processes that might require the use of a strong right arm.

Occupying another important place in the kitchen is the automatic refrigerator. Here the food retains its original freshness and attractiveness. With this refrigerator a salad or dessert is easily frozen without thought or effort on the part of the worker in the kitchen. Even dishwashing has lost its Cinderella aspects with the new machine which may either be a unit in itself or installed as a part of the kitchen sink. This device is responsible for greater orderliness and cleanliness in dish washing as well as for doing away with the tiresome and time consuming process of dish wiping.

Storage Space Essential.

But modern kitchens do not depend entirely on these highly developed mechanical devices. Adequate storage space, together with ample counter space, is one of the first requirements of an up to date kitchen. This suggestion applies to the sink, the range, and the refrigerator as well as the work center. In planning these units, keep in mind the four steps in the preparation of a meal: selection of the food, cooking, serving, and cleaning up. The processes may overlap, but each should be given a space to itself, and the food supplies and utensils should be at or near the working center where they are to be used.

The up to date kitchen is easily cared for with its porcelain, stain resisting, and enamel finishes on table tops and sinks. Then, too, stain resisting metals have come into common use in the kitchen as in the case of the chromium used for plating faucets.

The smaller utensils which modernize a kitchen are available in a variety of wares, including metal, glass, earthenware, stainless steel, and many alloys. There is probably no kitchen in the country that does not now include in its equipment a supply of stainless steel cutlery. In fact, the introduction of stainless steel for this purpose is responsible in large part for its prevalent use today for work surfaces, cooking utensils, and drainboards.

Various articles that might be included in a list of modern kitchen equipment are the ventilating fan designed to fit into the window and bring fresh air in and take bad air out; saucepans with tight fitting covers for "waterless" cooking; casseroles of heat proof glass and earthenware, and enamel, aluminum, or glass baking and roasting pans.

The usefulness of the thermometer, a wire rack for the sink and range, a comfortable chair or stool of suitable height, measuring cups, spoons, a good knife sharpener, and a can opener cannot be overestimated. Also in this class should be mentioned a pair of scissors, a waste basket, a garbage can, a vegetable brush and a household scale.

Among Inexpensive Devices.

In expensive innovations I have noted recently in stores handling housewares include the collapsible wire egg holder and the egg separator, the flour sifter with a double screen held and operated by pulling the handle; a gyrating vegetable peeler that does its work speedily and economically, and a bread slicer that guides the knife and cuts even slices.

Among the more recent electrical inventions are the juice extractor for oranges, lemons, or limes; an egg cooker that comes in many colors; a double action coffee and water urn with the percolated coffee from one spigot and the water from another, and an electric teapot with the ball fastened inside.

Cook Greens in an Open Kettle for Tender Firmness

The proper cooking of greens, so delightful to add to the springtime menus, is said to be more simple a task than most housewives make of it. Appetizing colors and tender firmness are best gained from rapid cooking in open kettles.

"Beet tops, chard, spinach, dandelion greens, leek, and many other tasty greens so plentiful at this time of year may be prepared in a variety of ways," declare home economists of Cornell university. "They may be cooked quickly in a large amount of water, or for a slightly longer time in a small amount of water."

The length of time of cooking varies with the vegetable, but a general rule accepted by those who have experimented with these foods is: Cook until tender and no longer. Many greens require only a few minutes' cooking.

Here are some further suggestions for adding to the tastiness and for retaining the utmost in food value of greens that the Cornell housekeepers have found successful:

This makes an attractive and highly nutritious dish. Cook the greens, chop and season them to taste with salt, pepper, and butter. Fill greased ramekins or individual baking dishes two-thirds full with the cooked greens. On top of each drop a freshly broken egg, sprinkle with salt, paprika, and grated cheese. Set the ramekins in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until the egg has set and the cheese melted.

This is a tasty luncheon dish, made by chopping a pint of cooked greens. Heat and add to them one tablespoon of onion juice, two tablespoons of horseradish, and one-fourth cup of sour cream. Season with salt and pepper. Place three or four slices of crisp bacon and one tablespoon of minced pickle on top, and spread the mixture evenly over slices of hot toast.

U. S. INSPECTORS FIND TEA UP TO HIGH STANDARDS

Ceylon Leads Others in March Importations.

Federal inspector in the month of March examined enough imported tea to make a cup every other day during that month for every man, woman and child in the United States, and rejected only 1,217 pounds because of failure to meet the standards for purity and quality set by the federal tea act, according to C. F. Hutchinson, chief tea examiner of the food and drug administration, United States department of agriculture.

Total imports for that month amounted to more than 7,000,000 pounds. Federal officials rejected no tea whatever for impurities, and the 1,217 pounds were rejected because of low quality. Ceylon tea held first honors in poundage of importation, but was closely followed by India tea. More than 2,000,000 pounds of each were imported.

"The extremely small quantity of tea rejected in March," said Mr. Hutchinson, "reflects the wholehearted coöperation with the government on the part of foreign exporters and domestic importers. When the original federal tea act was passed in 1883, the United States was rapidly becoming the dumping ground for the world's worst tea, but the enforcement of that act and its successor, the present statute, enacted in 1897, has changed all that, and exporters who are familiar with the requirements of the United States take care to send over only teas that meet the government's rigid requirements for purity and quality.

"We are obliged to reject only small quantities of tea these days. The government examined more than 84,000,000 pounds in the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1930. Only about 207,000 pounds of tea were rejected because of inferior quality and only 360 pounds because the tea failed to meet the standards for purity."

Fresh Pineapple Refuses to Let the Gelatin Jell

Raw, fresh pineapple contains a substance which prevents gelatin from setting; so it is best to use cooked or canned pineapple in gelatin desserts and salads.

Follow These Simple Rules:

1. Each evening for 42 consecutive evenings (not including Saturdays) W-G-N will broadcast 3 songs of yesterday—"Tune Tangles." On each day following the broadcast the Chicago Tribune will print a "Tune Tangle" Crossword Puzzle. Each puzzle will contain the title of one of the songs broadcast the preceding evening. You are invited to listen to the broadcast, solve the Tune Tangle Crossword in the next day's Tribune and name the song.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules. NOTE: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 42 Tune Tangles completely to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. The prizes are as follows:

1st Prize		$1,000.00
2nd Prize		500.00
3rd Prize		250.00
Next 2 Prizes,	$100.00 each	200.00

Next 10 Prizes,	25.00 each	250.00
Next 100 Prizes,	10.00 each	1,000.00
Next 310 Prizes,	5.00 each	1,550.00
430 Prizes, Totaling		$5,000.00

4. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employees of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

5. Tune Tangle Crosswords are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Tune Tangles," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight, 15 days after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed.

6. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Contestants may submit as many sets of puzzles as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

7. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be consulted at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

8. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, each duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously from her home in a remote section of Paris. Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel, a man of great charm but no moral sense. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their tyrannical Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou.

Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood, about to depart for Africa, has postponed his trip to search for Clare, assisted by Tommy Rostetter, a journalist.

Iris moves to her aunt's home and learns that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have changed in character, and has taken charge of the search for Clare. Iris and Alan plan to meet at Helen Roderick's, the American woman for whom Iris has been working. Alan meets Marcel at Helen's and learns that they are friends, unknown to Iris. He recalls having seen Marcel at Le Touquet, gambling heavily and hobnobbing with a coarse looking couple. That night Alan sees Marcel entering the home of Suzanne Marly, an actress. Alan receives a wire giving him an extra fortnight's leave in Paris.

A letter is sent to Iris, stating that Clare is being held for ransom. Her aunt offers to pay the sum asked if Marcel and Iris promise to become reconciled. Marcel meets Iris and Alan at Helen's and drives them home. He accompanies Alan to his hotel room. Alan receives a faked message recalling him immediately to Africa. That night an attempt is made to asphyxiate him. He moves to Tommy's apartment. Next morning Alan sets out to trace flowers sent to Iris from Marcel the night Clare disappeared and learns Marcel carried them away himself from the shop.

INSTALLMENT XLI.

THE ATTEMPTED MURDER SUSPECT.

Charnwood sat motionless, cigaret suspended. Tommy went on relentlessly.

"You believe it was coincidence his choosing that particular moment to interrupt. Was it also pure chance that he separated you at once from his wife and stuck to you like a leech up to the hour when the shop would be closed? The bogus telegram arrived while you were absent from the hotel. Why? Because, if you had received it in person you would probably have recognized the speaker's voice. Again, De Bertincourt rang up immediately after your return last night, thus ascertaining the fact that you had no intention of catching the Marseilles train, and a couple of hours later some one acquainted with the arrangements of your room slipped in and loosed the lethal vapor. Is all this suggestive? I ask for information."

Charnwood grew suddenly cold. In his mind's eye he saw De Bertincourt staring this way and that round the bedroom, apparently distrait, but perhaps—who could say—taking in every detail? He saw the careless movement towards the wrong door, heard himself explaining that the latter led to a bath . . .

Horrible! Impossible! The smoky room became unbearably close. He crossed to the casement and threw it wide, then spoke over his shoulder.

"But why? In heaven's name, why should he do it?'

"Murder you, you mean? Not for sport, certainly. A man in his position would be driven to extremes only by abject fear of exposure. I take it you had to be suppressed before you could follow up the clue you'd just obtained connected with those flowers."

"So you believe the comtesse and he are in league together?"

"I haven't got that far. I'm sure of nothing except that it was De Bertincourt who tried to kill you. No, I don't expect you to subscribe to my opinion without incontrovertible proof. However, as you'd better cut along to your appointment with Mme. de Bertincourt, don't forget to get hold of the important document if you can, and bring it to the Deux Magots. I'll wait for you there. And another thing—what is her address in the Passage de l'Oratoire?"

"There's one other thing," she went on; "he smelled strongly of drink."

"Number eleven."

"Right. Don't tell her what happened last night and caution her to pretend you've left town, otherwise a brick may fall on your head, or your next meal may have a dose of weed killer in it."

Charnwood swallowed the warning with a grimace. Although he knew there was some truth in what Tommy said, he could not yet accept the idea that it was De Bertincourt who wished him harm. It was not in his nature to condemn any one, least of all a potential rival, without strong reason.

Quitting his taxi at the Ile St. Louis, he crossed the bridge to the left bank and poked about among the dirty, narrow streets till he found the ancient church of St. Julien-le-Pauvre.

Several clocks struck eleven as he pushed open the heavy doors on an interior so dark that he had only a dim vision of huge cylindrical shapes like a forest of truncated oaks.

The place was empty. He roamed about, dropped a couple of francs in the poor box, looked frequently at his watch, and wondered if Iris would come. He wanted badly to question her on the subject of the man who delivered the roses, and if she were not able to keep her appointment the opportunity might vanish.

The half hour sounded. Had Iris been prevented from coming? If so, his one frail hope suffered annihilation. As the minutes passed he cast about desperately for some means of reaching her, finding none. The butler at the Rue de Babylon would most certainly turn him away.

The black doors swung silently inward. His heart gave a bound. Here she was at last, slipping towards him with an eager, surreptitious movement, gloved hands extended. As his eyes devoured her he noticed that since yesterday she had changed. Her dull hopelessness was gone, and while she was still on an acute tension she seemed revitalized, younger than he had ever known her. Her eyes shone, her cheeks were tinged with shell pink, and she had abandoned her usual black for a trim gray coat and skirt worn with a soft pink satin blouse, a costume emblematic of her altered outlook. So this was what even a breath of happiness could do for her! Charnwood prayed with all his soul she might not be misled and suffer a cruel disappointment.

"My dear! I'd given you up. What made you so late?"

"S'sh! Can any one hear us? I had to make a bolt for it, down the servants' stairs or Marcel would have tried to stop me. He talked and talked the whole morning. I couldn't shake him off."

"Not your aunt, then, this time?" he said, studying her face.

"No, she's at church, having a mass said for Clare's safe return. She hardly watches me at all now, but Marcel is worse than ever, clings on to me like a frightened child. He's strung up with nerves over what he has to do tomorrow night, terrified of making some mistake. One can't help feeling sorry for him."

Charnwood understood better than she knew, wondering uncomfortably how far this new sympathy of hers would lead her. They sat down in one of the moldy pews near the front and, without preliminaries, took up the conversation where they had left off the previous afternoon.

"Quick, now, let's get all this straight, for we may not have another chance to meet before Saturday, and if anything is to come of the matter we were discussing, I must know certain details." He paused, then decided not to mention the information obtained through Leclerc. "What I want to know is, what was he like, that man who delivered the flowers?"

"I don't see how anything can possibly come of it," she answered, shaking her head. "But I've been thinking it over, for, of course, there is just a bare chance. As I remember it, he was about forty, or a little more, tall, thin, and walked with a sort of shambling gait. Clean shaven—yes, I noticed that—because his mouth had that stiff, swollen look that comes from having shaved off a moustache."

"Wait—I'll write this down." He produced his fountain pen and an envelope. "What were his features like?"

She thought hard. "He had dark, glistening eyes, set close together; thick, red lips, and a lot of big teeth which he showed in a constant smile. If I wanted to do a caricature of him I should draw it like this": She took the pen and rapidly outlined a long face with twin dots at the top and a bar of teeth below, the result suggesting the world famous grin of Theodore Roosevelt. "There, that may give you some idea."

As he examined the drawing it seemed to him that the crudely sketched face was somehow familiar. Where and when had he recently seen a man with eyes and teeth like these? Or was it purely imagination?

"And his clothes? Not in uniform, you said?"

"No, he wore ordinary things, rather shabby, but semi-artistic, if you know what I mean. A loose, spotted tie, and one of those wide, flat hats one sees about the Quarter. If he'd had a beard he'd have looked like hundreds of the down-at-heel painters who wander up and down the Boul Mich."

If he'd had a beard . . .

"There was one other thing," she went on, "he smelled strongly of drink. His breath, his garments seemed absolutely soaked with spirits, so that the reek of them hit me in the face as I opened the door." She watched him as he wrote this down. "But you can't seriously suppose he was concerned with the kidnaping, can you? It was stupid of men not to have told the police about him, I know, but all the same——"

"I don't suppose anything yet. He's simply the one item that hasn't been investigated, that's all." He went on to ask for the letter to show to Tommy, and obtained a hesitating consent. "You shall have it back in half an hour. Let's see—isn't the Cluny Musée just opposite the Deux Magots? Why not wait there till we're finished with it?

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for Clothing.

"I am an elderly man, out of work, almost too old to get anything, although I am experienced in many lines. My wife and I lost all our money during this depression, and we are dependent upon friends for our living now. I need a pair of shoes, size 9, and my wife needs dresses, a coat, and underwear, size 38. It would be such a help if you could get these for us. V. T."

This elderly couple are most deserving and are eager to obtain any kind of work that will eke out a meager living for them. Their failure has been discouraging. Can you help a bit by giving the wearing apparel which is needed?

Slenderized Figure Is Sweeter than Gold to Miss Average Gal

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Anne Nichols, the playwright, whose "Abie's Irish Rose" made theatrical history, is reported to have reduced from 205 to 135 pounds. Presenting a check the other day at the hotel where she was a resident guest in her plump days, she was, in a manner of speaking, looked upon as a suspicious character. Anyway, the clerk refused to cash her check.

He admitted the woman before him had features like Anne Nichols, but Anne was twice her size. Was the lady insulted? Not any more than you or I would be. The famous playwright said she never felt so complimented in her life.

There's always a big kick left in life for a girl who can withdraw for a spell and reappear a slim version of her former self, isn't it true? Last year a friend returned from Europe 18 pounds lighter. Some one asked her why she had not smuggled in a waist tier of those small bottles that have been known to get into the country in such manner duty free. "Not with my new waist line, dearie," she responded. "There's more kick to be had out of it than in all the liquor on a rum runner."

The wonder is that women who have once tasted a new waist freedom ever let themselves fall into flesh again. But with some of us it is just off and on agin, off an on agin. The habit of resistance is harder to hold than to establish for a short run.

There is a system of beating that wobbly backbone. It is via the bathroom scale. I know a woman who hasn't varied three pounds in two years now, although a couple of years ago she was always ten, twelve, or fifteen pounds overweight. But if you've something to check up on daily you can remind yourself at table better that one slice of buttered bread is better than two.

I have to laugh at expressions I see registered on faces where women use a spare minute to hop on the subway scales. Jubilant, sometimes. More often disconsolate, and whether I imagine it or not a grim set to the lips, as if to dare the scales to try that story on its patron just once again. She's going to fool it—next time. But—does she?

BEAUTY ANSWERS

I. D.: THE COMMONEST ERROR in applying lip rouge is that of letting a break in color be seen when the mouth is open. In applying color to the lips remember that the natural line should be followed as closely as possible.

M. R.: UNDERNOURISHED PERSONS should take milk at the end of the meal, so that other needed foods will not be neglected. If you find milk difficult to digest, add a few drops of lemon or orange juice to it.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Two Hours Late.

My sister and I had invited guests to a 1 o'clock dinner on the first Sunday of daylight saving time. Before retiring on Saturday night we changed our time but moved the hand back one hour instead of forward, making it two hours behind time.

The next morning at 11 we had just put our roast into the oven when the ball rang and in walked our 1 o'clock dinner guests. We were so shocked, then realized our mistake and were we embarrassed! O, boy.

New Cotton Mesh Frocks for Sports

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The tidal wave of visibility that has swept the coast of Paris fashions recently has reached the daytime summer mode, if we are to judge by some of the sports frocks seen at Biarritz and on well known style luminaries, too!

At first, transparent skirts were sponsored only in the boudoir. Then they became bolder and showed themselves at studio dinners. Madeleine Vionnet caused Paris to catch her breath when she showed a highly transparent, formal evening frock over a bathing suit maillot in her fall midseason collection; but by spring, bridge frocks and evening gowns that left no doubt that ladies now have legs appeared here and there and everywhere.

And now girls are wearing mesh frocks over bathing suits right out in the sun!

You can see the effect in the Renée Goetz sports frock of yellow cotton mesh, sketched today. The dress is in one piece, buttoned down the front with yellow bone buttons. It has a roll collar that turns into an incrusted, double pointed yoke in back. The skirt is flared by four irregular topped godet panels set into it so as to give the effect of a tiny hip yoke. The belt is yellow suede bound with brown leather.

FARM AND GARDEN

SECRETS IN LAMB PROFITS.

An Illinois farmer in Edwards county is being given credit for a record in growing spring lambs to a profitable weight in three months and less. F. T. Robbins, livestock extension specialist of the college of agriculture, the University of Illinois, praises the lamb rasing ability of Harold Shepard.

When farmers in the county made up a shipment of graded lambs recently for the Chicago market, Shepard brought in four lambs ranging in age from 85 to 90 days and having a total weight of 350 pounds. One animal but 85 days old weighed 95 pounds.

The extension specialist reports that lambs weighing a pound for each day of age are the result of breeding the best of animals and of feeding skillfully.

Another unusual feature about the lambs was that their quality was so high that all four of them graded prime. Ordinarily, about one lamb out fifty which farmers bring in grades as good as that, Robbins said.

These lambs were produced by blocky, easy keeping, grade ewes and were sired by a thick, short legged, black faced ram. The ewes had run on rye pasture and were fed oats and corn together with some soybean hay. The lambs had eaten very little grain, but evidently had an abundance of milk from the thrifty, well fed ewes.

Confederate Vets to Meet in "Old Capital" Next Year

Montgomery, Ala., June 4.—(AP)—The United Confederate Veterans today selected Richmond, Va., for their 1932 reunion. The vote was by acclamation, the entire assembly of veterans standing to indicate their preference for the city that was once the capital of the confederacy.

How to SUNBATHE HEALTHFULLY AND avoid SUNBURN

1 In the beginning, expose yourself to direct sun-rays for a short time—until your skin has become accustomed to the sun. In small doses the sun refreshes and benefits. In large doses it burns.

2 To have a safe, comfortable sunbath never expose your skin to the sun while it is wet.

3 While nothing in the world will positively prevent a burn if you expose yourself carelessly, you can avoid an ordinary burn and lessen a bad burn by sunbathing with the skin dried off and protected with an application of Nivea Creme before and during exposure. This precaution will assure you a fresh, healthy and invigorated skin.

4 When you have not taken these precautions and a sunburn or skin dryness develops after exposure, apply Nivea Creme—it will quickly soothe and cool your skin.

5 Druggists, department stores and chain stores will supply you with Nivea Creme.

Time to Discipline a Child Is Daytime; Never in the Evening

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There are things mothers are confronted with that never get into books on child psychology. There are situations that arise in a home which child research centers, invaluable as their studies are, cannot duplicate. It is problems such as these, intimately tied up with home life, that this department likes, as often as possible, to touch upon. Some of the suggestions of this sort are the fruit of successful experience and some are, we must confess, the result of mistakes—recognized as such afterwards.

One of these suggestions as to management is this: Don't argue with, scold, punish, discipline, reproach, or have disturbing discussions about serious personal matters with a tired little child at night—or with a tired older son or daughter. Dont' allow things to reach a crisis—don't make an issue of things at bedtime. Don't handle any behavior problems at bedtime so that it will work on a child's emotions.

Also—and this is almost as important a point—you yourself are apt to be tired by the time the children's bed hour comes and that is apt to mean that your nerves are not as calm, nor your sense of values as good as they would be earlier in the day.

A good way to do is to make a mental note of the incident or the culmination of a series of difficulties at the time and make up your mind to talk it over quietly with your son or daughter, little or big, the following day, at an auspicious moment.

This works out well as far as bedtime blues are concerned. Suppose your child whines, rebels, fusses and tries to postpone getting started for bed and doing necessary washing, etc. Thrash it all out in the daytime in a friendly but firm way—and by the time night comes the way is paved, their minds prepared, often a promise has been given and it is kept when night time arrives.

The Chicago Tribune Will Pay

$1,000.00 a week in cash prizes

For the Best Original

"Good Time Charliegrams"

Here Are Some Samples:
Can You Make Up Better Ones?

A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice:
"Every time you buy something you help bring back prosperity."
"The time to stock up is when prices are low."
"Large savings can be made on nearly everything bought today."
Do you think you can make up a better Good Time Charliegram than any of these?—using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune? Try your hand at it! Read the simple rules and start now!

WHAT sentence of exactly ten words can you make up, using only the words which appear in the advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune?

Last week we made up the Good Time Charliegrams and invited you to hunt for them. This week we are going to let you have all the fun. This week you are invited to make up your own Good Time Charliegrams.

There are no daggers to hunt for—no stars to look for—no particular words to find. This week we've thrown the treasure hunt wide open. Just pick out any words in today's ads that you think make up a timely message of good cheer or sound advice.

Try it. You'll have loads of fun. To make it even more interesting, there's $1,000.00 a week in cash prizes for successful contestants. Read the simple rules now and start the exciting hunt through the advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune.

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. The Chicago Tribune will pay $1,000.00 a week in cash prizes to the persons who send in the best and neatest complete sets of seven (7) original Good Time Charliegrams in accordance with these rules.

2. A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice. The sentence must be made up of words taken from advertisements, EXCEPT Classified or Want Ads, published in a single day's issue of the Chicago Tribune. To indicate where you get each word, simply write down the name of the advertiser following the word. Words are NOT to be taken from the Want Ads.

3. Not more than one word shall be taken from the advertising of any one store, company, or individual. If an advertiser has more than one advertisement in the same issue of the Tribune, only one word from such advertisements may be used in the same Good Time Charliegram. The same word may be used more than once, provided that it is taken from a different advertiser every time it is used.

4. The prizes for each week are as follows:

1st Prize		$250.00
2nd Prize		100.00
Next 2 Prizes	$50.00 each	100.00
Next 4 Prizes	$25.00 each	100.00
Next 25 Prizes	$10.00 each	250.00
Next 40 Prizes	$ 5.00 each	200.00
73 weekly prizes totaling		$1,000.00

5. This offer is open to every one—men and women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

6. Good Time Charliegrams are to be submitted in complete sets only. Do NOT send in each day's entry separately. Hold all Good Time Charliegrams until you have the complete set of seven (7). Then send them to "GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS," the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. All entries in the Second Series must be received in the Tribune office before 5 P. M. on Wednesday, June 10, 1931.

7. Contestants may submit as many sets of Good Time Charliegrams as they wish, but no contestant will be awarded to more than one prize.

8. You need NOT buy the Chicago Tribune. You may use the Tribune supplied each day in the Tribune offices or may submit your entry on a plain sheet of paper. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.

9. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be made to each tying contestant.

Ten Books Are Offered Today by Publishers

Six New Novels Presented to Readers.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THIS is one of those generous Fridays when the publishers give us many books to barricade us against boredom. Friday seems to be pay-gold day for readers—so far as the number that are published is concerned.

FRANCES HART.

Today we are offered six novels, one travel book, one biography and two books of non-fiction. Many of them you'll meet later in greater detail in this column. Here they are in outline.

"Father Malachy's Miracle," by Bruce Marshall [Doubleday Doran], you will find reviewed on tomorrow's book page. It is an ironic tale of a real miracle performed in Edinburgh by a truly devout priest and the serio comic consequences. Mr. Marshall is a new writer who immediately upon the publication of "Father Malachy's Miracle" in England was hailed as Scotia's pride and hope.

"Saturday Night at the Greyhound," by John Hampson (Knopf) is another first novel which has drawn the most excited adjectives from the pens of the English critics. The action in it takes place during a single night at a country pub. The book has real quality and the author genuine talent.

"Simpson, a Life," by Edward Sackville-West (Knopf) is a touching, moving story of a children's nurse who must have children to look after, but never wants any of her own. It is written with rare distinction and beauty. It, too, has ravaged the supply of adjectives among critics. "One is dazzled, bewildered and enthralled," said one when it appeared in England. "Acutely interested in the development of contemporary fiction can afford to miss this example," said another. "I would place it in the first fifty novels England has produced in this century," said a third. We look forward to reading it with keen zest.

"Cockeyed Love," by Nancy Hoyt [Doubleday Doran] is a gay, amusing story of young marrieds in New York and what happens when an English beauty invades our metropolis. Unless there is armed intervention it will be reviewed at length here next Tuesday.

"This Man's Art," by Walton Hall Smith (Doubleday Doran) is about an "unvarnished male," Byron Hill, "who thought like a man, felt like a woman, acted like a child," an artist with his hands—"very direct and very simple" his method of sculpture—"a piece of stone and some tools." But he wasn't such an artist about happiness.

"Goldy Gets Along" by Hawthorne Hurst [King] is the hilarious saga of a gal named Goldy, who is either incurably dumb or incorrigibly clever and who certainly gets along, although she doesn't always get to the place she starts out for. Once her goal looks as if it were going to be the penitentiary, after the part she takes in a fancy rackst as a beauty queen. But she gets along away from there, too.

"Pig in Clover" by Frances Noyes Hart [Doubleday Doran] is the kind of book that sends travelers packing. Mrs. Hart, who is the author of "The Bellamy Trail," one of the best mysteries of its generation, started out with her husband and a car, landing at Havre, and for four weeks tasted every bit of the clover that wandering joyously over the face of France offers. They motored in a circle around France, leisurely, enjoying what and how they would, shunning touristy places or being as touristy as anybody, just as the whim seized them. They knew wines and food and scenery and happiness and her record of the jaunt has the most alluring charm imaginable.

"Ford Men and Methods," by Edwin P. Norwood [Doubleday Doran], is the story not of Henry Ford the man, but of the gigantic River Rouge Ford plant and its laboratories, of Ford's organization and his handling not of machines, but of the men and the methods through which they function. It is the human story behind the story of the machine. Georges Duhamel says in "America the Menace" that somewhere behind every machine there is eventually man, so that mechanized as life may presumably become in the future, it would quite as presumably go to pieces without man's guidance. The story that Mr. Norwood tells is of the men who give guidance and direction to the machines which are so powerful a factor in our civilization.

"Letters of Warwick Greene, 1915-'23," edited by Richard W. Hale [Houghton Mifflin], were written to intimate friends, but they reflect some of the most crucial and sensational episodes of the war and the peace. Warwick Greene had a front row aisle seat at that drama. He became in 1915 director of the war relief commission of the Rockefeller foundation. He served with the American Red Cross in France and Belgium, in the signal corps, aviation section, with the American peace commission, and as chief of the commission to the Baltic provinces. He was brought into association with Woodrow Wilson, Lansing, House, Gen. Bliss, Herbert Hoover, Lenin, and many other famous men of affairs. His observations about them and about current events were always keen.

"Essays in Colonial History," by students of Charles McLean Andrews [Yale University], are all based on original sources and are a valuable contribution to colonial history.

"The Caliph of Bagdad," by Robert H. Davis and Arthur B. Maurice [Appleton], is a biography of O. Henry with much new and intimate material. It will be reviewed in this column on Monday.

BUT IF IT WAS SOMETHING HE IS KEEPING MUM ABOUT I SHOULD BE THE FIRST ONE TO TELL HER.
PHYLLIS, THERE AREN'T ANY RELATIONS OR IN-LAWS OF YOURS IN TOWN ARE THERE?
NO HAZEL, NOT THAT I KNOW OF. WHY?
OH NOTHING. I JUST THOUGHT I'D ASK.

NEWSPAPER REVEALS PAINTINGS BY KANE AS COLORED PHOTOS

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 4.—(AP)—The Sun-Telegraph says it has been revealed that some of the paintings placed in exhibit by John Kane, house painter, who has had works accepted in the Carnegie International exhibition, were colored photographs. Kane said today that all his paintings in the internationals have been free hand work on canvas, but that about four of five paintings in the Junior league exhibit here are over photographs.

Kane, untutored and living in poverty, has had exhibits in every international since 1927.

BY MAE TINEE.

Good morning!

This is just an old-fashioned heart-breaker, brimful of tried and true sob stuff. Without little Jackie Cooper it would fall pretty flat. The small star of "Skippy" gives a beautiful and touching performance.

The film is an adaptation of Rex Beach's novel, "Big Brother." It sings of the redemption of a hard boiled gang leader who finds himself with a child to raise. The action takes place in the "back when" days of—1916, I believe, and the characters are as familiar to you as the figures on your wall paper.

There's Donovan, tough guy with a heart of gold; there's the adoring small boy slated to lead him back to the paths of right; there's the parish priest who fights as well as he prays and there's the maiden with the soulful eyes, sweet smile and helpful suggestions to revive the hero's faith in women. There's the pal who dies exacting a promise, boon companions and tight lipped, narrow-chested child welfare workers. There's a church, a jail, a hospital. Do you have an idea now as to what the picture's like?

Richard Dix tries hard to make Donovan seem real, and at times succeeds in doing so. Frank Sheridan portrays the priest likably and with virility. Marion Shilling's work is amateurish and unpromising. Supporting players do all that could be expected of them.

"Donovan's Kid" would have been better had it been accorded more imaginative direction. It would have been a heap worse without "Skippy."

Richard T. Crane Jr. Will Receive Honorary Degree

Richard T. Crane Jr., 1550 Lake Shore drive, has been elected to the honorary degree of doctor of laws by the faculty and trustees of Hobart college, a historic Episcopal institution at Geneva, N. Y. The degree will be conferred on Monday. This was announced in a letter received yesterday from the Rev. Dr. Norman Hutton of Wellesley, Mass., former rector of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, and a trustee of Hobart college. The citation which will accompany the degree points to Mr. Crane's efforts as "director of one of America's great industries to safeguard the rights of workmen and to guarantee a fair division of profits. He has contributed in a marked degree to the solution of cordial relationship between capital and labor and built up a noted industry on honor products from which both labor and the public have profited."

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 4.—[Special.]—Although still under treatment prescribed by doctors at Glendale sanitarium, Clara Bow left Hollywood today for the Nevada ranch of her fiancé, Rex Bell. She had been a patient at the hospital for two months.

On leaving, Bell said, "I love Miss Bow and wish to marry her." Clara said: "I have had so much sadness and sorrow lately that I am not in the mood to announce my engagement." She is part owner of the Bell ranch near Las Vegas.

Miss Bow's first appearance after her long hospital tenure surprised friends because she appeared in a new yellow blond hair affay, the first time in Clara's long career of red headed exploits and brunette screen appearances that she has chosen to play a goldilocks.

Today the actress issued a statement confirming the announcement of Ben Schulberg, Paramount executive, that she has asked her release at that studio, but denying that she is going to retire permanently from films.

As soon as Gary Cooper sailed from New York for the Mediterranean, yesterday, his studio found it wanted Gary back at the earliest moment, and when he returns in July Gary will go at once in "Farewell to Arms," with Eleanor Boardman opposite him. Richard Wallace will direct.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cawthorne sat down to a quiet family dinner which was intended to celebrate their thirty-first wedding anniversary, but so many friends dropped in, called up to express congratulations, sent around anniversary gifts and best wishes that the veteran actor and his wife ordered a buffet table spread, and before the night was over a party of fifty had gathered.

Among the impromptu guests who came were Mrs. Leslie Carter; her husband, Lewis Payne; her daughter, Mary Payne; Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Moreno, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. Hale Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Garner [Louise Dresser], Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Errol, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Meighan, Mrs. Robert Edeson, Mrs. Tobin, Genevieve's mother; Mrs. Mary Forbes, Mrs. Taylor Holmes and her actor son, Philip S. Holmes.

Jackie Cooper, Junior Durkin, Mitzi Green and Jackie Searl are playing the same parts in Paramount's "Huckleberry Finn" that they played in "Tom Sawyer." Frank McGlynn and Aileen Manning are signed for the school teacher rôles. Norman Taurog directs. It is interesting that Jackie Cooper, the current child sensation, first got before the camera because Taurog is his uncle. The Cooper boy, although he looks 10 or 11, is only 8 years old.

Air Commerce Group Offers Training to Selected Boy Scouts

A luncheon honoring leaders of the Boy Scout movement in Chicago was given by the Air Commerce reserve yesterday at the Hamilton club in commemoration of the 21st anniversary of the founding of the movement here. Announcement was made of the Air Commerce reserve's program for a free educational course to Scout leaders and selected scouts in aviation. Business, military and scout leaders were present.

The annual first aid contests of the Boy Scouts, sponsored by the American Red Cross, were held last night before 500 spectators in Bartlett gymnasium, University of Chicago. Troop 447, South Central, Chicago council, won first grand prize. The prize is a plaque given by Mrs. James A. Patten, of Evanston, which has been in competition since 1912. Gold medals were awarded by the same donor to the members of the team. They are John Mathey, Wilbur Cluver, Russell Johnson, Robert Johnson, Jesse Nelson, and Paul Pritzke. Second and third grand prize winners were the Oak Park troop, and Troop 161, Chicago council.

Best of H. S. Players Score as Orchestra

All-Chicago Unit Gives Excellent Concert.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

High school orchestral music reached the peak of its history in Chicago last night. The All-Chicago High School orchestra gave a full length program, and there was never greater reason to feel cheerful over what had been accomplished or encouraged over the future. Here was something definite and good.

As the title would indicate, the orchestra, some 200 strong, had been put together out of the best players of the orchestras of different high schools. Representing the most advanced of what Chicago schools have been able to produce, it justified itself completely. It played with spirit and discipline, it showed quite a bit of insight into the varying styles of different schools of composition. And though this should perhaps be considered a primary requirement, all the instruments were tuned well into the same pitch. It one feels like making a special point of this, it is because it has not always been the case in the past.

Oscar W. Anderson was the conductor, Dr. J. Lewis Browne appearing as guest conductor in the second part to direct two of his own compositions. Mr. Anderson led the organization in Saint-Saens "French Military March" out of the "Algerian" Suite, and Mozart's Symphony in G minor. Then Bessie Singer, also a high school pupil, appeared as piano soloist in the first movement of Rubinstein's Concerto in D minor, playing it with firm solidity, brilliant technic, and growing out of these qualities, an exhilarating spirit.

This was something of a test for the young orchestra, which it met with great success. There was the rhythm and color of the march, the exact attack and intonation of the symphony, and, more difficult than either, the accompaniment of the concerto, which supported without overwhelming the soloist. Incidentally, at the expressed invitation of the audience she returned for an encore, the Chopin Etude in C minor, sometimes called the "Revolutionary."

Then came Dr. Browne with his "Contrasts" and the intermezzo from his opera, "La Corsicana," graceful, melodious, colorful music meant to please the ear and succeeding in the intention. At the end Mr. Anderson took the orchestra through Ferdie Grofé's "Mississippi" Suite, first written for Paul Whiteman's orchestra and now rewritten into the more conventional symphonic instrumentation. It, too, made a notable hit.

THE STAGE

THE Players club of New York, founded by Edwin Booth and a bulwark of the best traditions of the theater, is indulging in its annual "classic revival" this week. William Congreve's comedy, "The Way of the World," is being offered as an object lesson to modern playwrights, with Walter Hampden, Fay Bainter, Moffat Johnston, Alice Fischer, and other accomplished players in the cast.

After praising the performance, Percy Hammond of the New York Herald Tribune seeks to deprive Congreve of his reputation for immorality, as follows:

"This comedy was, when Jeremy Collier inveighed against its kind, a medley of elegance and corruption, pleasing only those whose evil theater inclinations, pent up by the restrictions of the Puritans, had been freed by the return of a loose and immoral king. But at the Guild theater it seems as pious as a poem by Edgar Guest and as chaste as a melody of Mother Goose. A few bad words occur in its conversation, and its characters are of a type displeasing to the virtuous. However, I can assure you that there isn't a blush in a week of it."

Glenda Farrell, who recently acted here in "On The Spot," has been assigned to the leading rôle in a new play by Elmer Harris, author of "Young Sinners" and "A Modern Virgin." It bears the title of "Poor Men's Daughters," and is on the fall production schedule of the Shuberts.

It seems that some of the New York theatrical managers are getting sick of their New Yorkishness. Arthur Hopkins told the members of the Art Alliance of Philadelphia a few days ago:

"There will be no typical American theater until the entire repertory of plays can be given independent of the taste of New York audiences. The time will come when a play will be given twenty or thirty weeks in other cities before it reaches New York."

Lawrence Langner, a governor of the Theater Guild, in addressing the same audience, decried the "sophistication" of playgoers in Manhattan. "Many good plays," he said, "do not have a chance because of this smart aleck attitude." He mentioned "Green Grow the Lilacs" as an illustration of his point.

Morris Green, one of the producers of "Fine and Dandy," will come to Chicago tomorrow to confer with Joe Cook, star of that musical comedy, about a show which is being written for his use. Mr. Green intends to keep "Fine and Dandy" at the Erlanger theater through the month of July, and then move it to Philadelphia. The new show for Joe Cook is tentatively scheduled for a Broadway opening late in November.

"Three Little Girls" is being given at St. Louis this week as the first attraction of a twelve weeks' season of operetta under municipal auspices. Gladys Baxter has the rôle originated by Natalie Hall, and among the other principals are Nancy McCord, Evangeline Raleigh, Clifford Newdahl, Hal Ford, and Harry Puck.

The next bill will be "The Street Singer," with Queenie Smith as star. After it will come "Music in May," "Nina Rosa," "Rose Marie," "Countess Maritza," "A Wonderful Night," "Irene," "The Circus Princess," "Rio Rita," and "The Three Musketeers."

Tracy C. Drake, impresario of the Blackstone, and Edwin Wappler, his chief of staff, believe that the 100th Chicago performance of "Stepping Sisters," to take place there next Monday night, should be celebrated with souvenirs. They announce a perishable form of memento—a box of candy—for presentation to every lady in the audience.

First call on the American rights to the next play by Henry Bernstein, French author of "Melo," has been taken by the Messrs. Shubert. The play will be named "Jupiter," and is scheduled for staging at the Gymnase theater of Paris in August. The New York run of "Melo" will be suspended June 13 for the summer. The reopening date has been fixed for Aug. 24. C. C.

Barthelmess Denies There Is Any Hollywood Scandal

There is no scandal in Hollywood, and you have the word of Richard Barthelmess, film star, for that. Passing through Chicago yesterday, he said he thought Mary Pickford's and Douglas Fairbanks' marriage was a happy one, and as to Clara Bow, he said, "Of course she's ill. I don't know whether she's to retire or not."

Thirty March When G. A. R. Holds Parade

Other Veterans "Carry On" in Aurora Autos.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The annual parade of the Illinois department of the Grand Army of the Republic was held in Aurora yesterday as the last event of a three day encampment. Of the 150 or more doughty warriors of 70 years ago in the parade a scant 30 of them marched the mile long route.

As the veterans of the civil war stepped along, many of them guarding against treacherous knees by use of canes, the thousands of men, women, and children lining the streets cheered and waved.

Leading the little group of marching veterans was their newly elected state commander, J. H. Campbell, 86 years old, of the George E. Meade post, Chicago. His tall figure, which measures six feet seven inches, was seen to stumble once or twice, but, smiling, he went on. He had fought under three generals, Sherman, Scofield, and Tarry, after first enlisting with the 47th New York infantry. Although the thermometer registered in the eighties, he would march.

A. C. Best, of Princeton, the retiring commander, also marched, as did past commander H. B. Davidson of Springfield. Davidson started in a limousine, but William P. Wright of Chicago, one of the fleriest of the army, laughed at him, so that Davidson left the car and joined Wright on foot.

Gray haired women and men, sons and daughters of the Union veterans, themselves marched, sometimes with faltering steps.

"My children had to stay home. Not a one of 'em could stand this marching," explained N. A. Wing of Chicago, who ran away from home when he was 14 and, not succeeding in enlisting then, followed a regiment into Missouri, later fighting at Vicksburg.

Others from Chicago who marched were A. E. Doy, 86 years old, Capt. John H. Cummings, J. H. Seibert, 78, the "baby" of the encampment, who was a drummer boy at 17, Tom McNally, 83, who carried a flag, C. O. Brown, Nick Schreiver, 85, only surviving member of post No. 7, a survivor of 17 months in Andersonville prison, J. C. Thomas, Maj. John A. Mallory, and, bringing up the rear with another flag, Maj. A. E. Gage.

T. E. O'Shaughnessy of Chicago was there with his drum, playing "The Girl I Left Behind Me," the old song whose gay tune belies its mournful sentiment.

Band after band of school children, passed, playing fervently. A little Negro boy beating a drum for the St. Charles school for boys band beat with added fury because it was, after all, a day in which he had a proud part. One aged Negro civil war veteran, his cheeks decorated with snow white sideburns, nodded smilingly from an automobile.

Other soldiers marched, too—Spanish-American war veterans, world war veterans and their wives and mothers, a group of whom were mothers who had lost sons in the war. But it was to the frail heroes of the civil war, once so hardy, that all honors went.

"Sixty-four years ago I marched in a parade at Washington in which 75,000 took part," recalled D. C. Zimmerman, Vandalia, "it took all day, that parade."

Other officers elected are G. R. Walker, Aurora, senior vice commander, and J. H. Crowder, Bethany, chaplain. Members of the council—John E. Andrew, Quincy; D. C. Zimmerman, Vandalia; William P. Wright, Chicago; H. B. Davidson, Springfield, and Lewis F. Lake, Rockford. Throughout the morning the veterans of Abe Lincoln's army sat beneath shade trees on long wooden benches before the G. A. R. memorial hall and continued the principal part of any encampment, the rehearsing of civil war days.

Members of the Woman's City club yesterday afternoon delved into the history of the organization at the open house held at the club on the 21st anniversary of its founding. From clippings of THE TRIBUNE of June 5, 1910, it was learned that 230 women representing the principal women's clubs, social settlements, and social bodies took part in the first meeting and among the guests were Walter L. Fisher, Dr. Henry Favill, and Health Commissioner W. A. Evans, now health editor of THE TRIBUNE. These accounts were read by Mrs. Edward L. Murfey, first secretary of the club. Other founders in costumes of that period, told of the events of two decades ago.

French Plumbers to Study American Bathtub Here

A group of French plumbing contractors, accompanied by their wives, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning to study the American bathtub in its native lair. They will be the guests of the Crane company during a five day stay in this city. A regular program has been laid out for the visiting plumbers. They will inspect the plumbing arrangements of big loop buildings, the sewage disposal plant at McCormick road and Howard avenue, and will make a survey of typical American bathrooms while here.

Holds Science Is Threat to World Peace

Kansas City, Mo., June 4.—(AP)—The threat of science against the peace of the world is more dangerous than its threat against religious beliefs, the Rev. George P. Finnie of Camden, N. J., told delegates to the northern Baptist convention here today.

"Einstein," the Rev. Mr. Finnie said, "may more safely be immortalized in stone on the facade of a Baptist church than some other scientists who had better remain unnamed. At least his theories will not be used to destroy men and women and children."

Referring to clashes between fundamentalists and evolutionists he said: "When religion learns the lesson that it ought to have known by heart long ago, namely that there is no real conflict between it and pure science, it will be good for both science and religion; for, after all, science is a method of investigation and religion is a mode of living."

The convention, which has been exploring the dangers of this machine age to standards of living, employment and morals, turned its attention also, today, to prohibition. The report calls prohibition the "best solution of the liquor problem," finds great benefits have been derived "from even an imperfect trial" and commends President Hoover "for his courageous and clear defense of the constitution and his unmistakable stand for prohibition."

Allentown, Pa., June 4.—(AP)—The Lutheran ministerium of Pennsylvania today adopted a resolution urging the United Lutheran church to withdraw from the Federal Council of Churches because of the stand taken by the council on birth control and divorce. The action of the ministerium, which comprises 594 congregations with a membership of 198,000, came before the close of the annual convention today. It followed upon similar action taken yesterday by the United synod of New York. The Pennsylvania and New York synods are two of the largest Lutheran groups in the east.

Warsaw, Ind., June 4.—[Special.]—At the opening business session of the 102d synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church of North America, held at Winona Lake today, W. T. K. Thompson of Mercer, Pa., was elected moderator. Other officers named are Dr. D. C. Mathews of Greeley, Colo., clerk, and the Rev. D. Bruce Martin of Beaver Falls, Pa., assistant clerk. Dr. W. J. McKnight of Boston, retiring moderator, delivered his address today. The conference will continue for a week.

LONDON, June 4.—The Rt. Rev. St. Clair Donaldson, 68 year old bachelor bishop of Salisbury, advocated in convocation, the highest legislative body of the Anglican church, today that the church should refuse to remarry all divorced persons whether they were "innocent" or "guilty" as long as the partner to the original marriage was alive.

The occasion was a debate in the upper house of convocation on the resolutions passed at the Lambeth conference on the subjects of marriage and divorce.

"As for a remedy the ultimate way out of the present distress may be distinguished between a civil and a religious ceremony. Let the bond be tied by the civil authorities in the registrar's office, and then let those who believe in a lifelong obligation of the marriage tie seek a blessing of their union in church."

The bishop of Ely, the Rt. Rev. L. J. White-Thompson, declared today that young people were surrounded by those who see no harm in divorce, remarriage, and irregular marriage.

Liquor Changes This Young Fellow Into a Brute, Says His Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The most discouraging letters that reach me are those from wives of men upon whom the drink habit is firmly fastened. Discouraging, because one knows what a terrifically hard pull it is for a woman, if she loves her man. And it seems to me, recently, that reports come more and more frequently of this drinking habit.

Perhaps presenting a domestic drink drama, now and then, as revealed to me, may do some good. It may cause girls to do a little more sane thinking before they tie up with a man with the drink habit.

Here's the woman in today's case. She has been married only a few months and the chap drinks heavily. He is in and out of work because of his drinking. Recently the girl wife got him a job through a friend of hers and to date he has managed to keep sober during the working days, but Saturdays and Sundays are one long session with the bottle. Bottle after bottle, to be exact.

Then, all the uglines comes out in the man. He says things and does things incredibly unlike the man he is when sober. Money was short on a recent week-end for his liquor supply. The request of a loan from the young wife resulted in her explanation that she had bought (out of her own working salary) some clothes she was badly in need of.

Still sober, his abuse was confined to sarcastic remarks and the declaration that he was tired of working and having nothing to show for it. Later, when he got hold of some money and liquor with it, he took up the question of her extravagances and nagged the entire day. Nagged is hardly the word for a man in his cups with the ugly side of him working overtime.

What can you say to such a wife by way of encouraging her? There's only one person upon whom the hope of a happier future depends, and if he shows no sign of cooperation, there isn't any cheer to offer. And that's why a girl should put her drink loving man on a long period of probation before marrying him, and marry him only after he has stood the test perfectly.

Attendants of Wood Wedding Are Announced

BY THALIA

MISS SARAH WOOD, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood of Highland Park, and James Roland Addington, son of Mrs. Keene Addington, have completed the list of young people who will attend them for their wedding which is to take place on Saturday afternoon, June 27, at Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park. The ceremony is to be followed by a wedding reception at the Wood residence.

Mrs. Edwin E. Tullis [Anne Wood], sister of the bride-to-be, is to be her matron of honor, and another sister, Miss Frances Wood, will be maid of honor. Miss Mary, the youngest daughter of the Wood family, will be one of the bridesmaids, and the others are Miss Winifred Wheeler, Miss Virginia Waller, Miss Leila Withers, Miss Cinda Palmer, Miss Betty Smith, and Miss Ann Elizabeth Walsh.

Gordon Kelley will perform the duties of best man for Mr. Addington, and the ushers are to be Jack Simpson, Dustin Grannis, James Heyworth, A. Watson Armour III., Frederic McLaughlin II., John McCauley, John Hampton Barnes of Philadelphia, and Robert W. Wood II.

The week before the wedding will be a succession of pre-nuptial parties concluding with the bridal dinner to be given by Gen. and Mrs. Wood the evening before the wedding. Mr. Addington and his bride are to reside in Lake Forest.

Learn About Gardner Wedding—A Motor Trip.

Somehow or other we managed to miss hearing, until yesterday, that Mrs. Ruth Lamson Lobdell Gardner and Roland Boswell are now Mr. and Mrs. Boswell, although their Chicago friends have been apprised of the fact for some time. They were quietly married in Los Angeles on May 6, and after a short motor trip are settling down to live in Los Angeles, where Mr. Boswell is now in business. The former Mrs. Gardner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Lobdell of 999 Lake Shore drive.

Miss Alberta Perley's grandmother, Mrs. John T. West, of 33 East Division street, and her uncle and aunt, the Charles Cameron Wests of Manitowoc, have motored east for her wedding today at Annapolis to John Guthrie Prescott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin McClure Prescott of Los Angeles. The ceremony is to be conducted with naval formalities in All Souls Unitarian church, and will be followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Perley. The groom is one of this year's graduates of the Naval academy. Miss Margaret Yard is to be Miss Perley's maid of honor and Miss Mary Harris of Chicago is to be one of the six bridesmaids.

WEDDING PLANS TOLD

[Tolof Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Mary Loretto Brannan, daughter of Mrs. George E. Brannan of 3240 Sheridan road, to Francis J. Nosek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis V. Nosek, will be solemnized on June 20 at 12 o'clock in St. Benedict's church on Lake Geneva, near the Brannan summer residence. The Rev. J. J. Merts, S. J., of Loyola university, will officiate at the ceremony. A reception will follow at the Big Foot Country club. Miss Margaret Brannan will be her sister's maid of honor, Mrs. Alfred A. Davis, matron of honor, and Miss Isabelle Byrne, bridesmaid. C. Winston Tarbet of New Haven, Conn., will be best man for the groom and Anthony F. Nosek, Glen G. Paxton, Edward H. Marhoefer, and John Hallister Smalley will usher. The bride and groom will motor east on their wedding trip.

Mary Borden Writes on Society for Magazine.

In "This Thing Called Society," in the current Harper's Bazaar, Mary Borden (Mrs. Edward L. Spears) gives a "searching analysis of how it differs in the United States and England." She thinks that the affairs of society are of interest to everybody who isn't absorbed too deeply in his own concerns. I gathered that she thinks the difference between British and American society is that the latter is still new and is not aware of the responsibilities it should assume. The copyright law, I believe, prevents our quoting the writer's amusing comments.

The honorary degree of doctor of laws is to be conferred on Mrs. John MacMahon next Wednesday evening by Loyola university in recognition of her "long and distinguished years of service in civic and charitable work to state and city." A dinner for Mrs. MacMahon and James M. Beck, representative from Pennsylvania, and Father P. J. Mahan, president of Creighton university, who are also to receive the degree, is to be given at the Union League club previous to the conferring of the honors. Mrs. MacMahon was the first woman member of the board of education, under Carter Harrison, she was in charge of the Red Cross auxiliary during the war, and has been a director on the boards of the Woman's City club, the Woman's Athletic club, and the Illinois Nurses' Training school.

Summer Homes—College Luncheons—Visitors.

Noting . . . that Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze are moving up to Lake Geneva today . . . that Miss Harriet Leonard is to give a luncheon for the Radcliffe club of Chicago at the Leonard residence in Winnetka tomorrow. Miss Leonard is the retiring president, Mrs. Heyliger de Windt, vice president, and Mrs. Harry J. Dunbaugh, chairman of the nominating committee . . . that the guild of the Fourth Presbyterian church gave a tea on Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. Charles Wadsworth for Mrs. William McIlwain Thompson of 219 Lake Shore drive, who is leaving Chicago for the Thompsons' new ranch at Tucson, Ariz. . . . that Miss Abby Sutherland, principal of Ogontz, arrived yesterday for the annual meeting of the Chicago Ogontz association at the Saddle and Cycle, and is at the Blackstone while she is in Chicago.

Find Fashions Are Repeating Styles of 1890

Indicative of the fact that style history, at least repeats itself are the following fashion flashes which mark the modish lady of 1931:

Sailors, saucer-shaped bonnets, flower hats, wide-brimmed picture hats and turbans with tiny nose veils, and feathers, buckled bands, and long streamer ribbons for trimming.

Glittering little combs, hairpins, barrets, even hair ribbons, wreaths and small bouquets worn in the hair. The old "rat" used in the creation of the pompadour is missing, but in the '90's there were no boyish bobs.

The girdle with stays, the ruffled petticoat and frequently lisle stockings are being used to make an old fashioned lady of the rebellious flapper. An old-new "wrinkle" is a flounce of stiffened crinoline which makes the skirt stand out like it did in the hoop-skirt era. What's more, they are even bringing back the old "dust-catcher" an inside hem-banding which comes below the long skirt.

Jackets are fitted tightly at the natural waistline loose above, and frequently flared below. Revers, capes, pockets and belts are recurrent features. Skirts are enlivened by plaited insets or circular flounces. The neckline is high and often devoid of ornament or collar. Sleeves are leg-of-mutton, bell-shaped, short ruffed or straight length. Many cuff effects are seen, particularly the old-fashioned gauntlet type.

Lace mits are perhaps most reminiscent of other days. So are the little bows on opera pumps, the buttons, braid, embroidery and other intricate detail in modern costuming.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Allen M. Thomas had Mrs. Hamilton Twombly and Mrs. Moses Taylor Campbell among her guests for luncheon.

Mrs. Archibald R. Watson returned on the Ile de France from Paris, where she visited her sister, Mrs. John Bryan Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis de Ruyter Wissmann, who are eastbound passengers on the Berengaria, will pass the summer abroad.

Mrs. Beverley Bogert returned from Europe on the Europa.

WEDDINGS

A military wedding of interest on the north shore this evening will be that of Miss Mary Louise Hamilton, daughter of Mrs. Louise Barlow Hamilton of Winnetka, to Lieut. Fred J. Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Woods of Rochester, N. Y. The marriage will be solemnized at 7 o'clock at the Post chapel at Fort Sheridan and a reception will follow at the Officers' club. A display by the band and mounted troops will precede the ceremony.

Miss Betty Hamilton will attend her sister as maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Nancy Wilder of Winnetka, Miss Nancy Parmalee of River Forest, Miss Clara Ward Seabury of Oak Park, Miss Rosemary Loetscher of Dubuque, Ia., Miss Margaret Heron of Glencoe, Miss Helen Collins of Evanston, Miss Madeline Ellis of Chicago, and Mrs. Ronald Pierce of Fort Sheridan.

Donald Woods will be best man for his brother and the ushers will include Lieuts. John Horton, William Lawton, James Quill, John Holst, Alfred Vetsale, Robert Broadhurst, Ronald Pierce, and Grant E. Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gamble Carlisle of Chicago announce the marriage of their daughter, Theodosia Carlisle Williman, to Thomas Lowell Stavrum of San Diego, Cal., son of Mrs. John Stavrum of La Crosse, Wis. The wedding took place yesterday in Yuma, Ariz. Mr. and Mrs. Stavrum will motor to Lake Arrowhead, Cal., and after July 1 will reside at 1020 Alberta place, San Diego.

Presbyterian Hospital Gets Infant Respirator

The Presbyterian hospital was the recipient yesterday of a Drinker respirator, designed for new-born infants, which was installed in the matnerity department of the hospital. The gift was made by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Eisendrath, 546 Hawthorne place.

Organists Elect.

Lily Moline Hallam, organist at the Oak Park Christian Science church, was elected state president of the National Association of Organists, and Edwin Stanley Seder, organist and composer, was chosen president of the Chicago chapter of the organization at their annual meeting in the Palmer house yesterday.

Others may look like Kotex

but how are they made?... where?... by whom? You have a right to know.

WHEN a substitute claims to be "just like Kotex," ask where it is made. How. By whom.

You will find the claim "like Kotex" usually means the pad merely looks like Kotex. That's not enough, when health is involved, as it is in your choice of sanitary protection. Demand the hygiene of Kotex. The absolute purity of Kotex.

There's one way to be sure. Get genuine Kotex . . . accept no substitute of whose makers you know nothing. Kotex is the world's standard. Hospitals used over ten million pads last year. It is made with hospital care and cleanliness.

Kotex stays soft for hours. Shaped to fit. Adjustable. May be worn on either side with safety.

441 GRADUATED AT ANNAPOLIS; 10 RUSH FOR ALTAR

392 Given Commissions at Commencement.

Annapolis, Md., June 4.—(AP)—The officer personnel of the navy was increased by 368 ensigns and the marine corps by 24 second lieutenants today as the naval academy's annual June week came to a climax with commencement exercises.

Diplomas were given to the 441 graduates by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke after he had advised them that as officers they would be "the contact men between the United States and foreign governments."

Those not commissioned included 36 who voluntarily resigned and 13 physically disqualified.

Scramble for Caps.

In stiffly starched white uniforms the midshipmen, representing every state and territory and one foreign country—there were two Canadians—sat immovable during the formalities in crowded Dahlgren hall. After each had marched up for his coveted diploma they sang and then made their final traditional gesture.

The third of three cheers for the three lower classmen was the signal for the hurling of midshipmen's caps high in the air, and there was the usual scramble of spectators to obtain them.

Rush to Altar Starts.

Wedding after wedding followed, a series of ten in the academy chapel being performed by Chaplain Frank H. Lash. The first to marry, however, were Douglas Gordon Wright of Raton, N. M., and Miss Mary C. Horne of Washington, D. C., who were were wed at St. Mary's Catholic church.

Others who were married included the following:

Miss Frances Field and Ensign Donald T. Wilbur, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Weddings scheduled for tomorrow include those of Miss Gwendolyn M. Ginsted, Accomac, Va., and Ensign John W. Crumpacker, Michigan City, Ind.

Midshipmen may not marry until the completion of their four year course on penalty of expulsion.

The new officers were given a month's leave of absence, but June week was only a temporary respite from duty for the more than 1,300 undergraduates. The 994 members of the new first and third class sail tomorrow on the battleships Wyoming and Arkansas for a two months' cruise to European waters, while the second class of 446 members remains for a summer course in aviation. Meanwhile a new group of plebes will start a four year course.

EXPECT 20,000 IN CENTRALIA FOR LEGION MEETING

Centralia, Ill., June 4.—[Special.]—Centralia is dressing up for the convention of the fifth division of the American Legion, comprising all of southern Illinois, which opens here Saturday. From 20,000 to 30,000 visitors are expected.

The 40 and 8 has planned a demonstration. As guests of the American Legion 1,500 southern Illinois United Spanish war veterans with their women's auxiliary members will be here.

In addition a delegation of Chicago Spanish war veterans will be joined by the large delegation of Missouri boys of 1898.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Forty-eight universities and colleges from all sections of the United States will compete this afternoon at Stagg field in the preliminaries of the tenth annual track and field meet of the National Collegiate Athletic association. The preliminaries will start at 1 o'clock.

This will be held in six track events, all except the mile and two mile runs, and in all field events except the pole vault and high jump. Championships in all fifteen events will be decided tomorrow afternoon.

The track coaches will meet this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Windermere East hotel to make drawings while the assignments for the finals will be made tonight at 6 o'clock at the annual coaches' dinner.

Central West Holds Majority.

As usual, most of the contestants come from the central western universities. Seven universities in the east will send their best athletes. Because of the eastern intercollegiate meet held last Saturday at Pennsylvania, the majority of eastern teams will not compete.

Naval academy and Pennsylvania lead the eastern teams. Southern California, Stanford, Washington State, Washington, Oregon and Utah are numbered in the ten universities from the far west. Fourteen southern universities also will compete and are sending some of the best track athletes in the country.

In the list of more than 340 entries are seven champions who return to defend their titles. An eighth, Lee Bonner of Illinois, winner in the 220 yard low hurdles last June, will not compete.

Two miles—Harold Manning, Wichita, 9:18.1.
Two yard—Tom Warne, Northwestern, 13 feet 9⅝ inches.
High jump—Simon Stewart, Southern California, 6 feet 5¾ inches.
Broad jump—Ed Gordon, Iowa, 25 feet.
One mile relay—Frank Wykoff, Southern California, 3:09.6.

Wykoff and Churchill probably have the best chances to retain their honors, although several other of the 1930 champions certainly cannot be rated less than equal to the rival pretenders. No other besides Wykoff in the field of 35 sprinters has established a recognized mark of 9 4-10 seconds for the 100 yards.

McDermont Meets Warne Again.

Churchill is supreme in the list of javelin throwers. In his last meet, the western intercollegiates, he threw the spear over 220 feet, and if he does as well tomorrow he will set a new N. C. A. A. mark.

Last year six meet records were established, three were equaled and one world's records were tied. Prospects for the tenth meet are as brilliant.

Warne's pole vault championship is threatened by his old rival, Verne McDermont of Illinois, who for three years has matched nearly every effort of the Northwestern star, and Bill Miller of Southern California. Graham leaped 14 feet ¼ inch last week and must be considered the favorite for the 1931 title.

Southern California is conceded the team championship. If the Trojans are successful it will be their third title. They won last year and also in 1928.

Far West Teams Dominate.

With the exception of four years Pacific coast universities have dominated the meet. Illinois won in 1921 and again in 1927. Michigan was the winner in 1928, while Ohio State took 50 points for first place two years ago. Southern California and California have taken all other team championships.

Admission to the preliminaries this afternoon is fifty cents. General admission tomorrow is one dollar, with reserved seats at $1.50 and $2.

ITALY WINS IN A SQUAWK—THAT'S USUAL DECISION

Fascist Athletes Can't Take a Beating.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—If the shrill squawk of the Italian Fascisti boxing team and the ensuing riot in the Garden Wednesday night had been the first incident of the kind chargeable to the Italians, the matter might be laughed off as nothing more significant than one of those harmless midsummer pop bottle throwings which the major league ball players have learned to expect in St. Louis during dog days.

But the Italians of late have become such petulant offenders in international sport competitions that it would be quite reasonable of the Olympic authorities to consider barring them out of the 1932 Olympics on the ground that they haven't yet learned the rudiments of sporting behavior.

What Happens When They Lose.

When they lose a soccer game with an inferior power in continental Europe they blubber and scream and their newspapers threaten to block a loan to the offending nation in the league of nations. When they send a trophy, a statue of Mussolini, freight charges c. o. d., as a sentimental token and political reminder, to the football team of another subject nation which has beaten them fairly on the field, and the victim of this gesture in decent pride declines the statue, they want to shell the capital. When their boxers go to France and try to weigh in pounds beyond the weights for their respective classes, and the French stand pat on their rights, the Italians squawk to their ambassador, who relays the squawk to Rome, and the managers of the Italian team yank their fighters out of the ring.

Italians Couldn't Stand Defeat.

They were bad sports in one of the Olympic boxing tournaments and during the Fascist riot at the Garden Wednesday night, the telegraph operator sitting beside me said, he had also seen a knife come sailing down from the gallery at one of the international horse shows in town when some Italian riders were beaten by a narrow margin. In the fight that started the row in the garden, Edelweis Rodriguez, the Italian flyweight, was plainly licked. If any American amateur had tried the same scene in a ring in Europe, even though he had been robbed, an American trainer of the type of Jimmy Bronson, far from bawling him, would have fetched him a good swift slap in the mouth and a kick in the pants to cure his hysterics.

The trouble with Edelweis and with the Fascist team and their rooters was that they had been spoiled. Edelweis had never lost a fight before. The Fascist team as a unit had not been beaten since the Amsterdam Olympics, and the Mussolini propaganda had imbued the young men with an idea that even if they were beaten nobody would have the audacity to give a verdict against them.

Mr. Garzena's Pride Punctured.

Their manager, a Commendatore Mario Cobianchi, continuing the strident squawk long after the valiant rioters had been smacked down by a few common New York harness policemen, announced that never again would Italy accept an invitation to send an athletic team to the United States. The opportunity for such a refusal is not likely to arise soon because not only little Edelweis, the crushed flower of the Alps, but the coach of the Italian team gave such a demonstration of Italian sportsmanship as will be sufficient for a long time.

Mr. Edouardo Garzena, the coach, who mooned and blubbered with Edelweis and raged around the ringside, chewing a rubber sponge, obviously was only trying to kick up a row to cover his own failure. Holding himself largely responsible for the team's previous success and having taken a lot of bows and praise as a great fel-

International Sportsmanship Isn't Always Bad, Even in Ring

BY ARCH WARD.

International relations in amateur boxing, which were strengthened appreciably by the bouts between the champions of France and the Golden Glove winners of America at Soldiers' field, suffered a sharp reverse as a result of the match in New York Wednesday night between a team of American A. A. U. boys and the Italian amateur title holders.

FREDDIE CASERIO.

Westbrook Pegler reports that he never has heard finer or more expert squawking at a sporting event than developed after the decision in the opening bout was given against the Italian flyweight champion. The unpleasantness was given a dramatic touch by supporters of the Italian team in the galleries who held a little stiletto practice with the ringside customers serving as targets.

Manifestly it is asking too much of a Fascist partisan to sit in dignified silence while what he thinks is an outrage against honesty and decency is being enacted under his very nose.

Fortunately the boxing enthusiast is the only sport filbert who seems to demand such a spectacular outlet for his emotional hysteria. It would not have helped international amity, for instance, if friends of the British track team had rushed onto Soldiers' field and cracked up the hurdles belonging to the American team because Lord Burleigh was defeated.

And it would look somewhat out of order if the customers at Onwentsia should leap out of the stands and attempt to destroy ponies of the Argentine polo team if it wins from Old Aiken on July 11. Still this would be consistent with the spirit of the boxing fans at Madison Square Garden.

At Carnoustie, Scotland, there was considerable enthusiasm the other day when MacDonald Smith, a native son, led the qualifying round of the British open golf tournament, but there was no mention in the press dispatches of dissatisfied spectators tearing up the green on which the last putt was sunk. Mr. Smith walked back to the clubhouse without dodging a single mashie.

More to the point, Freddy Caserio, captain of Chicago's Golden Glove team, walked over and shook the hand of the French boy who won a hairline decision over him in the recent bouts at Soldiers' field. Nobody tried to knife Jean Zigan, the winner, on the way back to the dressing room.

But then Chicago is not New York.

EVENT WORTH ATTENDING.

Chicago this week-end has another opportunity to patronize one of the finest events in sport, the national intercollegiate meet. There are only a few true amateur spectacles left in sport and the national collegiate meet is one of them.

In one sweeping glance the fan sees scores of perfectly conditioned, muscular, fleet young men who vie with others equally as well prepared.

Every man is on his own in a track meet. Nobody gets by because of the aid he receives from a teammate. It is one man against another and only the best survives. When the field lines up for the start of the 100 yard dash each runner has the same chance for victory as his rival. All start from the same mark and finish at the same line. The man with the speediest legs is the winner.

O'DOUL LOSES POWER.

When you talk about the baseball flops of 1931 don't forget to mention Lefty O'Doul of the Robins. O'Doul's failure to hit anywhere near his 1929 and 1930 mark is one reason why the Brooklyn club is not pressing the Cardinals and Giants for first place in the National league.

Two years ago O'Doul, then with the Phillies, led the league with an average over .400. Last year he hit .389. This season he has fallen off to .240.

The Robins depend upon power for success. When the power boys are not working at their trade there is little left to keep the club in the fight.

Armour's 148 Is Third; Farrell's 149 Fourth.

BULLETIN.

Archie Compston, Great Britain	153	75—228
Tomasco Genta, Argentina	153	75—228
Horton Smith, United States	156	75—231
Chas. Whitcombe, Great Britain	156	75—231
Hector Freccero, Argentina	157	83—240

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, June 4.—Henry Cotton, young pro who was denied a place on the British Ryder cup team because he wanted to remain in the United States after the matches to compete in the American open, and Jose Jurado went into a tie for the lead in the British open golf tournament here today.

Cotton got around in 75 which, with yesterday's 72, made a 36 hole total of 147. Jurado, former Argentine champion, in a sudden flash of brilliant golf this morning, finished with 71, tying Cotton. Jurado shot 76 yesterday.

Tommy Armour was third with 148 and Johnny Farrell slipped into fourth place with 149 as a result of today's 77. Behind them are two Americans, Gene Sarazen and Joe Kirkwood, who are sharing a total of 150 with William Twine, the British pro who was co-leader with Farrell last night.

Cut Field Again.

Of the remaining Americans Willie Hunter got another 75 for a total of 151 and MacDonald Smith disappointed the natives with a round of 77 for a total of 152. He could not find his game in the wind. Last was Horton Smith with 77 yesterday and 79 today.

Sixty-six are left. The second elimination took place tonight, all not included in the first 60 places and ties for sixtieth place being dropped. The weeding out included two Americans, Joe Turnesa with 160, just one stroke too many, and Tony Manero with 162. Larry Montez of Manila also dropped out with 163.

The wind was stronger this afternoon than in the morning, and a big share of the 66 qualifiers were included in the upper half of today's play, where they gained the advantage of better weather both days.

The field remaining will shoot 36 holes tomorrow. Unless there is a tie the result of the 72 hole aggregate will pick the winner. The final will be graced by the prince of Wales, who will arrive by train tomorrow. The public at large was warned by signs today that the prince's visit is purely a private, unofficial one.

Jurado sprung to a partnership in the lead by a brilliant out round of 34 which he earned with eight 4s, of which one was a birdie at the long sixth and a 2 at the short eighth, where he sunk a four foot putt. He took 4 at the sixth with a long drive and a brassie to the green.

Cotton three putted at the third, but played a birdie 2 at the eighth and was par for the rest of the first nine. Coming in he dropped his second shot in the bunker at the twelfth, but took 5 after a pair of 4s at the tenth and eleventh. He took par 3 at the thirteenth and sixteenth, the latter by a dead pitch from the bunker. He took 5s at the seventeenth and eighteenth, the first when his second shot was short and the other when evading the brook. His play brought him home with 39.

Armour played two 5s going out. One was par, and his birdie 2 at the eighth evened his card. He took six 5s coming in, which gave him 39, all because he lost control in the wind. His birdie 2 at the thirteenth helped.

Farrell's 77, placing him third, was chiefly the result of his play at the sixth hole where he took 7.

Wilson's Confidence Back; Owes Robins Vote of Thanks

One year ago today Hack Wilson had been at bat 170 times, had scored 45 runs, had made 58 hits, including 17 home runs. On this date a year ago Hack was leading the National league in home runs and was one homer behind Babe Ruth. His batting average was .341.

HACK WILSON.

At the close of a happy day yesterday Hack's 1931 record showed him to have been at bat 111 times and that he had scored 20 runs, had made 29 hits and three homers. His average is .261.

Despite these depressing comparative statistics Hack probably is happier this morning than he was at any time last year, not excepting the day when he established a new National league record with 56 home runs and a new major league record for runs batted in with a total of 190.

Flounders as a Sub.

In recent weeks they have been speaking of Hack as the "flop of the century." He had been benched, and when he broke in as a sub he lived up to the label gained when he was floundering about while Manager Hornsby patiently was continuing him as a regular.

Hack's suffering cannot be imagined by those who do not know him personally. Normally a jovial, smiling little man, with a friendly, happy greeting for any one who hails him, in recent weeks Hack had become a morose figure who didn't want any communion with his closest friends.

Everything he tried to do went wrong. The harder he tried the greater his woe. He subbed for Cuyler in Cincinnati and one game in Pittsburgh. But when Ki got well Hack went right back to drape his bloomers on the bench. A heart breaking figure indeed.

Big Break in Ninth.

The day before yesterday Hack was shoved back into his beloved station in center field. You could tell he was happy, but he really didn't get going until he made a single and scored in the eighth.

The Cubs needed a run in the ninth to tie the Robins. Cuyler was on third and English on second and there was one out—Hornsby had sacrificed. Hack tapped one to Thompson and if Fresco had come up with it, it would have been a double play to end the game with the Cubs on the short end of the score. But Thompson juggled the ball and the Cubs marched on to victory.

Might Have Headed for Lake.

"If Thompson had come up with that ball and the double play had followed," said one of Hack's pals, "little Hans und Franz would have keep running right out to center field. He would have taken out that scoreboard gate, hinges and all, and would have kept running right out into the lake. I predict that error will have more bearing on the remainder of Hack's season than anything that could have happened."

Well, anyhow, you know that yesterday Hack was the bubbling fellow of 1930 and 1929. Convinced at last than Allah is good Hack was the same frisky fellow you used to cheer before the Great Grief hit him.

And if Hack does come back, thank Fresco Thompson for not forcing Hack to tear out that center field gate.

Earnshaw Hurls 3 Hit Game Against Sox; Macks Win, 4-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 4. — It was George Earnshaw's turn this afternoon to perpetuate the idea that the White Sox must always be a few runs shy at the finish when they play the Athletics. He attended to this by conning the Chicago attack to three hits. Meanwhile the Philadelphians were getting far better results against the pitching of Luckless Tommy Thomas. So the Sox lost for the third straight time in the series. The score was 4 to 1. It was Earnshaw's eighth consecutive triumph of the season.

Thomas' only consolation for his seventh defeat of the campaign was that only part of the damage was done during his active term. Despite numerous line drives and whistling grounders which were smothered, and some real base hits, he survived for six innings. By that time the champions had accumulated three runs, mainly because Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx couldn't be suppressed. Then Hal McKain was summoned for one of his customary jobs of finishing, but he couldn't prevent a couple of Mack's youngsters from adding a run in the seventh.

Simmons' Bat Revived.

Before revealing the details of the day's scoring, it might not be amiss to mention a new theory developed by Manager Bush on the hitting prowess of Simmons. For two days the Sox pitchers stopped him. Bush immediately decided he had discovered a secret everybody in baseball had been trying to solve. Maybe there is something to what Bush contends, but you wouldn't have thought so if you could have seen what Simmons did when he first appeared today.

Simmons stepped up as leadoff man in the second inning. Without hesitating he took a swing and knocked a couple of numerals from the score board in right center. By hustling the ball back to the infield Watwood was able to confine Al to a two bagger. Then Thomas pitched one wide to Foxx, but the next wasn't so wide. So the fat boy knocked it into the street behind the right field wall for two runs. It was Foxx's tenth homer of the season and his second of the series.

The Sox could do nothing with Earnshaw in the first two innings, but in the third he was gracious enough to award them a pair of passes. They picked up their only run as a result. One of the passes went to Tate to start the inning. Thomas exercised a pitcher's privilege of fanning. Blue walked and was forced by Watwood. Fothergill singled to center, Tate scoring from third and Watwood moving around to that bag. Fonseca slapped a robust grounder to short, but Williams grabbed it and tossed to Bishop for the third out. After this Ciasell was the only Chicagoan to reach second. He singled and stole second in the fourth.

Solves Problem; Walks Al.

Thomas had Simmons to contend with again in the home third, but this time he made no attempt to experiment further with Manager Bush's theory. After two were out Williams

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Kiki Cuyler did it—smacked a homer with Charley Grimm on base and the score tied in the ninth, he did. Won another of those Cubs-Robins drama specials, the score being 6 to 4 in favor of our boys after the ball settled into the far reaches of the center field bleachers.

It was another exciting spectacle in a series that never has lagged in excitement, a series in which three games have been decided in the ninth inning, two verdicts going to the Cubs and one to the visitors, with the early leaders losing in each instance.

That homer was the fourth of the game, the four being distributed two to the side. And guess who made the other one for the Cubs. Right you are, no other than our pudgy little friend, Lewis Robert Wilson, Wright, looking at his first pitch since May 24, knocked one in the second, and Lombardi got one in the sixth.

Ki's Third Homer in Week.

It was the third homer in a week for Ki and his third hit of the afternoon. Ki had a funny day against Pea Ridge Day in that, in addition to his homer and two line singles, he twice was called out on strikes.

The victory was the fifth in a row by Mr. Wrigley's personal purchase, Les Sweetland, and the former Philly has yet to taste those bitter dregs of defeat in a Cub uniform. It also was the Cubs' tenth win in their last dozen games.

Of course a gent who propels a homer with the score tied in the ninth must be set down as the main hero, but after you have finished cheering Cuyler please throw in a couple of rahs for Hack Wilson. Hack, who hasn't been a very happy boy this year, scored the first three Cub runs to take up the slack of a 3 to 0 lead which the Robins gained in the first two innings. He scored after a single in the second and scored again after a walk in the fourth. His No. 3 homer of the year was his and the Cubs' third run. It came in the sixth, after Lombardi's swat in the same inning and gave the score a 4 to 3 status.

Hemsley Remains a Hero.

And Rolly Hemsley repeated as something of a hero, for without his double in the second Hack wouldn't have progressed much, and the same may be said about his single in the fourth.

Manager Hornsby seemed pretty well pleased about the way the boys performed and probably forgot all about his own slump, especially since he drove in Sweetland with the tying run when he sent a fly to O'Doul in the seventh. Rogers made a single in the eighth inning of the first game of the Robins series and that's all that's happened to feed his fading batting average.

The teams will play their final this afternoon, after which decks will be cleared for the arrival of the Giants tomorrow. It is indicated that Root will oppose Thurston in today's endeavor.

Error Gives Robins Run.

The Robins scored in the first inning, but they had to have help from English to do it. Frederick opened the game with a bouncer to Grimm, but Gilbert singled to center and after Herman had filed to Wilson went to second on Bissonette's single to right. Lombardi sent a grounder toward English, but it bounded between Woody's heels into left field, Gilbert scoring and Bissonette pulling up at third. Grimm then averted a mess of further trouble when he caught O'Doul's smashing grounder with his bare hand and threw to Sweetland for the third out.

The Cubs took a modest merry-go-round ride in the first half of the second inning after they had been startled by Wright's homer over the right field screen. Following the homer Thompson walked, then Day bunted, and Sweetland, Hornsby, and Grimm became so engrossed in deciding who shouldn't field it that the thing hopped unmolested to the right field grass—a hit for Pea Ridge which put Thompson on third. Frederick hit into a double play, Thompson scoring.

Vince Dundee Batters Jeby in 10 Rounds

New York, June 4.—(AP)—Vince Dundee of Baltimore punched his way to the top of the working middleweights tonight by winning a close decision from Ben Jeby, youthful New Yorker.

With Mickey Walker, the titleholder, in retirement as far as the middleweights are concerned, Dundee and Jeby, who was fighting preliminaries a year ago, battled for possible recognition in this state as new champion. It was a savage duel in spots, but Dundee's experience, strength and better generalship caught the eyes of the two judges. Referee Jack O'Sullivan voted for Jeby.

Dundee outslugged Jeby through the first four rounds, slowed down for the next four, and spurted to win the last two and the verdict.

The crowd was one of the poorest ever to see a headline match in the Garden, numbering fewer than 4,000 with net receipts hitting a new low around $8,000.

The struggle brought nothing but boos from the crowd for the first half dozen rounds as Jeby, outclassed in everything but courage, charged into a wicked leather fire and blocked most of the punches with his face. The youngster scarcely landed a telling blow until the fifth and his aggressiveness and willingness, rather than any particular damage he did, carried the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth rounds for him.

LONDOS ORDERED TO MEET LEWIS IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Cal., June 4.—[Special.]—The California commission governing boxing and wrestling affairs took a step to settle the title to the world wrestling championship today and accepted a $5,000 forfeit from Strangler Lewis to bind a challenge against either Henri de Glane or Jim Londos.

The commission ruled that Londos or De Glane must agree before July 15 to meet Lewis in a three fall finish match, with the title at stake, on or prior to Aug. 1, failing which Londos and De Glane will be barred from California arenas.

FLORIDA HOUSE OVERRIDES VETO; LEGALIZES RACING

Commission to Regulate Turf Sport.

Tallahassee, Fla., June 4.—(AP)—After a 20 year controversy, horse racing and pari-mutuel wagering were legalized in Florida today when the house of representatives joined the senate in overriding Gov. Doyle E. Carlton's veto of the first racing bill ever to pass both houses.

The legislature's action makes the law effective immediately. It provides for local referendums in counties desiring racing tracks, and sets up a state racing commission for control of horse and dog racing tracks.

By a vote of 55 to 26, the house mustered a necessary two-thirds majority of members present by virtually the same slim margin as in the senate, which voted 26 to 12 to override the veto.

Throngs crowded the house floor and galleries as opponents of the racing bill termed it degrading and "a ruinous measure." Proponents urged that the governor's veto be overridden to permit regulation by the state of the tracks, which they said had been in operation for many years. They said regulation was necessary to correct race track conditions.

The new law levies a tax of 3 per cent of pari-mutuel gross receipts and 15 per cent on admissions. The revenue will be divided equally among counties of Florida.

1,000 Join in Foreman High Drills Today

One thousand boys, students at the Foreman Junior High school, Belmont and Le Claire, will present a series of massed gymnastic drills this afternoon in the first annual Boys' Field day at the school athletic grounds. The program will start with a parade at 1:45 o'clock. Music will be furnished by the Foreman High school band.

Ernest Lieberson and Edward Hall, gymnastic instructors at Foreman since the school was erected three years ago, have drilled the boys since February in preparation for today's program. The drills are intricate in movement and beyond ordinary expectation for a junior high school group. Sophie A. Theilgaard, principal, has mailed invitations to the parents of all Foreman students.

IRISH FOOTBALL TEAM HERE FOR CONTEST SUNDAY

The All-Ireland Gaelic football champions arrived in Chicago yesterday for their game with a Chicago team at the White Sox park Sunday. If the Chicago team wins it will go to Sidney, Australia, late in the summer to play for the championship of the world.

Krone to Promote Open Air Wrestling This Summer

Doc Krone, wrestling promotor, announced that he has leased Mills park, on the west side, for the summer. Wrestling has been popular since the first of the year and Krone believes that its popularity will continue in the open air. The stadium can be arranged to seat nearly 20,000.

MILLS vs. HOUSE OF DAVID.

Grover Cleveland Alexander will hurl for the House of David team in the first game of a double header with the Mills next Sunday at Mills stadium.

REDS SELL SIGAFOOS.

Cincinnati, O., June 4.—(AP)—Frank Sigafoos, utility infielder, was sold today by the Cincinnati Reds to the Indianapolis American association club.

UNCOVERED WINS BOUQUET STAKE IN CLOSE FINISH

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—J. H. Louchheim's Uncovered won the Bouquet claiming stakes at Belmont today. He was public choice to 13 to 10. After running first practically from the start to finish of the four and a half furlongs, every eye was fixed upon him as he flashed under the wire in as close a blanket finish as has been seen at the meeting. Five others came down the stretch just heads apart from the winner.

John J. Robinson's Renaissance was second, a head before Mrs. Lucile B. Harris' Cambal, which was third. The next three, which were right on top of the placed horses, were the Rancocas stable's Deduce, the Linton farm's Porgie and Walter J. Salmon's Dexterity.

Try Some ran on top from beginning in the first race and got home first by five lengths. Try Some also was the favorite, paying 6 to 5 after being backed down from 5 to 2. He was ridden by Frank Catrone, while George Rose was up on Uncovered, which earned $5,525 by his dash. The stake winner's time for four and a half furlongs was :53 2-5, as against :52 3-5 for Try Some. Louchheim also owns Try Some.

Earl Mastro's Bout with Billy Shaw Is Cancelled

Louisville, Ky., June 4.—(AP)—A ten round bout between Earl Mastro, Chicago, and Billy Shaw, Detroit, featherweights, scheduled for tomorrow night, was canceled today. The promoters said Shaw in losing a ten round decision Monday to Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, bruised his hand and could not fill the engagement here.

Inconsistent Bargello Sets Mile Record at Homewood

BY FRENCH LANE.

Even our first families discover that their blue blooded thoroughbred horses sometimes run strange races.

Now I am sure that young Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, the heir to Harry Payne Whitney's fortune and race horses, does not like an inconsistent horse like Bargello in his establishment. Yet he must have been proud last night to own a horse that could run as fast as Bargello, for Bargello, a son of Bunting-Miniato, had smashed the track record at a mile at Washington Park when he won the Riverdale purse. He galloped the eight furlongs in 1:37, which clipped two-fifths of a second off the old track mark.

It was a romp for Bargello from start to finish, and he was running so easily at the finish when he led Overlay home by six lengths it seemed that he might have traveled a full second faster if Jockey Kenneth Russell had given him the word. The odds-on favorite, Thistle Fyrn, floundered home third in the four horse field.

But stop and consider what an inconsistent cuss Bargello turned out to be.

On May 26 he started in a four horse race and he wound up last. Sweep All, Nostaw, and Maya beat him in a dash at a mile, run in 1:38 3-5, nearly two seconds slower than he reeled off his track record performance yesterday.

Just nine days later he came out and cracked the track record on the same sort of track under the same weight impost, a package of 118 pounds, and with the same jockey in the saddle.

Thoroughbreds, no doubt, do a better day's work on some occasions than they do on others, but such sudden reversals drive the handicappers goofy.

They'll be calling Bargello mean names for many days. After all, Bargello, which paid $4.70 in the mutuels, has more good than bad days. In his last seven starts he won five races. In the other two he finished out of the money.

There's to be another lively brush at Washington Park this afternoon between candidates for the American Derby. All are westerners except Annapolitan, owner by S. W. La Brot of Maryland.

Insco looked so good after his workout yesterday morning he may be about ready to redeem himself. Boots Durnell says you can expect a winning effort from the son of Sir Gallahad III. any time. Insco has improved a great deal since his Kentucky Derby failure. He has picked up 50 pounds and right now looks the picture horse. Has been scorching the track in recent rehearsals.

He will have plenty to beat today. There's bound to be a lot of opposition from Spanish Play, Oswego, Knights Call, Lightning Bolt, and Burning Up.

Joe McLennan, the noted racing secretary, is back from New York and doesn't give the western admirers of Gallant Knight much encouragement for the Suburban handicap, to be run at Belmont on Saturday.

"I believe Questionnaire is the most improved horse in the country," he said yesterday. "Gallant Knight is great, but he's going to have to beat a mighty thoroughbred in Questionnaire if he wins in the Suburban."

McLennan reported that about 600 horses will move from New York to Chicago for the Arlington season.

The 2 year old championship situation at Washington Park is getting very tense. Just when everybody was about ready to slip the crown on Easter Time's brow along came Indian Runner, from Hal Price Headley's stable, yesterday. He won the Stewart Ridge purse from a band of stylish youngsters so gamely and ran so fast in the stretch that a lot of the folks at the ringside were proclaiming him as the champion last night. He beat Dyak, from Fred Burton's Everglade stable, by less than two inches, which surely should rate Dyak right near the top liners. Looks like there's more good juveniles in the west this year than for many seasons.

ITALY WINS IN A SQUAWK—THAT'S USUAL DECISION

Fascist Athletes Can't Take a Beating.

low, it was natural that he should think his own prestige would decline a bit when the fighter in whom he took his greatest pride was fairly beaten. Louis Silica, the New York boy, was a much better fighter, with no such reputation, however, as had been built up in Italy for Edelweis.

Garsena would have averted the squawking and the throwing of knives from the galleries if he had had any idea what sportsmanship was all about. Instead he incited the Fascisti upstairs to an outbreak which, but for the erratic aim of the blade and a break of luck, might have caused the death of a woman from a knife in the back.

The Metropolitan A. A. U., which forced the recent intercity Golden Gloves program out of New York by demanding the right to run the opera, again demonstrated its complete incapacity to conduct a meet satisfactorily. For when the Fascisti squawk was at its shrillest the committee of the Metropolitan A. A. U. began to wabble, and to appease the Fascisti the committee withdrew from the ring Joe Jones, the referee in the Silica-Rodriguez fight, who was to have handled one or more subsequent bouts, replacing him with another, merely because the Fascisti thought he was responsible for the decision.

Judges' Knees Weaken.

The judges then faltered also, and regardless of the fact that Debanis, the American, decisively licked Dellorto, the Italian bantamweight, in the next fight, awarded the decision to the Italians to soothe the tempers of the Fascisti.

And, anyway, considering the past reputation of their guests in international sport, the Metropolitan A. A. U. should have made some inquiries which might have shown them what sort of conduct they could expect.

BURGESS NAMED CAPTAIN OF N. U. 1932 TRACK TEAM

Ted Burgess, middle distance runner yesterday, was elected captain of Northwestern university's track team for next year. Burgess has been a member of the track team for two years, running both the quarter and half mile. He hails from Kenilworth, where he was a former star at New Trier High school.

Twelve major letters and four minor letters were awarded members of the track team. Winners of the major awards were:

Becker Finds Pike in Laurel Lake Lack Etiquette

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Laurel Lake, Wis., June 4.—[Special.]—It is evident that some of the wall-eyed pike in this and [illegible] lakes need a course in lake etiquette and especially pointers on how to treat their relatives, judging by what one 22 inch wall-eye did when [illegible] in a big fish trap up here. This specimen tried to swallow one of its own relatives, a 10 inch wall-eye.

We had a chance to see a lot of these fish as well as rock bass, small mouth bass, pickeler, sunfish, and other game fish which belong to the [illegible] and Spirit lake, because we joined C. F. Emberson of the Wisconsin department of conservation, one of the field men who is trapping suckers and other predatory, nongame fish in these waters. It was while watching Emberson run his "trap line" in Laurel that the 22 inch wall-eye shocked us with its behavior.

Emberson put us in a large flat bottomed boat and took us down to the southern end of Laurel, where an enormous hoop trap made of a heavy mesh had been placed.

This trap consists of a series of funnels with long nets on either side to steer the swimming fish into the mouth of it. Suckers and red horse both destroyers of the spawning beds and the eggs deposited on them by game fish, hit the net, follow it along and finally, thinking they have an opening out of it, swim into the trap.

Of course, lots of game fish that are parading around got into this contrivance. The other day we saw scores of wall-eyes, bass, and pickerel milling around in the "prison chamber" along with some big suckers. All of the game fish are turned back into the lake unharmed, but the suckers are done away with, a practical fish conservation measure that means bigger crops of game fish in future years.

The other morning Emberson did his dip net into the trap and hauled out bucket after bucket of fish that had to be turned back into the lake. Suddenly he drew out a queer combination of two fish. We saw that a 22 inch wall-eye had tackled a mud specimen of the same species and was trying hard to stretch its jaws wide enough to swallow the little fellow. Emberson stopped the swallowing act by forcing the large fish to relinquish its hold. Then both were tossed into the lake. The small wall-eye will carry some scars on his head for awhile, but should live in spite of its relative's attack.

500 WILL PLAY IN WEST PARKS BASEBALL LOOP

More than 500 baseball players will begin to play in the annual west parks playground baseball league tomorrow.

There are two divisions for girls. Those under 15 years play in the junior division and those over 15 years in the senior division. There are 14 teams in each division and the girls constitute one team, making 28 girls in the junior division and 28 girls in the senior division.

There are also two divisions for boys. Those under 15 play in the junior division, and those over 15 and under 18 years play in the intermediate division. There are 16 teams entered in the junior division and 8 teams entered in the intermediate division.

MAIER, CANCELA FIGHT ADDED TO MULLEN'S SHOW

Dave Maier, Milwaukee heavyweight, yesterday was signed by Promoter Jim Mullen to give Tony Cancela of Tampa, Fla., his second Chicago test in an eight round bout on the Relampago Saguero-Jackie Fields boxing card at Mills stadium next Thursday night.

Another eight rounder will bring into action Billy Papke Jr. and Edgar Norman, Norwegian light heavyweight. Papke Jr. is the son of the former middleweight titleholder, Billy Sr., who is supervising his fighting son's training activities here.

walked and stole second. Thomas got across on two strikes on Simmons and then decided he had scored at least a moral triumph, so he walked the fellow. Foxx also walked, loading the bases. Cissell pounced on Miller's grounder and touched second to conclude the inning.

The bothersome Simmons was among those who had an opportunity to swing against Thomas in the fifth. Another Mack run was the outcome. The inning began with Bishop singling to right. Haas fouled to Jeffries and Fothergill made a brilliant dash along the wall into center to catch a long drive by Williams. At this stage Bishop started to steal second, but Tate dropped the ball, so the incident, under the rules, was recorded as a passed ball. Then Simmons singled to right and Bishop scored. Thomas partially redeemed himself by fanning Foxx for the third out.

The Macks could have had another run in the sixth if they hadn't been overly cautious on the bases or if Thomas hadn't unintentionally halted a wicked drive. With one out McNair singled and Heving doubled to the wall in left center. McNair could have run home, but conservative Coach Eddie Collins halted him at third. The bases were filled on a pass to Bishop. Then Haas drove a rifle shot back at Tommy and he tried to dodge, but the ball hit him on the seat of his trousers. Tommy nonchalantly picked it up and threw out the runner.

McKain's start in the seventh was marked by a single off Williams' bat. He was forced when Fonseca made a lucky one handed reach for a bounder by the bothersome Simmons. Foxx drew a pass and Miller fanned. Then McNair singled to center, sending Simmons home and planting Foxx on third. Heving popped to Blue to close the inning.

Faber will try to win the final of the series tomorrow and Mack will use either Shores or Mahaffey.

U. S. Selects Team for Net Play Abroad

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood Jr. of New York and George Lott Jr. and John Van Ryn of Philadelphia were selected today by the United States Davis cup committee to represent this country in the interzone finals in Paris.

The tennis team is composed of the youthful element of American stars for the first time since Tilden and Johnston brought the cup back from Australia.

Shields, Wood in Singles.

The probability is that Shields and Wood will play singles with the Lott-Van Ryn combination taking care of the doubles. Wood and Shields sail tomorrow night on the Ile de France to join their teammates abroad.

Lott and Van Ryn, who have been competing in France, will engage in two international team matches, playing an Austrian team at Vienna June 5-6-7 and a German team at Berlin June 12-13-14. The American forces then will be concentrated in England for practice preliminary to participating in the British championships at Wimbledon June 22 to July 4.

To Pick Opponent.

The American team's opponent in the interzone Davis cup contest has not yet been decided. Japan, Great Britain, and Czecho-Slovakia hac been outstanding in European zone competition.

ENGLISH BEAT AFRICANS.

EASTBOURNE, England, June 4.—(AP)—England's young tennis hopefuls, H. W. [Bunny] Austin and Fred Perry, today won the first two singles matches of the Davis Cup series with South Africa. Austin defeated V. G. Kirby in a hard fought five set match, 6-2, 6-8, 2-6, 10-8, 6-3; while Perry won from N. G. Farquharson, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

JAPAN BEATS EGYPT.

PARIS, June 4.—(AP)—Japan today split the second pair of singles matches with Egypt in the quarter final round of the European zone Davis cup play. Japan will meet the winner of the Great Britain-South Africa series in the semi-final round.

CZECHS PUT ITALY OUT.

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, June 4.—(AP)—Czecho-Slovakia today scored an upset in eliminating Italy in the fourth round of the European zone of Davis cup play.

HARRY ASHLEY NAMED CAPTAIN OF MAROON FIVE

Harry Ashley was elected captain of the 1932 University of Chicago basketball team by the letter men yesterday. The election had been delayed by the absence of Paul Stephenson, who has been in California.

Ashley, who will be a senior next year, won his letter as a sophomore and has been a regular guard on Coach Nelson Norgren's team. He is 20 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, and weighs 165 pounds. His home is in Frankford, Ind.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: 'Way back in the old days when we had half-and-half and amber nectar there was always something doing around "Whisky Point," located at 45th street and Gross avenue, at the entrance to the stockyards from the west. How the boys would scatter pell-mell when a couple of runaway wild steers came tearing down the street.

One day Old Bill Hickey was caught in the direct path of a maddened steer, and, to save himself, grabbed hold of the animal's horns. To hold on and to sway from the ground to keep from being trampled under hoof was a feat of dexterity equal to present day rodeo stunts. The steer continued on across the old cabbage fields at 45th from Ashland to Loomis, and finally pulled up at Ashland near 44th. There some minions of the law pumped a dozen leaden pellets into the carcass of the animal and he succumbed. I often wonder if Old Bill Hickey is still alive.

Henry Rosenmeyer.

In the early '80's a band wagon was driven through the downtown district with a large sign on each side announcing: "Shadow Dance at the Buckingham Tonight." It was operated by "Appetite Bill" Langdon and Fiske Barnett were at the door to take your tickets. Oh, yes, of course, one could sit there and get a kick out of the exhibition while drinking his beer.

W. T. C.

Referring to Helper Bradner's recent letter and "The Soldier's Tomb," we sang that in Central High school, east of Halsted, in the late '70's. I believe it was contained in "Graded Singers," published by Church & Co. in Cincinnati, with music by E. E. Whittemore and O. Blackman, teachers of music in our schools at the time. Your Helper might secure a copy of the book at the board of education.

Pacific Coast Athletes.

Dear Wake: Naturally loyal to my college, I compared the records at Philadelphia last Saturday with those of the Big Ten the week before. When Stanford can't win—it could have done so easily if Smith and Dyer, two of the best men, had not been out with leg injuries—then I like to see some other on the west coast come through. In the 15 events—the relay was not run at Philadelphia—Southern California, Stanford, and University of California excelled the Big Ten in nine, with two events a tie. Now I hear the old alibi: "Yes, but the west coast has lots of sunshine and an all year training period." No doubt; yet in the last Olympics Finland was second, Canada fourth, and Sweden fifth. Those are hardly soft southern climes.

SEVEN MAROON TENNIS PLAYERS GIVEN LETTERS

Three major letters and four old English C's were awarded the University of Chicago tennis team yesterday. Capt. Scott Rexinger, singles champion for the last two seasons and member of the championship doubles team the last two years; his doubles partner this season, Herbert Heyman, and Paul Stagg, captain-elect, won the major letters. Stanley Kaplan, Lawrence Schmidt and Herman Ries were awarded large old English letters, and Joseph Zoline the small letter.

Rexinger, Heyman, and Kaplan are all graduates of Hyde Park High school, and Stagg went to University High. Ries is a South Bend, Ind., product; Schmidt's home is in Louisville, and Zoline comes from Oak Park.

HARVEY VS. MT. GREENWOOD.

Harvey A. A. C. baseball team will meet Mount Greenwood in a double header at the Buda field, 149th street and Center avenue, Harvey, on Sunday.

EARLY LEADERS AT INDIANAPOLIS ENTER ROBY RACE

Paul Bost, who drove the fastest two first laps ever recorded at Indianapolis, and Bill Cummings, who took the lead from Bost and held it until Arnold crept up on him, will show their speed to Chicago fans at Roby speedway, 108th street and Indianapolis avenue, on Sunday in an A. A. A. 100 mile auto race.

The addition of these two gives the race all the men and cars that led at Indianapolis with the exception of Arnold, who was entered, but who is still hospital bound in Indianapolis. Louis Schneider, 500 mile winner; Fred Frame, second; Ralph Hepburn, third, and Lou Meyer, fourth, will wheel their cars into town tomorrow, fresh from a complete overhauling after the big race.

Spectators of the grind last week report that the real battle of the race was that between Cummings and Arnold. For more than 300 miles these two were almost wheel and wheel. Then Arnold threw a tire and cracked up at 402 miles, followed out by Cummings a few miles later, who also lost a wheel.

Babe Stapp, Californian, is generally expected to give the favorites a battle. Stapp has been a contender for four years at Indianapolis, finishing sixth in 1928, and running well up in 1929, 1930, and again this year. Eugene Hausteine, Shorty Cantlon, and Frank Farmer are additional starters who are dangerous on the dirt.

Harrison Net Team Wins; in Semi-Finals Today

Harrison Tech's tennis team defeated Austin in the playoff for the west section championship of the City Public High School league yesterday. The score was 3 to 0. The semi-finals will be played this afternoon, Hyde Park meeting Parker and Senn facing Harrison.

SCHIFF, ONE OF WORLD'S NOTED BANKERS, DIES

Found in Chair at Home, Heart Disease Victim.

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—Mortimer L. Schiff, partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Co., one of the world's leading bankers and an associate of the Harrimans, Gouids, and Stillmans, died early today at his Oyster Bay, L. I., home, of a heart ailment. He would have been 54 years old tomorrow.

The Schiff butler, Galpin, found Mr. Schiff dead sitting in a chair in his bedroom, clad in pajamas, when he went to call him this morning after the banker had failed to make his usual early appearance.

Mr. Schiff was one of the senior members of the international banking firm of which his father was the head for many years. He was born in New York, June 5, 1877, was educated in private schools, and attended Amherst college, receiving an honorary degree of A. M. in 1906. He also studied abroad and spent a number of years learning railroad methods by active work on two railway lines, followed by two years at Hamburg and London in the study of European banking processes. He joined his father's firm in 1908.

Sportsman and Scouts' Friend.

Besides being a leader in business, philanthropy and religious social service, Mr. Schiff was a widely known sportsman. His stables of fine horses were represented at the leading horse shows. He owned race horses, too.

No small part of the progress of the Boy Scout movement in the United States was attributed to Mr. Schiff's service, expressed in many generous monetary gifts and in personal service. To his powers of organization was attributed the fact that the field of scouting has been extended to practically every community in the United States and its advancement in a number of foreign countries. One of his most recent contributions was a gift of $50,000 to Lord Baden-Powell at the World Jamboree in 1929 to be used for the extension of international friendship through scouting.

Awarded Scout Medal.

In 1926 Mr. Schiff received the scout award of the silver buffalo for distinguished service to boyhood. He was in the first group so honored. He was also a recipient of the award of the silver wolf of the British Boy Scouts association.

Poultee E. Brandt, Mr. Schiff's valet, was sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment in March, 1907, after pleading guilty to burglary and assault upon Mr. Schiff in the latter's home. Brandt had written numerous ardent letters to Mrs. Schiff, which had caused his discharge.

After serving five years in Dannemora, Brandt sought his freedom and the battle that ensued filled columns. Gov. John A. Dix refused clemency to Brandt, but he was pardoned by Gov. William Sulzer in 1913 and went west. A grand jury investigated charges of conspiracy against Mr. Schiff and his attorney to keep Brandt imprisoned, but no indictment was returned.

In politics Mr. Schiff was a Republican and was an ardent supporter of President Hoover.

During the world war he was a leader in the campaigns for the sale of Liberty loan bonds. Besides gifts to the Jewish Theological seminary, he contributed $25,000 to the Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, $50,000 to the Taft school at Watertown, Conn., in 1928, $5,000 to the Italian hospital, and gave a collection of rare prints of old Flemish and German masters to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: She Still Has Sandy

VETERAN OF WAR IN CRIMEA DEAD, AGED 103 YEARS

Had Adventurous Life on Land and Sea.

New Albany, Ind., June 4.—[Special.]—Frank Rodrick, 103, survivor of the Crimean war, sailor, ship owner, globe trotter and farmer, died here today after a brief illness. Had he lived until Aug. 16 he would have been 104. He served in the French army and was six months in the Crimea but quit when he had earned 500 francs, which he thought meant $500. It was only $62. He was decorated for bravery.

Rodrick was born in San Diego, Cal., in 1827. His father was a Spaniard and his mother Irish. He sold slaves to the south, then joined the California gold rush in 1850, amassed a fortune of $28,000, built a ship and lost it at sea in a storm, all aboard excepting Rodrick drowning.

He came here twenty-four years ago and settled on a farm near the city. He left the farm two years ago to live in New Albany. He had said he was never attended by a physician until this illness. He was an inveterate smoker of cigarets, cigars and pipe.

Rodrick was taken to Cuba when eight years old by his father. When thirteen Rodrick and a brother went to South America. The brother was drowned. Frank then became a sailor. He joined the United States navy when he reached New York, and later went to Europe. He next joined the French army.

He returned to the United States later as a sailor. He shipped from New Orleans for Africa and his ship returned with 200 Negro men and women, who were sold on the auction block. After his shipbuilding venture he was a cattle man in California.

Mrs. Belle Stewart McKee, Sister of Oil Official, Dies

Cedar Rapids, Ia., June 4.—[Special.]—Word has been received that Mrs. Belle Stewart McKee, sister of Col. Robert W. Stewart of Chicago, former chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company [Indiana], died at San Diego, Cal., Tuesday night. Mrs. McKee, a graduate of Coe college, was to give the principal address next September at the dedication of the Coe college library erected by Mr. Stewart.

EX-KING HUSSEIN OF HEDJAZ, NOTED ARAB FIGURE, DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, June 4. — Hussein, former king of Hedjaz, prominent in the Arab revolt against Turkey during the world war, died at dawn today at Amman, Transjordania, after a long illness. He was 75 years old. His sons, grandsons, and Moslem ecclesiastics were at his bedside when he died.

Special prayers were said in all the mosques immediately after Hussein's death, and, as is customary in the east, the burial of the former king took place at once. The funeral procession left for Jerusalem within two hours after his death. Hussein was laid to rest in the mosque of Omar. Two of Hussein's sons, former King Ali of the Hedjaz and Emil Zeid, attended.

Hussein, who was king of the Hedjaz from 1916 to 1924, was forced to abdicate when Ibn Saud, emir of Nejd and king of the Wahabis, threatened his capital, the holy city of Mecca. Hussein fled into exile at Cyprus and his eldest son, Ali, assumed the title of king of Hedjaz and moved his capital to Jedda. Later Ibn Saud absorbed Hedjaz. When the Turkish republic abolished the caliphate in 1924 Hussein was proclaimed caliph of Hedjaz, Transjordania, Iraq, and Palestine.

H. E. CHUBBUCK, 68, ELECTRICAL WIZARD, DEAD

Peoria, Ill., June 4.—(AP)—H. Eugene Chubbuck, whose name is associated with the history of electricity in the United States, died suddenly today at the age of 68.

He was former general manager of the William B. McKinley Traction system, which includes the Illinois Traction system, the Western Railway and Light company and all component properties.

Born in Utica, N. Y., he became interested in electricity and at an early age became an expert for the Thompson Hutson company of Boston, one of the patent groups of the present General Electric company.

Lighting systems in Pawtucket, R. I., Syracuse and Auburn, N. Y., Springfield, O., and in other cities were installed by Chubbuck.

He reorganized the Omaha, Neb., electrical plant and the street railway of Pueblo, Colo. He built 60 miles of electric railway in the Illinois river valley and operated the Western Railway and Light company. He settled in Peoria in 1910.

Dr. L. W. Fox, Who Saved Indian Tribe's Eyes, Dead

Philadelphia, Pa., June 4.—[Special.]—Dr. L. Webster Fox, widely known eye specialist and professor of ophthalmology at the University of Pennsylvania, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles F. Griffith of Ardmore. Dr. Fox, who was 78, accomplished what probably was his greatest achievement in 1924 when he performed operations on scores of Blackfeet Indians at Browning, Mont., in an effort to prevent the spread of blindness. In 400 cases of trachoma, virtually all of the patients were cured.

Mrs. Anna Smith Will Disposes of $100,000

The will of Mrs. Anna F. Smith of Highland Park, widow of Charles A. Smith, pioneer Chicago piano merchant, was admitted to probate yesterday by Probate Judge Martin C. Decker at Waukegan. It disposes of an estate of $100,000 in personal property. One bequest of $1,000 was made to Quackenbruck, the native town of Mrs. Smith in Germany. The rest of the estate was left to stepchildren, a niece and a nephew.

Woman, Resident of Lake County 70 Yrs., Found Dead

Mrs. Jeanette Nottingham, 76 years old, who had been a resident of Lake county for more than seventy years, was found dead yesterday morning in the kitchen of her home in Gurnee, a village five miles west of Waukegan. Gas was flowing from the burners of a stove in the room. A coroner's jury returned a verdict in the afternoon stating that the death was accidental.

MAJ. CECIL BOULT, 55 years old, promotion manager of the St. Clair and Eastgate hotels, died yesterday of heart disease at the St. Clair, where he lived. Maj. Boult served in the British army in the Boer war and the world war.

KLEIN BROTHERS MAY HAVE STORE IN ENGLEWOOD

Report Vacant Office Area at 19.2%.

An indication that Klein Brothers, department store firm, plan to open a department store in the vicinity of 62d and Halsted streets, Englewood, some time in the near future is contained in an agreement filed with the county recorder yesterday. The agreement is between Lawrence L. Klein, Bernice K. Friedlander of Los Angeles, and Amy K. Eisendrath of Milwaukee, successors to Etta M. Klein, lessor, and the Klein Brothers corporation, lessee.

The agreement provides that the rental on the premises at 2010-20 South Halsted street be reduced to $18,000 a year for the period from April 1, 1931, to April 30, 1934—a total reduction said to be between $35,000 and $30,000. It further provides that there be a reduction of rental by $5,000 for one year in the event the lessee opens a new department store in the neighborhood of 62d and Halsted streets and for the creation of a sinking fund of $3,400 for taxes.

No Plans for Present.

Officials of Klein Brothers state that in view of present business conditions no action will be taken for some months regarding the opening of a store. Altheimer & Mayer were attorneys for the transaction.

Vacant space in 157 office buildings with a rentable area of 25,457,502 square feet amounted to 19.2 per cent on May 1, according to a survey made by the Building Managers' association. A report on the survey was made public yesterday by John T. Redmond, president of the association.

A Business Barometer.

"Our surveys are a good barometer of business conditions," said Mr. Redmond. "We have been making them for many years past and are satisfied of their accuracy. As might be expected, for the first time in many years Chicago does not show its usual expansion in the use of office space. However, as no new buildings have been completed since a year ago, our status has not materially changed and the gross vacancy is only slightly greater.

"While there is plenty of space to accommodate tenants when business picks up again, the situation is not as bad as the pessimists would have the public believe. Since May, 1930, leases have been made on approximately 1,500,000 square feet of office space, nearly 60 per cent of it representing expansion of present occupants and new business. There have been failures, of course, but the virility of Chicago business is indicated by this large amount of leasing during a period of very general depression.

Corporate Trust Shares Makes Dividend Survey

Total cash dividends paid by the twenty-eight corporations underlying Corporate Trust Shares during the year ended Dec. 31, 1930, aggregated $872,260,979, as compared with $820,507,923 paid in the previous year. This represents an increase of $51,753,056 made during a year of subnormal profits, and is compared with a year of peak achievement, it is pointed out.

EXAMINE RELATIONS OF NORTH AMERICAN COMPANY WITH INSULL

Washington, D. C., June 4.—(AP)—Relations of the North American company, nationwide utility holding corporation, with the Insull interests of the middle west in the Pacific Gas and Electric company of California were examined today as the federal trade commission concluded its investigation of the North American company.

Questioned by Chief Counsel Robert E. Healy of the commission, Edwin Gruhl, vice president and general manager of the North American company, said an arrangement between his firm and the Insull interests in connection with control of the North American Light and Power company had the effect of avoiding competition between them.

It was testified that both groups were strongly opposed to having the North American Light and Power company acquired by the other and accordingly an arrangement was made whereby both would have a share in it.

"Wasn't the effect of it then to avoid competition between your group and the Insull group?" Healy asked.

Healy then turned to the activities of the North American company's west coast subsidiary, the Western Power corporation, and asked whether there had not been competition between Western Power and the Pacific Gas and Electric company in the California fields. Gruhl answered that there had been "rivalry." He testified that the two firms had ultimately merged, the Western Power corporation receiving 32 per cent of the common stock of the P. G. & E. at considerable below the market price.

Confer on Plans to Repay $9,342,000 Frisco Bonds

Officials of the Chase Securities corporation, Dillon, Read & Co., and the St. Louis and San Francisco railway have conferred on plans to repay $9,342,000 of the railroad's bonds due July 1. Methods under consideration were understood to be short term financing or issuance of high coupons, mortgage bonds with early maturity.

LOANS JUSTIFY LOWER MARGIN ON STOCK TRADE

Brokers' Credit Off 35 Millions.

BY A. O. MATHER.

The movement of banks and brokerage houses to reduce margin requirements for the purchase of stocks received ample justification yesterday when the federal reserve board issued its weekly report on brokers' loans. It revealed another decline of $35,000,000 in the last week, bringing the total down to $1,529,000,000, a new low record.

Even though securities prices have declined drastically since the collapse of the bull market in 1929, the volume of credit used in speculation has declined even more sharply. The average decline in stock prices has been around 60 per cent but brokers' loans have shrunk from around 8½ billion dollars to about 1½ billions, a recession of more than 82 per cent. And within the last year such loans have receded from $4,101,000,000 to the current total.

Favor Collateral Loans.

There is no doubt that considerable marginal holdings of securities have been shifted from brokerage houses to banks. Nevertheless, collateral loans by the banks also have been heavily liquidated in the last year or two and are not uncomfortably large. In fact, with the present slack demand for credit for commercial purposes and the plethora of funds on deposit, the banks are not adverse to making collateral loans.

The current federal reserve data on brokers' loans covers the week ended Wednesday and therefore does not reflect the upturn in the stock market on Wednesday and yesterday, as stocks bought on Wednesday were not delivered until yesterday. Therefore, the decline reflects only the decline in the market last week and the first two days of this week.

The details of the statement shows that all classes of lenders withdrew funds from the New York call money market. The New York banks reduced their own loans by $32,000,000, while interior banks and non-banking lenders drew down $8,000,000 and $6,000,000, respectively.

Increase Borrowings.

An increased demand for credit for commercial purposes, chiefly as the result of the monthly settlements, interest and dividend payments, was shown in the weekly statement of the federal reserve system, issued last night. The member banks increased their borrowings at the reserve banks by $13,974,000, bringing the total up to $172,234,000, and the reserve banks put additional credit into circulation by purchasing an additional $9,554,000 of bankers' acceptances.

The reserve banks also expanded their note circulation by $31,766,000. Their deposits rose $13,256,000. Gold reserves remained steady but total reserves declined $5,456,000. The ratio of reserves to liabilities eased to 84.2 per cent, compared with 85.3 per cent a week ago.

Deposits Down $24,893,000.

The New York Federal Reserve bank maintained its 1½ per cent rediscount rate. Its statement showed an increase of $2,928,000 in member bank borrowings, which now total $39,927,000. The reserve bank purchased $14,178,000 of bankers' acceptances. Deposits receded $24,893,000. Reserves declined $37,094,000 and the reserve ratio sagged to 90.4 per cent, compared with 92.6 per cent last week.

The Chicago Reserve bank reported an increase of $403,000 in member bank borrowings, which total $12,342,000. Bankers' acceptances receded $1,000,000. Deposits rose $19,225,000. Reserves increased $24,847,000 and the reserve ratio to 87.8 per cent, compared with 87.4 per cent last week.

Advance Sugar Prices

10 Cents at Denver, Colo.

Sugar prices have been advanced 10 cents a hundredweight in Denver, Colo., under the new schedule announced after a similar rise in the eastern markets. The manufacturers' price will be $5.12 for beet and $5.32 for cane. Jobbers will receive $5.37 for beet and $5.57 for cane.

Wheat Prices Rebound; Crop Reports Are Bullish

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A marked change in sentiment occurred in the wheat trade overnight following the withdrawal of the farm board as a buyer of old crop grain and with heavy and fairly general buying, partly by houses with eastern connections and presumably based on the strength in securities, prices advanced rapidly yesterday with stop loss orders uncovered on the way up.

Operators who have in many instances been on the selling side for sometime past were good buyers during the day and there was no material pressure on the wheat market. Sensationally bullish crop comments were received from the Canadian northwest, although light showers were received in parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan. The trade looks for the Free Press report which will be issued Saturday to show the poorest outlook at this season of the year ever known.

Wheat Closes at Top.

There was a period of hesitancy at the start, but the market moved up in impressive manner later with short covering strongly in evidence and at the top prices showed 2@2½c above the finish of Wednesday with the December 3¼c above the inside figure of that day. The close was at net gains of 1⅝@2⅝c, with July 58¾c; September, 59⅛ to 59⅛c, and December, 62⅜ to 62½c at the last. June wheat was sparingly traded in at 64¼ to 66⅝c and closed at the latter price with a net gain of ¾c for the day. Only 300,000 bu of the latter delivery were traded in on Wednesday.

In addition to the drought reports from the three prairie provinces reports from the American northwest showed a large dry area prevailed there, especially in eastern Montana and western North Dakota with a message to Lamson Bros claiming winter wheat in Montana was in bad condition due to lack of moisture, and alternate hot and cold weather had also done some damage.

Reports from leading railroads failed to confirm the farm board statement of the previous day that new wheat was moving in Texas, but weather conditions there continue favorable for harvest. Cutting of wheat in Kansas will start around June 15 in the advanced sections in the southeastern part of the state.

The Winnipeg wheat market was strong and closed 1⅝@1½c higher, as compared with Tuesday, the July being 61⅜c, or 2⅝c over Chicago, with October 4⅛c over Chicago September. Liverpool gained ⅛@¼d for the day.

Local Bull Buys Corn.

Spreading operations were in evidence in corn with a cash house selling, July and buying September early, butting the latter to around 1⅜c under July wheat at one time against even at the finish on Wednesday. Toward the last a local professional started to buy the July and caught the local element short and caused an advance of 1⅝c from the early low and the close was ⅛@1c higher with July, 57¼c; September, 53½ to 53⅝@53¾c, and December, 47½ to 47⅝c.

Oats firmed up with other grains with commission houses fair buyers. Closing trades were ⅛@⅜c higher, with July, 26½c; September, 26⅞c, and December, 29⅛c.

Unless Canada receives general rains in the immediate future the rye crop there will be extremely small, according to a Winnipeg man who was here yesterday. A liberal export business was claimed in Canadian rye during the day which had some effect on futures, the latter closing 1¼@2⅛c higher with July, 37⅜c; September, 39⅜c, and December, 43¼c.

Ten Years Ago in Finance

Cotton prices are on the downgrade and dry goods markets report only a fair distribution of goods. Spot, middling is quoted at 12.65 cents.

In addition to the coal stoppage England is facing paralysis of its cotton industry with 500,000 workers out as cotton mills close down. The workers have refused to accept a wage reduction of 5 shillings a pound.

Commercial failures for the week in the United States as reported by R. G. Dun number 264 compared with 366 for the previous week and 101 for the corresponding week in 1920.

Contractors and craftsmen see quick ending of Chicago building tie-up which has padlocked construction activities for over a month.

The treasury department reports luxury buyers are spending at the rate of $7,200,000,000 annually despite 3,000,000 jobless in the country.

ANHEUSER-BUSCH TO MAKE DRIVE FOR SALES HERE

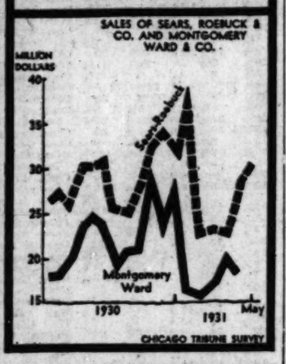
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 4.—Chicago has been chosen as the central divisional sales headquarters of Anheuser Busch of St. Louis, it was announced today by August A. Busch Jr., vice president and general manager. Offices will be at Clinton and Polk streets.

Edward B. Geisel, formerly manager of the New York branch, will be in charge of the Chicago central organization. Thirty-five additional salesmen are to be employed immediately, bringing the total staff to seventy-five, who will cover the metropolitan area of Chicago and the states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and West Virginia.

J. B. Wells, advertising manager of Anheuser Busch, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning to institute an extensive newspaper advertising campaign throughout the central territory.

SALES OF LEADING MAIL ORDER HOUSES IN 1930 AND 1931



TWO LARGEST UNITS OF STANDARD GROUP CONSIDERING MERGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—Consolidation of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Standard Oil Company of California, the two largest units in the Standard Oil group, is under serious consideration again and will take definite form within the next sixty days, it is reliably reported, unless formidable opposition develops in Washington.

Such a merger, proposed about two years ago and abandoned upon an intimation that the United States department of justice might withhold approval, will now be undertaken as a result of the failure of the government to prevent the amalgamation of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company, two other Standard Oil units. The Standard of New Jersey-Standard of California merger, if accomplished, would create the largest petroleum company in the world, with total assets of more than $2,375,000,000 and controlling about one-fourth of the oil business of the United States. The combination would be larger than the old Standard Oil company, which was required by the United States Supreme court's dissolution decree of 1911 to divest itself of its holdings in thirty-three subsidiaries. It would be of considerably greater magnitude than the Royal Dutch Shell organization of Europe, now the world's largest producer of crude oil.

Prime Western Zinc at New Low of 3.20c a Pound

Prime western zinc again has declined to a new low since the 90s. It has sold at 3.20 cents a pound, East St. Louis, compared with a previous low of 3.25 cents.

Will Recommend 10-15% Freight Rate Boost: Report

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—The committees of traffic, accounting and legal department executives of eastern railways, charged with the task of preparing the application to be submitted to the interstate commerce commission for approval of higher freight rates, will recommend tomorrow an advance of between 10 and 15 per cent over existing schedules, it was reported unofficially today.

Tomorrow afternoon at the offices of the Trunk Line association here the subcommittee of the eastern railroad presidents' conference, appointed two weeks ago, will meet to hear the report of procedure to be followed in the effort to restore earnings to a level that will protect railroad credit and service.

See Few Exceptions.

From the discussions that have been held during the past week it appears likely that application will be made immediately for a horizontal increase with a few exceptions to avoid diverting commodities that are handled by competing transportation systems such as trucks and waterways.

The interstate commerce commission is understood to be ready to give immediate attention to the case. The carriers hope that if they can prove their need for additional revenues approval of the revised tariff can be given immediately, subject to modification and to retroactive rebates on rates that may be carried down again as a result of hearings.

Committee Members.

The committee includes J. J. Pelley, president of the New Haven railroad, chairman; R. M. Collyer of the Trunk Line association, vice chairman; J. M. Davis, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio; P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central; W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad; C. H. Hix, president of the Virginian railway, and J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio.

They represent all of the railroads in the territory east of the Mississippi Executives of western railroads have been considering similar action for increased rates, but decided this week to defer their move until after consultation with the eastern leaders.

WESTINGHOUSE PLACES ORDERS FOR MATERIALS

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company is placing orders for material with many industries for use in constructing ninety electric locomotives for the Pennsylvania railroad, it has been announced by J. S. Tritle, vice president and general manager of the company. Mr. Tritle said his company for purposes of the order was buying large quantities of copper, sheet steel, steel shafting, roller bearings, forgings for outgoers, rolled steel for frames, mica, varnish, aluminum, and other materials.

Would Tax U. S. Sunday Papers as Magazines

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 4.—The Bennett government is being deluged with protests from Canadians against some of Monday's tax enactments, mainly the 15 cents per pound impost on American magazines, the $1 per case impost on American oranges, and the 400 per cent increase in the sales tax. A deputation of American magazine publishers, supported by Canadians, will interview the government tomorrow on the first item. Canadian publishers of Sunday newspapers are reported to be pressing the government to include American Sunday editions, with their comics and magazine sections, under magazines.

STONE DEFENDS WITHDRAWAL OF WHEAT SUPPORT

Washington, D. C., June 4.—Defending the withdrawal of government funds from support of the wheat market, Chairman James C. Stone of the federal farm board declared today that such action gave no one license to say he had been "double crossed" by the board or the grain stabilization corporation.

Mr. Stone said that although he had previously announced the board's intention of pegging prices through June by purchases of cash wheat from the old crop, it had been made clear that such action would continue only as long as the new crop was not a factor in the market. This factor developed, he pointed out, with receipts of sizable wheat shipments from the Panhandle district in Texas.

Rumors that the board's decision not to support the 1930 crop further had resulted from the fact that it was "broke," were emphatically denied by Chairman Stone, who said such reports were "absolutely false." He declined, however, to make public the state of the board's finances, saying, "We have never announced the condition of our finances except in the annual report to congress and such information will not be given until all holdings have been disposed of. There are too many people who are not in sympathy with the policies of the farm board for us to place our economics in their hands."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 4.—The bull jubilee clicked off another highly successful day on the stock exchange. New found enthusiasm over the many "bargains" on the list revealed in the light of yesterday's sudden burst of strength brought buying orders sweeping in from every point of the compass and set prices bobbing 1 to 5 points higher in all departments.

The vigor and width of the rally's extension was hailed by longs as the long-awaited "turn" and brokerage house experts were generous in their predictions tonight that still better things are in store for the movement. Certainly it has been the most impressive exhibition the market has provided in months. Trading reached the heaviest proportions since about the middle of April in the afternoon session and for the day as a whole was second in volume only to yesterday's total, amounting to 3,200,000 shares.

Stampede Amateur Shorts.

"Amateur" shorts were stampeded afresh as group leaders showed the way to rising price levels and the advance in many of the lower priced issues, in which small time traders have been testing out their new-found roads to paper fortunes, was quite spectacular. There were news items of more than ordinary moment, too, to encourage constructive operators in their efforts, one of them being the announcement by several large brokerage firms that their margin requirements had been lowered, thus passing on to the customers the advantage granted by leading banks yesterday in cutting loan margins from 25 to 20 per cent.

Sentiment was further helped by cheerful statements of opinion of news of industrial activity from several busi-

CHICAGO STOCKS ENJOY BEST DAY IN RECENT WEEKS

Nearly All Shares Benefit —Utilities Irregular.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Chicago market enjoyed its best day in recent weeks yesterday when a wide variety of stocks were carried forward for gains ranging from one to three points. The advance extended to nearly all sections of the list and was marred only by the continued irregularity in the utility issues.

Sentiment in the financial district was distinctly improved. While there remained a grect deal of skepticism as to whether the market had really "turned the corner" the tape readers were cheered by the spectacle of advancing prices which has been seen so infrequently of late.

Reduce Margin Requirements.

An indication of the general feeling was the action taken by several large brokerage houses in reducing margin requirements following the similar action taken Wednesday by some of the New York houses.

Market sponsors of several issues on the Chicago exchange took advantage of the turn of affairs to dress up prices of their stocks. Gains of 1 to 2 points were the rule among the active shares with the improvement in several instances amounting to 3 points or so. Conspicuous in the advance were such shares as Marshall Field, Swift, International, Walgreen, McWilliams Dredging, Iron Fireman, and Great Lakes Dredge.

The 17 points drop in Commonwealth Edison had little general influence but was a disturbing factor in the other Insull shares. When Edison rallied to 215 Insull Utility and Middle West recovered from their lows. Insull Utility was off only a fraction from its previous day's close when the session ended and Middle West was slightly improved.

Debentures Rise Sharply.

Sharp recovery in Insull Utility debentures featured trading in the bond group. On the final transaction this issue brought 79½ which was 3½ above Wednesday's final price. A brisk trade in Chicago Railway first mortgage fives resulted in a fractional gain.

Dividend action was reported yesterday on several stocks. Insull Utility announced the regular stock dividend on the common stock and cash distributions on the preferred stock. Acme Steel reported its regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents on common. The company reported that sales have shown an increase each month this year. Noblitt Sparks Industries declared its regular dividend on the capital stock.

Depositors of Montrose Trust Will Meet Tonight

Plans for reorganizing the Montrose Trust and Savings bank will be considered at a mass meeting of depositors tonight in Fraternity Temple hall, 4328 North Kedzie avenue. At a meeting last week a depositors' protective committee, headed by B. A. Rooney and Charles R. Solon, was appointed to draw up a plan of reorganization and enlist the support of depositors.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Money in Chicago 5@6 per cent on collateral. 3@3½ per cent over the counter; commercial paper, 2¼@3 per cent. Chicago clearings yesterday were $73,200,000, compared with $69,000,000 a week ago and $103,700,000 a year ago.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP)—Call money, steady; 1½ per cent all day. Time loans, steady; 60 days, 1@1½ per cent; 3-4 months, 1½@2; 6-5 months, 1@1½ per cent. Prime commercial paper, 2@2½ per cent. Bankers' acceptances, unchanged. Bar silver, 26⅝c.

STOCKS LEAP UP IN SECOND DAY OF BULL RALLY

Share Market Strongest in Many Months.

...leaders of prominence, including President H. W. Phelps of the American Can company, Frederick B. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register company, and George Eastman, chairman of the Eastman Kodak company.

A sparkling feature of todays' fresh advance was the brilliant performance of the railroad shares. These stocks had been among the most heavily sold on the recent decline and, accordingly, covering in that part of the list has become particularly active. Upturns of 1 to 5 points were the rule in stocks like Pennsylvania, New York Central, Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island, Frisco, Chesapeake and Ohio and Illinois Central. Rock Island 6 per cent preferreds topped the list with a gain of 10 points, while Union Pacific was up 7 points at the finish of operations.

U. S. Steel Shoots Upward.

United States Steel clinched its regained honors as the market's leader by shooting up to 92¾, a gain of more than 3 points on top of yesterday's rise. Two days ago U. S. Steel was selling at 83¼. American Can, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Radio corporation, Allied Chemical and other recognized way showers were in good demand and plugged ahead for additional gains of 1 to 2 points or more.

Special activity appeared in the Agricultural Implement shares, Case Threshing Machine rushing ahead for nearly 3 points on a flood of good-sized buying orders. Eastman Kodak scored a similar gain on assurance that the dividend would be maintained and Woolworth sprang to the front in the merchandise group following a statement by H. T. Parson, president of the corporation, that sales this month probably would make up the entire loss from last year shown so far in 1931.

Utilities Have Big Day.

Public utilities had a big day, with American Telephone climbing more than 4 points and People Gas, the big Chicago "Blue Chip" topping its performance with a gain of 7. Columbia Gas and Electric attracted a spirited following on announcement that its dividend rate had been maintained contrary to expectations.

As on Wednesday, the rally reached its most impressive scope in the late trading. Profit taking made for considerable irregularity in the early dealing and for a time threatened to turn the course of events backward, as operations turned into the afternoon, however, prices began to point definitely upward and the rise continued to gain in sweep and momentum right through to the close.

Furniture Mart Will Hold 2 Annual Shows in Future

Two furniture shows instead of one as at present will be held every year, the board of governors of the American Furniture mart have decided. The new schedule calls for markets opening the first Monday after Jan. 1 and the first Monday after July 4. The next furniture style show, according to this plan, will be held in Chicago, Jan. 4 to 16, 1932. The action of the board of governors resolves difficulties which have arisen over the most desirable time of year in which to conduct the exhibits.

Business Personals

Silver Farm Equipment Sales company has announced the resignation of L. H. Bloom as general sales manager.

The election of Alvin K. Schoef as chairman of the board of directors and Perry D. Richards as a director is announced by the General Printing Ink corporation.

W. S. Mills, James M. Delaney and Joseph D. Daly today were elected directors of the Transformer corporation. Other directors, with the exception of E. R. Doyle, John A. Siragusa, Jon E. Burke, and Harry Ellis, were reflected. The board was reduced from nine members to seven.

F. K. Ainsroth has been named advertising manager of the Owens-Illinois Glass company.

GRAIN COMMISSION PLACES APPROVAL ON FUTURES TRADING

OTTAWA, June 4.—(AP)—Vindication for future trading in grain—a system which has been the center of controversy in farm areas—was contained in a report presented today to the house of commons by a royal commission.

The commission, headed by Sir Josiah Stamp, British economist, found that dealing in grain futures in benefited on the whole.

While it might give rise to minor agitation in prices and arouse distrust in the minds of some farmers, the report said, it benefited growers by furnishing insurance for the handling of grain and providing an ever-ready, convenient means of marketing. It also enables marketing to be conducted on a small margin, it brings advantages which are reflected, at least in part, in the price the farmers receive, the report stated.

It creats a check on certain features of the grain exchange and to lessen the suspicions of farmers the report suggested closer government supervision and, possibly, control.

No official might be named to be "behind the scenes" at all times in the grain market, it said. Complaints of farmers or traders could be referred to him and investigated. He might then suggest improvements to the grain trade.

Receipts of all kinds of stock are smaller than a week ago. The first four days' receipts at 20 markets show a decrease of 18 per cent in cattle, 16 per cent in hogs and about 3 per cent in sheep. The total of all kinds is below any corresponding week in recent years.

The receipts of hogs at the eleven leading markets in the east and middle west this week, the first week in June, are expected to fall short of 425,000. This total is below any corresponding period in more than 15 years and compares with an eight year average of 633,000. Outside demand is smaller than a week ago, but the proportion going to shippers is about the same due to the shortage in supplies.

Prices ruled steady to 15c higher yesterday, medium and weighty stock again scoring the most gains. The extreme top moved up 10c at $6.40, while the general at $6.05 showed 5c gain. Prevailing quotations are mostly 20@35c above the low time last Thursday. Most of the 5,000 left at the close were held off the market. Five western markets report 43,000 in sight for today, against 41,100 last Friday.

September Hogs at $7.00.

Heavy hogs for September delivery sold at $7.00 again yesterday, although trading in other contracts continued slow. Light weights for September delivery were offered at $7.25 and bid $6.90 for the last half. On the "to arrive" market, light weights for today's delivery were bid $6.30.

Yearlings and light weight steers held the 75c to $1.00 gain scored the first three days of the week, while medium and weighty stock slipped back a notch when demand showed a preference for cattle weighing under 1,100 lbs, yesterday. Choice $44 lb yearlings topped the price list at $8.50, although $8.25 was paid for 672 lb baby beef heifers, indicating the brisk call for suitable weights.

None of the heavy beeves reached $8.00. Most heifers are selling $1.00 above last week's close, while sales of cows lately show gains of 25@75c for the week. Best calves ruled strong to higher, but "grassy" stock was hard to dispose of. Stockers and feeders remained quiet.

Idaho Lambs Bring $10.25.

Losses of 50c were recorded in the market for all lambs yesterday, good grades sharing in the sharp price cut. The extreme top for Idaho range lambs stopped at $10.25, while natives were sorted closely at $9.75 and below. Culls sold at $6.00@7.00. Prevailing lamb quotations are $1.75@2.00 below the level in vogue the middle of last month. Yearlings sold at $7.00@8.10, showing the full decline yesterday.

Aged sheep ruled steady to 25c lower, heavy mutton stock losing most. Supplies at leading markets keep light, which is usual for a short period about this time of the year before the movement of range lambs reaches full swing. Only three Thursday totals in the last four months were smaller.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 16,000 hogs and 7,000 sheep, against 1,354 cattle, 18,228 hogs and 11,652 sheep, the previous Friday, and 2,157 cattle, 22,047 hogs, and 12,518 sheep a year ago.

CANADIAN CROP CONDITIONS

that there is a widening area in Manitoba where the crop is actually suffering for moisture is indicated by reports to Fraser & Co. from elevator and grain men at various points in western Canada. Farmers are compelled to haul water for stock and the wheat, while green, is not growing nor stooling. In Saskatchewan there has been no rain. Surface soil is dry and damage from drifting is more evident every day. Crops in southern and central parts of Alberta has relieved crop worries," says the Canadian Free Press.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally advertised Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.
